Big Dogfight Costs Reds Three Planes

Chinese Digging In Near Pyonggang

U. S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Thursday, July 12 (AP)—A spectacular air battle that ranged from 33,000 feet down to 3,000 cost the Communists three MIG-15 jet fighters Wednesday.

Thirty-four Allied Sabrejets destroyed the Russian-built planes and damaged another in a 20-minute dogfight over Northwestern Korea.

The Sabres encountered an estimated 30 MIGs while flying cover for 21 F-80 Shooting Stars which attacked an ammunition factory south of the Yalu River.

Bomb Rail Yards

Thirteen B-29 Superforts bombed railway yards at Hwangju, south of the North Korean capital of Pyongyang, and at Hungnam, on the east coast.

Battlefront reports gave this picture of ground action:

Central Front—more than 2,000 Chinese were digging new positions northeast of Pyonggang, northern apex of the erstwhile "Iron Triangle."

"This is the first time such a large number has been seen in the open," one Allied officer said. "But it is not surprising they are there. The Chinese have formed an extremely strong line along this entire sector."

Allied patrols covered the lower two-thirds of the triangle without meeting Communists.

Ships Reported Sunk

Western Front — Patrol contact and artillery fire was reported in the Munsan area, near the base for the United Nations armistice team.

U. S. battleships and destroyers continued to bombard the East Korean coast. The North Korean radio at Pyongyang broadcast an unconfirmed report that three Allied warships had been sunk by Red gunfire on the west coast.

Open New Base

CASABLANCA, July 11. (AP) — About 20 U. S. Superfortresses and jet fighters will land at the newly built American airbase near here next Saturday.

The planes will come from both European and U. S. bases. It is one of five or seven bases planned for Morocco.

Joint Group Kills Senate Funds Rider

Would Open Relief Rolls To Public

WASHINGTON, July 11 (AP)—A Senate-House Conference Committee today discharged a Senate provision in an appropriation bill which would have allowed states to open their relief rolls to public inspection without the threat of losing federal welfare funds.

That was one of the final actions as the conferees finished the job of compromising Senate and House versions of the Labor-Federal Security Appropriation Bill.

Disregard Payroll Cuts

By another late decision the committee backed away from both House and Senate plans for deep cuts in Federal payrolls.

Committee aides figured that the compromise total of funds for the Labor Department and Federal security agencies comes to about $2,528,000,000. This compares with $2,523,678,000 approved by the Senate, $2,641,206,000 in the House bill and $2,744,253,000 asked by President Truman.

The measure is the first regular appropriation bill for fiscal 1952, which began July 1, to come out of conference for final acceptance by both branches. Ten more are to come.

State To Lose

The relief rolls rider was attached in the Senate under the sponsorship of Senator Jenner (R-Ind). As a result of its elimination Indiana faces the prospect of losing $18,000,000 a year in welfare funds it gets from the Federal government.

The 1952 Indiana legislature passed a law opening the public assistance lists to the public. The Social Security Administration then moved to shut off the funds, under the Federal law requiring secrecy. ESA Administrator Oscar Ewing, however, held up final action pending decision on the Jenner rider.

Two Dead, Many Are Missing As Record Floods Cause Untold Damage In Kansas

Thousands Flee Raging Waters In Mid-West

TOPEKA, Kas., July 11 (AP) —The biggest flood in this state's history buffeted Eastern Kansas cities and towns tonight, bringing death to at least two persons, marooning hundreds, and forcing 10,000 more to flee their homes.

The raging waters, sweeping down upon an area that has been flooded and re-flooded for two months, brought untold millions of dollars damage to homes, business establishments and farm crops.

And even this picture will darken, the weatherman told the water weary Kansans. Torrential rains in the watersheds of half a dozen rivers have not yet brought the full force of the overflow to the lower reaches of the streams.

Transportation Stopped

Transportation was practically at a standstill. The big rail center at Kansas City, that funnels half a dozen major lines through Kansas to the West Coast, had its worst snarl in history.

Dozens of trains were stopped there or had to be re-routed. Six Santa Fe trains were stranded at Empora, 130 miles southwest of Kansas City, with more than 1,000 passengers. The highway situation was even worse. The main transcontinental routes were cut in more than 100 places.

The Air Force, National Guard, Coast Guard, Marines and Red Cross responded to calls for aid in the flooded regions. Hardest hit by the raging waters were Manhattan, Strong City, Council Grove, Ottawa, Marion and Florence.

The deaths occurred at Manhattan and Emporia. Capt. Eugene Duffy, Ft. Riley, Kas., was electrocuted at a flooded downtown intersection in Manhattan. E. V. Lindmood drowned at Emporia when his boat capsized.

Two more drownings were reported just across the state line at Kansas City. Identification of the victims was not immediately available.

Boy Is Missing

A 12-year-old boy, James Harding of Riley, Kas., was reported missing in Junction City. The youth was swept downstream when a boat which he and two men occupied overturned in the swift Smoky Hill waters. The two men grabbed trees and were rescued.

The rivers giving the most trouble were these:

The Kansas (KAW) formed by a junction of the Smoky Hill and Solomon Rivers west of Manhattan and flowing eastward to Kansas City; the Neosho, that flows from a point 50 miles south of Manhattan southeastward through Emporia, and on to the Oklahoma line; the Cottonwood that flows eastward and joins the Neosho at Emporia, and the Marais Des Cygne which flows eastward into Missouri to form the Grand River about 75 miles due south of Kansas City.

In this state capitol on the Kansas River, the water is expected to reach the unprecedented height of 33 feet tomorrow night. The city proper, on the south bank of the river, is never flooded, but North Topeka's 10,000 residents are leaving their homes or preparing to do so.

Communist Cells Once Operated On State University Campuses

Housewife, Former FBI Agent, Testifies At Senate Crime Committee's Hearing

ASHINGTON, July 11 (AP)—A pretty Virginia housewife, who served seven years as an FBI spy in Communist ranks, testified today that Communist campus cells once operated at two Maryland universities.

Mrs. Mary Stalcup Markward, 29, the mother of two children, told the House Unamerican Activities Committee that the Reds also sneaked cells into Baltimore steel plants in 1945.

And she named a former Capital reporter for Columnist Drew Pearson as a Communist party member. Pearson replied that he discharged the man as soon as he found out about him.

Mrs. Markward said one of the campus cells was set up at the University of Maryland, College Park, Md. "There were only four members, as I recall," she said. "They were not really too active."

She testified that the Communist Party's white collar section established another cell at Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore but did not say how many members it had.

Meanwhile, the Senate's Internal Security Committee prepared to go tomorrow to New York City to question Millionaire Frederick Vanderbilt Field about the bail put up for Communist leaders, four of whom skipped.

Senator McCarran (D-Nev), committee chairman, told reporters the group had decided not to try to take Field "from the jurisdiction of the New York Court." The Senator said a committee subpoena for Field's appearance in Washington had been issued before Field was cited and sentenced to jail for contempt of court in New York.

Mrs. Markward, who worked in a Washington beauty shop while she spied on the Communists, said she believes the Communist Party still has cells operating in the District of Columbia and Maryland. She did not say whether the Red cells in Maryland's steel plants and colleges were still operating.

Big Rubber Doll Saves Youngster From Drowning

PRESTON, Idaho, July 11 (AP)—Two-year-old Coleen Cherrington fell into an irrigation stream near her home yesterday. In her arms she held a 23 inch long rubber doll.

A neighbor found the child 80 feet down stream, still clutching the doll. He said the girl likely would have drowned if she had not had the doll. Its buoyancy kept the child afloat.

21,500 Auto Workers Idled By Disputes

DETROIT, July 11 (AP) — Some 21,500 auto workers were idle today in two production disputes.

Chrysler Corp. said 6,000 employes walked out of its Plymouth plant protesting the firing of one worker accused of failing to do the work assigned to him.

Subsequently, Briggs Manufacturing Co. sent home 5,500 employes because the bodies it produces for Plymouth began to pile up.

For the 22nd straight working day, Hudson Motor Car Co. send its 10,000 employes home in a dispute over production schedules.

ROME, July 11 (AP) — Premier Alcide De Gasperi's government today won by a narrow eight-vote margin the Chamber of Deputies' approval of a civil defense bill. It had been the target of violent Leftist attacks for the past two months.

Girl, Born Without Legs, Walks For Queen Mother

LONDON, July 11. (AP)—Little Doreen Hardman, born 12 years ago without any legs, took the first steps of her life today to hand Britain's 84-year-old Queen Mother Mary a bouquet.

The scene was the annual garden party of Queen Mary's Hospital, where doctors had just fitted Doreen with new artificial legs. Queen Mary was the honored guest.

The little girl was tearfully dubious of her ability to walk until the doctors told her she could present the traditional bouquet to the Queen.

A nurse wheeled Doreen to the receiving line. As the little girl rose unsteadily from her wheel chair, the Queen Mother frowned in sympathy.

"The child needn't have come to me," the Queen whispered. "I could have gone to her."

Doreen took her first tottering steps and crossed the 10-foot space to the Queen without a mishap.

Economic Controls Debate Forgotten In Battle Over Atomic Attack Safeguards

Plan Loses 134-79; Fight Is Sectional

WASHINGTON, July 11 (AP)—The House, locked in a battle over economic controls, today rejected a proposal to authorize President Truman to "disperse" new defense plants as a safeguard against atomic attack. The vote was 134 to 79. Veering away from the main price controls fight, the debate on dispersal developed mostly along sectional lines.

Both Democrats and Republicans from the industrial East, fearful of losing heavy industry to the South or West, attacked the proposal as "socialistic" and as "regimentation" of industry.

South Supports Plan

Chief support for the plan came from Southern legislators.

The dispersal plan was offered by the House Banking Committee as an amendment to the proposed new Defense Production Act carrying various emergency control power. The amendment had not been requested by the administration.

Badly buffeted in the preliminary voting, the administration continued to sound alarms about the future if Congress curbs the Federal controls program.

Price Director Michael V. DiSalle told a news conference that auto prices will be raised if price rollbacks are barred by law.

He also hinted that meat price control is already tottering.

DiSalle said livestock marketing is up since yesterday's House vote against government-fixed slaughtering quotas, "but so is the price."

The Federal official said apparently the only thing the slaughterers feared was the loss of their quotas, and he declared:

"They are not paying much attention to price."

Stalling Tactics

Under present control regulations, slaughterers must register with the government in order to obtain their quotas specifying how many cattle they may slaughter for market.

The penalty for a slaughterer violating price ceilings is loss of his quota which would put him out of business. But DiSalle said some slaughterers apparently think the quota system already has been abolished.

With the House now in its third day of voting, the struggle over price controls turned at least temporarily into a merry-go-round of stalling tactics as administration leaders waited with dwindling hope for a wave of "grass roots" support.

U. S. To Send Harriman To Iran For Talk

Premier Mossadegh Will Receive Advisor

WASHINGTON, July 11 (AP) — President Truman's top troubleshooter packed his bags tonight for a flight to Tehran and a dramatic bid to end the billion dollar oil dispute between Britain and Iran.

The White House announced that V. Averell Harriman, the President's special foreign affairs advisor, would leave within the next 48 hours.

11th Hour Agreement

The eleventh-hour attempt to resolve the explosive oil crisis followed polite agreement by Iranian Premier Mohammed Mossadegh to receive Harriman. But there were no signs the Nationalist leader intended to compromise with the British.

Mr. Truman sent the Premier a letter Monday urging him to accept World Court recommendations to halt Iran's oil nationalization plans pending a joint settlement.

Presumably, Harriman will try to persuade the ailing Mossadegh to accept the Court's decision which also calls for appointment of a joint British-Iranian commission to supervise temporarily the British-owned Anglo-Iranian Oil Company.

Company Withdraws

The company today withdrew its last five British experts from Gach Saran oilfield, 200 miles east of its giant Abadan refinery. The British already have shut off pipelines to the refinery.

The oil company is seeking to force a showdown on Iranian boasts they can operate the far-flung industry without British technicians.

Harriman conferred with the President and Secretary of State Acheson tonight in last-minute talks before his departure.

The talks may decide whether Harriman will confer with the Iranian Premier only or also with the British.

Underwater Quake Recorded In Japan

TOKYO, Thursday, July 12 (AP)—An earthquake deep in the Pacific shook the Tokyo-Yokohama area at 4:23 a. m. today (1:13 p. m., Wednesday, EST), it was felt through most of Honshu Island.

The Japanese central meteorological observatory placed the epicenter about 180 miles northwest of the Bonin Islands, due west of Japan.

Two Marines Killed By Mortar Explosion

CAMP PENDLETON, Calif., July 11 (AP) — Two Marines were killed, 11 were hospitalized and six others were injured less seriously when a mortar shell exploded 20 feet from a gun position today.

Attorney Dies

SILVER SPRING, Md., July 11 (AP) — Joseph Clarke Cissel, 52, former state's attorney for Montgomery County died today in Bethesda Naval Hospital. He had been ill for about a week.

Skilled Worker Shortages Creating Labor Problems

WASHINGTON, July 11 (AP)—Shortages of certain skilled and semi-skilled workers are "more widespread and troublesome than at any previous time since Korea," the Labor Department's Bureau of Employment Security said today.

The new strains on the nation's manpower are developing under the combined impact of the defense program and continued heavy civilian output.

Robert C. Goodwin, head of the bureau and executive director of the Defense Manpower Administration, said that while no overall labor shortage has yet developed, the employment situation seems to be tightening.

That means getting men for jobs is becoming harder and harder.

But while some employers are having trouble finding men to fill jobs, in some areas workers are losing their jobs. These are principally in industries like automobile manufacturing where materials diverted to defense production are resulting in curtailed civilian production; or in industries converting to defense work.

The latest census figures show 61,803,000 employed in June, 1951, compared with 61,482,000 in June, 1950. However non-farm employment is up 1,400,000 over a year ago to a total of 53,768,000—an all time high for June. About 8,000,000 are employed in agriculture, or a million fewer than last year.

Commies Bar Press Convoy From Confab

Allies Refuse New Talks After Order

TOKYO, Thursday, July 12 (AP)—Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's Supreme Headquarters announced today Korean cease-fire talks have been broken off temporarily because the Communists refused to allow Allied newsmen in Kaesong.

MUNSAN, Korea, Thursday, July 12 (AP) — High-level talks seeking an end of the Korean War hit at least a temporary snag today when the Reds barred 20 Allied newsmen from going to the Communist-held peace-talk city of Kaesong.

The senior member of the U. N. delegation, Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, indicated the third day of talks would not open until the convoy containing the newsmen was allowed to pass.

Joy and the rest of the U. N. delegation were still at this forward Allied "peace camp" two and one half hours after their scheduled time of departure for Kaesong, 12 miles northwest. The official party has been traveling in helicopters.

Sentiment of officers in Seoul, was that the delay in the talks was only temporary. They felt the matter would be ironed out during the day with the meetings resumed.

The hitch developed after an Allied delegation spokesman Wednesday night reported the talks were "on the tracks" despite indications the Allies would refuse to discuss a Red demand that they get out of Korea.

Admiral Joy messaged Gen. Nam Il, of North Korea, leader of the Communists' delegation, that the newsmen's convoy had been refused passage and he had ordered it to return to U. N. lines.

"I am prepared," the message said, "to return with my delegation and continue the discussions which were recessed yesterday upon notification from you that my convoy bearing personnel of my choosing, including such press representation I consider necessary, will be cleared to the conference site."

The convoy of newsmen left here in a truck at 7:27 a.m. (4:27 p.m. EST, Wednesday). Joy said it was halted at 9:30 a.m. by armed Communist guards at a Red control post on the Munsan-Kaesong road.

The Communists have opposed admission of Allied newsmen to Kaesong, at least during the present uncertain stage of discussions.

They did agree yesterday, however, to the presence of five Army photographers. Five news, television and newsreel photographers, accredited to the U. S. Eighth Army, were admitted to Kaesong yesterday.

Communist photographers are in Kaesong and an Allied officer who helped arrange the high-level talks Sunday said he believed, but was not sure, that newsmen also were present.

Official expressions of optimism came last night after the conclusion

Missing Boat Search Dropped

PORT HURON, Mich., July 11. (AP) — A dramatic 20-hour long air search for two missing fishermen, part of a four-member fishing party, was dropped late today.

It appeared that the treacherous winds and currents of Lake Huron had claimed the lives of three of the party, which set out from Lexington, 20 miles away.

The missing men are Clarence Smith, 40, of Detroit, and Aubert Krass, 64, a lay brother at the Catholic St. Joseph's boys school in Buffalo.

The body of a third person, Mrs. Muriel Koerber, 35, of Detroit, washed ashore at midnight Tuesday. The fourth, Mrs. Gretchen Davis, 24, was rescued shortly after winds upset their rowboat.

She was the only one of three unable to swim and had been given the boat's only life preserver. When she last saw the other three, she said, they were clinging to the overturned boat.

Communist Cells Once Operated On State University Campuses

Housewife, Former FBI Agent, Testifies At Senate Crime Committee's Hearing

ASHINGTON, July 11 (AP)—A pretty Virginia housewife, who served seven years as an FBI spy in Communist ranks, testified today that Communist campus cells once operated at two Maryland universities.

Mrs. Mary Stalcup Markward, 29, the mother of two children, told the House Unamerican Activities Committee that the Reds also sneaked cells into Baltimore steel plants in 1945.

And she named a former Capital reporter for Columnist Drew Pearson as a Communist party member. Pearson replied that he discharged the man as soon as he found out about him.

Mrs. Markward said one of the campus cells was set up at the University of Maryland, College Park, Md. "There were only four members, as I recall," she said. "They were not really too active."

She testified that the Communist Party's white collar section established another cell at Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore but did not say how many members it had.

Meanwhile, the Senate's Internal Security Committee prepared to go tomorrow to New York City to question Millionaire Frederick Vanderbilt Field about the bail put up for Communist leaders, four of whom skipped.

Senator McCarran (D-Nev), committee chairman, told reporters the group had decided not to try to take Field "from the jurisdiction of the New York Court." The Senator said a committee subpoena for Field's appearance in Washington had been issued before Field was cited and sentenced to jail for contempt of court in New York.

Mrs. Markward, who worked in a Washington beauty shop while she spied on the Communists, said she believes the Communist Party still has cells operating in the District of Columbia and Maryland. She did not say whether the Red cells in Maryland's steel plants and colleges were still operating.

Bill Wins Okay

ROME, July 11 (AP) — Premier Alcide De Gasperi's government today won by a narrow eight-vote margin the Chamber of Deputies' approval of a civil defense bill. It had been the target of violent Leftist attacks for the past two months.

Big Rubber Doll Saves Youngster From Drowning

PRESTON, Idaho, July 11 (AP)—Two-year-old Coleen Cherrington fell into an irrigation stream near her home yesterday. In her arms she held a 23 inch long rubber doll.

A neighbor found the child 80 feet down stream, still clutching the doll. He said the girl likely would have drowned if she had not had the doll. Its buoyancy kept the child afloat.

21,500 Auto Workers Idled By Disputes

DETROIT, July 11 (AP) — Some 21,500 auto workers were idle today in two production disputes.

Chrysler Corp. said 6,000 employes walked out of its Plymouth plant protesting the firing of one worker accused of failing to do the work assigned to him.

Subsequently, Briggs Manufacturing Co. sent home 5,500 employes because the bodies it produces for Plymouth began to pile up.

Samuel Goldwyns Are Grandparents

HOLLYWOOD, July 11 (AP)—Film Producer Samuel Goldwyn and his wife were notified by cable from France today that they have become grandparents.

To their son and daughter-in-law, Lieut. and Mrs. Samuel Goldwyn, Jr., a girl was born at the American Hospital in Paris.

Girl, Born Without Legs, Walks For Queen Mother

LONDON, July 11. (AP)—Little Doreen Hardman, born 12 years ago without any legs, took the first steps of her life today to hand Britain's 84-year-old Queen Mother Mary a bouquet.

The scene was the annual garden party of Queen Mary's Hospital, where doctors had just fitted Doreen with new artificial legs. Queen Mary was the honored guest.

The little girl was tearfully dubious of her ability to walk until the doctors told her she could present the traditional bouquet to the Queen.

A nurse wheeled Doreen to the receiving line. As the little girl rose unsteadily from her wheel chair, the Queen Mother frowned in sympathy.

"The child needn't have come to me," the Queen whispered. "I could have gone to her."

House Rejects Defense Plant Dispersal

Plan Loses 134-79; Fight Is Sectional

WASHINGTON, July 11 (AP)—The House, locked in a battle over economic controls, today rejected a proposal to authorize President Truman to "disperse" new defense plants as a safeguard against atomic attack. The vote was 134 to 79. Veering away from the main price controls fight, the debate on dispersal developed mostly along sectional lines.

Both Democrats and Republicans from the industrial East, fearful of losing heavy industry to the South or West, attacked the proposal as "socialistic" and as "regimentation" of industry.

South Supports Plan

Chief support for the plan came from Southern legislators.

The dispersal plan was offered by the House Banking Committee as an amendment to the proposed new Defense Production Act carrying various emergency control power. The amendment had not been requested by the administration.

Badly buffeted in the preliminary voting, the administration continued to sound alarms about the future if Congress curbs the Federal controls program.

Price Director Michael V. DiSalle told a news conference that auto prices will be raised if price rollbacks are barred by law.

He also hinted that meat price control is already tottering.

DiSalle said livestock marketing is up since yesterday's House vote against government-fixed slaughtering quotas, "but so is the price."

The Federal official said apparently the only thing the slaughterers feared was the loss of their quotas, and he declared:

"They are not paying much attention to price."

Stalling Tactics

Under present control regulations, slaughterers must register with the government in order to obtain their quotas specifying how many cattle they may slaughter for market.

The penalty for a slaughterer violating price ceilings is loss of his quota which would put him out of business. But DiSalle said some slaughterers apparently think the quota system already has been abolished.

With the House now in its third day of voting, the struggle over price controls turned at least temporarily into a merry-go-round of stalling tactics as administration leaders waited with dwindling hope for a wave of "grass roots" support.

U. S. To Send Harriman To Iran For Talk

Premier Mossadegh Will Receive Advisor

WASHINGTON, July 11 (AP) — President Truman's top troubleshooter packed his bags tonight for a flight to Tehran and a dramatic bid to end the billion dollar oil dispute between Britain and Iran.

The White House announced that V. Averell Harriman, the President's special foreign affairs advisor, would leave within the next 48 hours.

11th Hour Agreement

The eleventh-hour attempt to resolve the explosive oil crisis followed polite agreement by Iranian Premier Mohammed Mossadegh to receive Harriman. But there were no signs the Nationalist leader intended to compromise with the British.

Mr. Truman sent the Premier a letter Monday urging him to accept World Court recommendations to halt Iran's oil nationalization plans pending a joint settlement.

Presumably, Harriman will try to persuade the ailing Mossadegh to accept the Court's decision which also calls for appointment of a joint British-Iranian commission to supervise temporarily the British-owned Anglo-Iranian Oil Company.

Company Withdraws

The company today withdrew its last five British experts from Gach Saran oilfield, 200 miles east of its giant Abadan refinery. The British already have shut off pipelines to the refinery.

The oil company is seeking to force a showdown on Iranian boasts they can operate the far-flung industry without British technicians.

Harriman conferred with the President and Secretary of State Acheson tonight in last-minute talks before his departure.

The talks may decide whether Harriman will confer with the Iranian Premier only or also with the British.

Underwater Quake Recorded In Japan

TOKYO, Thursday, July 12 (AP)—An earthquake deep in the Pacific shook the Tokyo-Yokohama area at 4:23 a. m. today (1:13 p. m., Wednesday, EST), it was felt through most of Honshu Island.

The Japanese central meteorological observatory placed the epicenter about 180 miles northwest of the Bonin Islands, due west of Japan.

Two Marines Killed By Mortar Explosion

CAMP PENDLETON, Calif., July 11 (AP) — Two Marines were killed, 11 were hospitalized and six others were injured less seriously when a mortar shell exploded 20 feet from a gun position today.

Maj. K. A. Angell, commanding officer of the Fourth Marine Training Battalion, said the accident was caused by faulty ammunition. Approximately 55 Marines, training as mortarmen, were on the range using 81 MM. mortars.

Attorney Dies

SILVER SPRING, Md., July 11 (AP) — Joseph Clarke Cissel, 52, former state's attorney for Montgomery County died today in Bethesda Naval Hospital. He had been ill for about a week.

Skilled Worker Shortages Creating Labor Problems

WASHINGTON, July 11 (AP)—Shortages of certain skilled and semi-skilled workers are "more widespread and troublesome than at any previous time since Korea," the Labor Department's Bureau of Employment Security said today.

The new strains on the nation's manpower are developing under the combined impact of the defense program and continued heavy civilian output.

Robert C. Goodwin, head of the bureau and executive director of the Defense Manpower Administration, said that while no overall labor shortage has yet developed, the employment situation seems to be tightening.

That means getting men for jobs is becoming harder and harder.

But while some employers are having trouble finding men to fill jobs, in some areas workers are losing their jobs. These are principally in industries like automobile manufacturing where materials diverted to defense production are resulting in curtailed civilian production; or in industries converting to defense work.

The latest census figures show 61,803,000 employed in June, 1951, compared with 61,482,000 in June, 1950. However non-farm employment is up 1,400,000 over a year ago to a total of 53,768,000—an all time high for June. About 8,000,000 are employed in agriculture, or a million fewer than last year.

Commies Bar Press Convoy From Confab

Allies Refuse New Talks After Order

TOKYO, Thursday, July 12 (AP)—Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's Supreme Headquarters announced today Korean cease-fire talks have been broken off temporarily because the Communists refused to allow Allied newsmen in Kaesong.

MUNSAN, Korea, Thursday, July 12 (AP) — High-level talks seeking an end of the Korean War hit at least a temporary snag today when the Reds barred 20 Allied newsmen from going to the Communist-held peace-talk city of Kaesong.

The senior member of the U. N. delegation, Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, indicated the third day of talks would not open until the convoy containing the newsmen was allowed to pass.

Joy and the rest of the U. N. delegation were still at this forward Allied "peace camp" two and one half hours after their scheduled time of departure for Kaesong, 12 miles northwest. The official party has been traveling in helicopters.

Sentiment of officers in Seoul, was that the delay in the talks was only temporary. They felt the matter would be ironed out during the day with the meetings resumed.

The hitch developed after an Allied delegation spokesman Wednesday night reported the talks were "on the tracks" despite indications the Allies would refuse to discuss a Red demand that they get out of Korea.

Admiral Joy messaged Gen. Nam Il, of North Korea, leader of the Communists' delegation, that the newsmen's convoy had been refused passage and he had ordered it to return to U. N. lines.

"I am prepared," the message said, "to return with my delegation and continue the discussions which were recessed yesterday upon notification from you that my convoy bearing personnel of my choosing, including such press representation I consider necessary, will be cleared to the conference site."

The convoy of newsmen left here in a truck at 7:27 a.m. (4:27 p.m. EST, Wednesday). Joy said it was halted at 9:30 a.m. by armed Communist guards at a Red control post on the Munsan-Kaesong road.

The Communists have opposed admission of Allied newsmen to Kaesong, at least during the present uncertain stage of discussions.

They did agree yesterday, however, to the presence of five Army photographers. Five news, television and newsreel photographers, accredited to the U. S. Eighth Army, were admitted to Kaesong yesterday.

Communist photographers are in Kaesong and an Allied officer who helped arrange the high-level talks Sunday said he believed, but was not sure, that newsmen also were present.

Official expressions of optimism came last night after the conclusion

Missing Boat Search Dropped

PORT HURON, Mich., July 11. (AP) — A dramatic 20-hour long air search for two missing fishermen, part of a four-member fishing party, was dropped late today.

It appeared that the treacherous winds and currents of Lake Huron had claimed the lives of three of the party, which set out from Lexington, 20 miles away.

The missing men are Clarence Smith, 40, of Detroit, and Aubert Krass, 64, a lay brother at the Catholic St. Joseph's boys school in Buffalo.

The body of a third person, Mrs. Muriel Koerber, 35, of Detroit, washed ashore at midnight Tuesday. The fourth, Mrs. Gretchen Davis, 24, was rescued shortly after winds upset their rowboat.

She was the only one of three unable to swim and had been given the boat's only life preserver. When she last saw the other three, she said, they were clinging to the overturned boat.

Court Refuses To Accept Red Congress Money

15 Commies Sent Back To Jail

NEW YORK, July 11. (AP)—Fifteen second-string U. S. Communist leaders went back to jail today, their best and maybe last source of bail money gone.

Federal Judge Sylvester J. Ryan revoked their bails totalling $176,500 posted by the Civil Rights Congress and said the Congress cannot act as bondsman again in his court.

The effect of his ruling, the defense argued, is "to deny the right of these defendants to be admitted to bail."

Judge Ryan gave the indicted Communists one break, however. The government had asked that new bonds be boosted to a total of $876,000—four times the total posted by the Congress.

"In justice, I can't charge them with the non-appearance of their co-conspirators in either case," said Judge Ryan in leaving the total at $176,500.

He referred to four fugitive top-level officers of the Communist Party, plus four lesser leaders who never have been arrested.

When or where the indicted Reds can get fresh bail money was uncertain. Their attorney said commercial bonding firms won't go bail for Communists.

If they can't post new bonds, they'll have to stay in jail until their case is decided—which might be weeks or months.

Book Houses Termed Unfair

WASHINGTON, July 11 (AP) — The Federal Trade Commission issued complaints today charging six of the nation's biggest publishing houses with "unlawful practices which give book clubs an unfair competitive advantage over retail book stores."

The complaints named Harper and Brothers, Random House and Simon and Schuster, all of New York City; Houghton Mifflin Co., and Little Brown and Co., Inc., both of Boston, and Doubleday and Co., Inc., of Garden City, L. I., N. Y.

The complaints charged the publishers with "indirectly discriminating" against retail book sellers by leasing some printing plates to book clubs exclusively and requiring retailers, but not the clubs, to sell at fixed minimum resale prices.

Twenty days were allowed for filing answers to the complaints. The first hearing was scheduled Sept. 10 in Washington before Trial Examiner Frank Hier.

Polka Dot Paint Wins Approval

WARWICK, R. I., July 11 (AP)—When Emery R. Jernquist decided to paint his house, he decided on something different—polka dots.

The house—now that the painting is completed—is entirely black with large multi-colored Polka dots.

"Funny thing," he said, "about 70 per cent of the people seeing it say they like it."

Communist Group Goes Underground

FRANKFURT, Germany, July 11 (AP) — West Germany's outlawed Communist Youth Organization is going underground to harass the buildup of Western defense forces, Allied officials reported today.

"The talks now are on the tracks," a spokesman, Col. George Ruhlen of Las Cruces, N. Mex., told correspondents Wednesday night. "An armistice is much nearer tonight than it was 24 hours ago."

Ruhlen conceded, however, that the five Allied and five Communist negotiators still were working on an agenda and might not "get down to brass tacks" at today's meeting.

An Allied communique noted that the Reds "exhibited less stiffness and were less formal than on the previous day," permitting "a better understanding between the negotiating parties."

It noted differences on the priority of items for the agenda, but added "there is a general feeling among United Nations delegates x x x that progress is being made."

Rear Adm. Arleigh A. Burke, a member of the United Nations team made it clear the Allies will not discuss the Communist proposal that Allied troops pull out of Korea as part of a cease-fire agreement.

Grapevine Tips Youngsters To Free Ice Cream Treats

PHILADELPHIA, July 11. (AP)—Storekeeper George Heydeman learned today that the grapevine system operated by junior citizens can be an awe-inspiring thing indeed.

A short, slender man with graying hair, Heydeman purchased a cigar and candy store in North Philadelphia three weeks ago and decided he would secure the good will of the neighborhood youngsters by supplying them with free ice cream.

Tips Customers

So, for the past few days, he tipped his customers confidentially: "Ice cream free on Wednesday. Remember, be here at 11 in the morning."

Heydeman reasoned that "the way to get people used to coming in is to get them to come in."

The reasoning was eminently sound, but Heydeman didn't count on the far-flung word-of-mouth system known to all youngsters, but sometimes forgotten by grownups.

As early as 8 a. m., youngsters appeared at the store. They milled about on the sidewalk for three hours, waiting for the invitation.

At 11 a. m., it came. Heydeman went to the door announced: "Come on in, kids."

In they surged.

"Don't forget to come back when you want to buy ice cream," he told his first customer, seven-year-old Betty Christopher.

Then he plunged into the container again and scooped and scooped and scooped.

Scores Of Children

Scores of children darted in and out of the store, beaming with pleasure as they departed, cone in hand.

Heydeman scooped out his last trace of ice cream at 11:45 a. m., and handed it over to a two-year-old toddler, who stood looking up at him, tense anxiety etched on his features.

Fire Disrupts Train Service

KEARNY, N. J., July 11. (AP)—A stubborn fire on a drawbridge today halted all Pennsylvania Railroad traffic into and from New York City and threw passenger service into an almost hopeless snarl.

The blaze, believed to have started in wood pilings under the main line bridge which spans the Hackensack River, raged out of control for about two hours.

Train service was disrupted shortly after 1 p. m. (EST). Railroad officials said it would be mid-evening at least before full service could be restored.

All New York-bound trains were halted at Newark and passengers transferred to Hudson and Manhattan tube trains. No through trains to the west left New York's Pennsylvania Station. Passengers for these trains also were re-routed to Newark via the tubes.

McKeldin Boosted For Presidency

ANNAPOLIS, Md., July 11 (AP)—Governor McKeldin found himself promoted for the presidency by a Florida automobile today.

Parked before the hotel at which he and Southern Marylanders attended a state commission meeting was a sedan with loud orange and black "McKeldin for President" signs on front and rear bumpers.

Turned out his booster was Howard Johnson of Salisbury, a member of the commission. He also has a home in Florida.

Fighter Quizzed In Rape-Death

LONDON, July 11 (AP)—Sugar Ray Robinson's saddened fistic party was quizzed twice today by Scotland Yard men seeking to trace down the killer of a little girl admirer of the middleweight ex-champion.

The girl, 7-year-old Christine Butcher, was found raped and strangled at a picnic ground within sight of Windsor Castle, and near Robinson's recent training camp.

Robinson's manager, George Gainsford, told reporters the police asked Robinson and his wife a few routine questions and talked with other members of the party.

Gainsford said the police told him they sought Robinson's help in searching for a "white man in a gray suit."

Robinson, a New York negro, lost his middleweight title last night to Randolph Turpin, a British negro, in one of the big upsets of modern boxing.

Sugar Ray sent a telegram of sympathy today to Christine's parents.

Suggests Tax Stamp For Race Horses

WASHINGTON, July 11 (AP) — Senator Langer (R-ND) suggested today that the government put a stamp tax on race horses.

The horse racing business, he told the Senate, is a vast untapped source of revenue.

If it is logical to put a stamp tax on a slot machine, then it is just as logical to put one on a race horse, Langer contended.

"The race horse is just as much an instrument of gambling as a slot machine," he said.

Grapevine Tips Youngsters To Free Ice Cream Treats

PHILADELPHIA, July 11. (AP)—Storekeeper George Heydeman learned today that the grapevine system operated by junior citizens can be an awe-inspiring thing indeed.

A short, slender man with graying hair, Heydeman purchased a cigar and candy store in North Philadelphia three weeks ago and decided he would secure the good will of the neighborhood youngsters by supplying them with free ice cream.

Tips Customers

So, for the past few days, he tipped his customers confidentially: "Ice cream free on Wednesday. Remember, be here at 11 in the morning."

Heydeman reasoned that "the way to get people used to coming in is to get them to come in."

The reasoning was eminently sound, but Heydeman didn't count on the far-flung word-of-mouth system known to all youngsters, but sometimes forgotten by grownups.

As early as 8 a. m., youngsters appeared at the store. They milled about on the sidewalk for three hours, waiting for the invitation.

At 11 a. m., it came. Heydeman went to the door announced: "Come on in, kids."

In they surged.

"Don't forget to come back when you want to buy ice cream," he told his first customer, seven-year-old Betty Christopher.

Then he plunged into the container again and scooped and scooped and scooped.

Scores Of Children

Scores of children darted in and out of the store, beaming with pleasure as they departed, cone in hand.

Heydeman scooped out his last trace of ice cream at 11:45 a. m., and handed it over to a two-year-old toddler, who stood looking up at him, tense anxiety etched on his features.

Couple Killed In Auto Crash

CLIFTON FORGE, Va., July 11—(AP)—A Boomer, W. Va., couple was killed and two other persons were critically injured near here today when a car went out of control on U. S. Route 60 and smashed head-on into two roadside trees.

State police listed the dead as Okey Franklin Drake, 49, and his wife, Mrs. Bessie Blanche Drake, 45.

Critically hurt were Carol June Drake, 10, a daughter of the couple, and their son-in-law, Ermer O. Johnson, 27, of Boomer.

Italy Labor Unions Hike Member Dues

MILAN, Italy, July 11 (AP) —Non-Communist labor leaders voted today to boost dues from member unions in the international confederation in order to fight Communism and improve the worker's lot.

The new dues, about 20 per cent higher, should bring in more than $1,000,000 from 67 countries and 50,000,000 trade unionists to help organize where free trade unionism is backward.

Fire Disrupts Train Service

KEARNY, N. J., July 11. (AP)—A stubborn fire on a drawbridge today halted all Pennsylvania Railroad traffic into and from New York City and threw passenger service into an almost hopeless snarl.

The blaze, believed to have started in wood pilings under the main line bridge which spans the Hackensack River, raged out of control for about two hours.

Train service was disrupted shortly after 1 p. m. (EST). Railroad officials said it would be mid-evening at least before full service could be restored.

All New York-bound trains were halted at Newark and passengers transferred to Hudson and Manhattan tube trains. No through trains to the west left New York's Pennsylvania Station. Passengers for these trains also were re-routed to Newark via the tubes.

McKeldin Boosted For Presidency

ANNAPOLIS, Md., July 11 (AP)—Governor McKeldin found himself promoted for the presidency by a Florida automobile today.

Parked before the hotel at which he and Southern Marylanders attended a state commission meeting was a sedan with loud orange and black "McKeldin for President" signs on front and rear bumpers.

Turned out his booster was Howard Johnson of Salisbury, a member of the commission. He also has a home in Florida.

Accidental Death Verdict Returned

NORTH CHICAGO, Ill., July 11 (AP)—A coroners jury today returned a verdict of "accidental" in the deaths of five children fatally burned July 5 when a left over Fourth of July sparkler set off a turpentine explosion.

Killed in the blast were Billy Brosnan, 9, his sister, Kathleen, 10, and a brother, Martin, Jr., 11, Joan Renarb, 9, and Mary Jean Zorzy, 10.

Fighter Quizzed In Rape-Death

LONDON, July 11 (AP)—Sugar Ray Robinson's saddened fistic party was quizzed twice today by Scotland Yard men seeking to trace down the killer of a little girl admirer of the middleweight ex-champion.

The girl, 7-year-old Christine Butcher, was found raped and strangled at a picnic ground within sight of Windsor Castle, and near Robinson's recent training camp.

Robinson's manager, George Gainsford, told reporters the police asked Robinson and his wife a few routine questions and talked with other members of the party.

Gainsford said the police told him they sought Robinson's help in searching for a "white man in a gray suit."

Robinson, a New York negro, lost his middleweight title last night to Randolph Turpin, a British negro, in one of the big upsets of modern boxing.

Sugar Ray sent a telegram of sympathy today to Christine's parents.

Suggests Tax Stamp For Race Horses

WASHINGTON, July 11 (AP) — Senator Langer (R-ND) suggested today that the government put a stamp tax on race horses.

The horse racing business, he told the Senate, is a vast untapped source of revenue.

If it is logical to put a stamp tax on a slot machine, then it is just as logical to put one on a race horse, Langer contended.

"The race horse is just as much an instrument of gambling as a slot machine," he said.

Plans River Swim With Hands Tied

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill., July 11 (AP) — A 49-year-old packing house worker will try to swim the Mississippi River—not with one, but both hands—tied behind him.

To make it even tougher, he will tow a boatload of six soldiers and six empty barrels, festooned with posters advertising defense bonds.

The swimmer is George Hooper, who has succeeded in similar stunts 12 times in the past 14 years. His new attempt will be made July 29.

Congress' Six Months

Disclosure to the American people and to the world at large of United States military weaknesses, imminent dangers of involvement in global war, crime conditions in the country's large cities, and undesirable practices by appointed and elected officials was the most notable activity of the 82nd Congress during its first six months.

The business of investigating took attention from the business of legislating with the result that few measures of leading importance have been finally enacted. Public laws adopted up to July 1 numbered only 70. This compares with 145 new laws during the first six months of the Republican 80th Congress.

Recurrent rumors of a peace in Korea, and uncertainty as to the political and economic effects of a settlement there, made for congressional delay on the military budget, the foreign aid program, tax legislation, and anti-inflation controls. At the opening of the new fiscal year on July 1 not one of the regular appropriation bills had been sent to the President, and it was necessary to adopt an emergency resolution to keep the government departments in funds. The Senate voted an eight-month extension of price-wage-rent controls, scheduled to expire on June 30, but the House failed to act before that date. The existing controls were then extended for one month, with a prohibition against any additional price rollbacks during July.

Senate adoption of the troops-for-Europe resolution in April was the only notable success for the Truman administration during the first six months of this Democratic Congress. While expressing the "sense of the Senate" that Congress should be consulted before ground units in excess of the four divisions now planned are sent to reinforce General Eisenhower's international army, the resolution in effect rejected the Western Hemisphere Gibraltar policy recommended by former President Hoover, and with it primary reliance on sea and air power to protect the country against Communist aggression.

The compromise bill which extended the Selective Service Act, lowered the draft age to 18½, and extended the term of service from 21 to 24 months represented a partial victory for the administration. It laid the ground work for a system of universal military training, long advocated by the President, and sought to assure final action at the 1951 session on legislation to put the program into effect. Future action on UMT may be profoundly affected by the outcome of present efforts for a cease-fire in Korea. This is true also of military and foreign aid appropriations, tax increases, and economic controls.

The searching Senate investigation of Far Eastern policies, following the President's dismissal of General MacArthur from his Asian commands, is not now expected to result in any agreed findings on the rightness or wrongness of Roosevelt-Truman policies in the Pacific. The final verdict is likely to rest with the voters in the 1952 general election.

Action on domestic legislation has been largely dominated by the conservative Republican-southern Democratic coalition which was greatly strengthened by defeats of Administration supporters in 1950 elections to Congress. On the first day of the session the House set aside the anti-bottleneck rule of the last Congress, thus restoring power to obstruct Administration measures to the conservative Rules Committee. One other reform was abandoned when the present Congress decided to enact separate supply measures for the government departments instead of a single package money bill.

The 82nd Congress to date has been at least as conservative on domestic legislation as the Republican 80th. Appropriations for public housing and public power have been sharply trimmed by the House, and restraints have been put on government construction of transmission lines. The outlook for social welfare legislation in general is unpromising. An Administration bill to give the President emergency powers to reorganize government agencies was defeated in the House. Price-wage-rent control powers are more likely to be restricted than expanded, and the Senate is expected to make further cuts in the $7.2 billion of new taxes voted by the House.

White House Career Gal

Mary Margaret Truman arrives in New York this week after what was in effect a triumphal tour of Europe. Even the American music critics who don't like her as a vocalist do like her as a person—and Miss Truman did no singing in Europe.

Another White House girl, also named Margaret, chose singing as a career. Margaret Woodrow Wilson, eldest of President Wilson's three daughters, studied voice for eight years after being graduated from Goucher College, made her debut as soloist with the Chicago Symphony Orchestra at a concert in Syracuse, gave recitals in many Army camps during World War I.

The crtics wrote of Miss Wilson, as they were later to write of Miss Truman, that she sang intelligently and unaffectedly without possessing exactly one of the world's best voices. Miss Wilson later tried a business career without success, then passed out of sight unti 1940, when she joined a colony of religious mystics in India. She died there in 1944, at the age of 57.

Among other Presidential daughters who had careers in their own right were Helen Taft (Manning). She did graduate work in history at Yale while her father was teaching law there, was dean of Bryn Mawr College for many years and acting president for a time, became professor of history there in 1941.

Alice Roosevelt (Longworth) has done much writing in addition to being something of a power behind the scenes in Washington. Anna Roosevelt (Boettiger) has had an active newspaper and radio career. But when we go back to the daughters of the 19th Century Presidents, we find them uniformly what are known as "home girls."

Editorial Paragraphs

Peace treaties are being considered in various parts of the world. But not even an optimist would predict the atmosphere will ever become so friendly both Gromyko and Malik will learn to say yes.

The Eisenhower boom for President is to be kept under wraps until next spring, it is reported. Perhaps by then Ike will be willing to let it be known which part he belongs to.

What Russia really wants in the Far East is Japan, according to one observer. It will always be a mystery why Nippon wasn't included in the fine print in the Yalta Treaty.

Multiple births are increasing, it is discovered. Perhaps in the state of the world misery loves company and no baby wants to come in alone.

Care In The Use Of DDT

DDT is not as harmful to man as to insects, but it must be used cautiously to prevent poisoning. A number of deaths have been attributed to DDT intoxication but almost every case was questionable because DDT was mixed with large quantities of solvents which can result in similar toxic effects.

Powdered DDT rarely is toxic or irritating to the intact skin. When the substance is mixed with oil or chemical solvents there is a good chance that it will be absorbed into the system. Acute poisoning is manifested by muscle twitching, beginning in the eyelids and spreading to the remainder of the body. These tremors may become marked and in the more serious cases the heart beats irregularly and convulsions develop. Chronic intoxication is possible when exposure occurs over a long period of time. Loss of weight and appetite, mild anemia, muscular weakness, and tremors ensue. Fatal cases often encounter convulsions and go into coma prior to death.

The solvents that are combined with DDT, as mentioned previously, may produce similar symptoms which makes it difficult to determine the exact origin of the poisoning. Overexposure to kerosene, for example, leads to nervousness, headache, fatigue, and numbness and tingling sensations in and about the lips; but regardless of the cause, DDT mixtures should be utilized according to directions. The dry powder is less dangerous than the mixed solutions of DDT. Placing powder on the skin, for example, may be harmless but if the surface is oily and dissolves some of the powder, the combination enters the system.

The aerosol form of DDT is relatively safe but may irritate the eyes or the lungs when inhaled. Twitching of the lids is the first sign that too much has been absorbed. If DDT is swallowed accidentally, vomiting should be induced to eliminate as much of the ingested material as possible. The physician also employs a stomach tube to wash out the gastric pouch. During the next 24 hours the victim must avoid cathartics as well as oily and fatty foods to discourage absorption of any of the insecticide that remains.

Individuals who use the powder must wear protective clothing, particularly if the skin is contaminated with grease or oil. Goggles and solvent resistant gloves also help when large amounts of the material are being handled. A mask prevents inhalation of DDT applied via spray, mist, or aerosol mixture; this is a wise precaution if the preparation contains 5 per cent or more of DDT. After the job is completed a bath and change of clothing are desirable.

DDT used in the home seldom leads to poisoning unless the job is done carelessly. The insecticide never should be stored in food cupboards or medicine cabinets where it is likely to be mistaken for something else. Before applying, it is advisable to cover exposed foods, utensils, children's toys, and cribs. A room occupied by an ill person should not be sprayed and aquariums and delicate plants ought to be removed before applying spray or aerosol. Many of the mixtures are inflammable and should not be employed in the vicinity of an open fire. The skin must not be squirted with the aerosol discharge; nor should the powder or oil solution be placed on the fur of pets where it can be licked off.

BUNION SURGERY

G. W. writes: In a bunion operation, is the joint removed?

REPLY

This depends upon the type of operation performed. Most surgeons remove only enough of the joint to permit the toe to be straightened. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on bunions.

Now and then uric acid crystals are deposited along the rim of the outer ear. These lesions are known as tophi and do not affect hearing as they are just beneath the skin.

SANDY GALL BLADDER

H. T. writes: Will sand in the gall bladder eventually turn to gallstones?

REPLY

Not necessarily, but sand is a good start toward stones.

MUSHROOM POISONING

L. K. writes: What symptoms are produced by toadstool poisoning?

REPLY

If symptoms appear within a few minutes to two hours they are likely to include abdominal cramps, diarrhea, vomiting, excess saliva, and eye manifestations such as tearing and contracted pupils. In some cases circulatory collapse, mental disturbances, convulsions, and coma occur. With the delayed type of reaction, which is more serious, in addition to the above symptoms, the liver is damaged and urination may cease.

Early-Morning Price Debate Revealed Special-Interest Senators; Sen. Ferguson Defeated On Automobile Roll-Up Amendment; Senator Shouted Down Lehman

WASHINGTON.—The public was alseep at 3 a.m. when the Senate staged its most revealing debate on price control. Asleep also were many newspapermen.

Yet the speeches certain senators made at that time—just as price controls were scheduled to expire—and the amendments they introduced, give the clearest of all pictures regarding who pulls the strings to make certain senators dance.

At about 2:30 a.m. up spoke Sen. Homer Ferguson of Michigan, his silver hair more awry than usual. He had an amendment which would have increased the price of automobiles throughout the nation.

Ferguson did not mention the fact that his wife and son-in-law are heavy stockholders in a subsidiary of one of the biggest automobile companies — Chrysler. Nor did Sen. Willis Robertson of Virginia mention it, as Sen. Elmer Thomas was unkind enough to do three years ago when he threatened to expose Ferguson's family interest in Chrysler unless Ferguson quit investigating him.

However, Robertson, alert to catch the significance of Ferguson's amendment, warned his colleagues that it was "tailored perfectly to increase the price of automobiles."

"Then this is a roll-up amendment," snapped Clinton Anderson of New Mexico. "If we want chaos in price administration, this is the easiest way to get it I have ever seen."

Then, turning to Ferguson, the New Mexico Senator observed: "It applies primarily to the automobile industry."

"The Senator is correct," admitted Ferguson. "Why should that industry be discriminated against?"

"The profits of automobile manufacturers were reasonably good, were they not?" Anderson shot back, referring to the fact that most big motor companies have just celebrated their highest profits in history.

"Now we come to the secret. The Senator wants to fix prices so as to determine profits," angrily shouted the Michigan Senator.

Ferguson had reason to expect his automobile amendment to pass like other special-interest amendments, log-rolled through in the early hours of the morning. But it was defeated—with Michigan's other Senator, Blair Moody of Detroit, voting against it.

Peanuts And Milk

Senators Ed Thye, Minnesota Republican, and Warren Magnuson, Washington Democrat, also pushed through an amendment to freeze dairy and peanut products at their present high prices. But Senator Anderson, once secretary of agriculture, and now the consumers' most consistent friend, objected.

"The bill we are considering is designed to try to put ceilings on prices," he said. "How is a measure that would prevent prices from dropping germane to a bill that is trying to put on ceilings?"

"That may have been true so far as the original intent of the bill," sarcastically interposed Senator Douglas of Illinois, another friend of the housewife, "but it is completely appropriate now, since the price-control bill has turned into a bill to increase prices."

However, Senator Thye, himself a dairy farmer, defended the bill on the grounds "it is necessary in the general defense of our land."

"I do not believe that the national defense is going to be jeopardized in the slightest if we allow a peanut from some other country to come into this country," snorted Anderson.

Cattle and Black-Markets

However, the dairy-peanut amendment passed.

Anderson also tried to block an amendment by Sen. Hugh Butler, Nebraska Republican, weakening the government's control over meat slaughtering. Butler raises cattle in Nebraska, while Anderson raises cattle in New Mexico. But while Butler has been the great champion of the cattleman—and his pocketbook interest—Anderson has voted against his own pocketbook.

This brought Senate Majority Leader Ernest McFarland of Arizona angrily to his feet. Though he is supposed to be the administration spokesman, he supported Butler.

"I resent the insinuation that this is a black-market amendment," bristled McFarland. "I cannot permit him (Anderson) to say unchallenged that I am advocating a black market."

Later, Anderson read a telegram to show that he was supported by some meat packers.

Children Or $ $

While the Senate voted for the special interests, it voted against the underprivileged, on an amendment offered by New York's gentle Sen. Herbert Lehman. Lehman, who lost his son in the war, begged the Senate to "make it illegal for a landlord to deny the rental of housing accommodations to any applicant solely on the ground that the applicant has children."

No one dared to speak publicly against Lehman's amendment, but the Senators shouted it down with a chorous of "no's."

Finally, in the wee hours of the

More On Newsprint

Matthew J. Burns, a member of Thorold (Ontario) Local 101, International Brotherhood of Paper Makers—retired, writes to the editor of the Washington "Times-Herald":

". . . In 1910 the reciprocity bill with Canada was before the Congress—tariff would be removed on newsprint paper manufactured in Canada and all other countries. The publishers really got interested now in a new source of supply of newsprint paper. They threw the weight of their influence into the balance and succeeded in getting Congress to remove the protective tariff from newsprint paper which had been on since George Washington's administration. This was achieved under a Republican administration."

I presume that because it was the Republicans who did this deed, that makes it kosher. In the long history of American Internationalism, the Republicans have at times been as stupid as the Democrats.

The fact of the matter is that in 1925, the United States produced about half of the newsprint it consumer; in 1949, it was about 16 percent. Now we not only have a shortage but the price has been fixed so high by the Canadian Cartel that a free press in this country is imperilled because its principal raw material is moving out of reach.

Newsprint is the second largest import in the United States, being exceeded, in value, only by coffee. Approximately 80 percent of the amount we use comes from Canada, and the Canadians can fix any price they choose for it. They have no real competition.

In 1890, there were 130 manufacturers of newsprint in the United States and 13 in Canada, according to the report of the Celler committee. In 1913, newsprint was put on the free list and has remained there since in all tariff legislation. Let me quote from the Celler committee:

". . . In 1913 Canadian newsprint production was only about 350,000 tons compared to 1,305,000 produced in the United States. Canadian exports to this country in that year were only 117,000 tons, or about a third of total Canadian production. Only 13 years later, in 1926, Canadian production had eclipsed that in the United States, and the Dominion was exporting to this country almost as much newsprint as was manufactured by all domestic mills combined....

"Production of newsprint in the United States, which attained its zenith of 1,687,000 tons in 1926, gradually dwindled until by 1933 it had fallen below the million ton mark. Thereafter, production in this country hovered steadily between 725,000 and 1,000,000 tons..."

In 1913, the United States was practically self-sufficient, producing 85 percent of its own requirements. Today, it imports about 80 percent of its newsprint from Canada. It is true that considerable American capital has been invested in Canadian mills, but the fact remains that this country is short of a commodity as essential as steel.

There is ample evidence that for many years the Canadian government has been in control of the price of newsprint, which is an essential factor in the economy of that country. One point that the Canadians emphasize is that they have no desire to destroy their forests unless they get a good price for newsprint. This quotation from the "paper trade journal" on August 26, 1937 is important as indicating the attitude of Candaians, which has remained unchanged since then:

"Efforts are now being made to prevent a repetition of over-expansion. Premier Duplessis of Quebec has appealed to the Ontario government for collaboration in formulating a common policy to "direct and not administer' the industry. Meanwhile he has forbidden the opening of new pulp and paper mills until those closed have been put into operation, and has established measures to prevent export of any pulpwood.

"The end to which Premier Duplessis is working is the maintenance of a fairly even balance between supply and demand and the adoption of a considerate price policy."

Canada cannot be blamed for conserving its forests, for preventing over-expansion of a national industry or for getting as high a price as it can. The United States can be blamed for not protecting a nationally essential commodity.

Any study of this problem indicates three clear facts:

1. The Canadians have us;
2. Our government, ECA and similar American agencies, use enormous amounts of newsprint and are competing so actively that the demand encourages pricing beyond purchaser power by the smaller newspapers;
3. Former competition by Finland and Sweden is not likely to be available under present conditions.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON.—All the double talk in the world will not erase the sample fact that the United Nations is quitting in Korea without achieving its objectives. When the fighting ends, the leverage ends. The same hold on North Korea that the Communists had before their aggression a year ago will continue. This is now taken for granted and is plainly implied in American pronouncements.

What makes the incident such a shameful chapter in the history of "collective security" is that the United Nations is now about to repudiate its resolution adopted by the General Assembly on October 7, 1950, when it said that the achievement of stability throughout Korea was its primary objective. Today the claim is repeatedly made by high American officials that it was never intended to use military means to attain that objective. Yet here is the language of the U.N. resolution of last October 7:

"United Nations forces should not remain in any part of Korea otherwise than so far as necessary for achieving the objectives specified in sub-paragraphs (a) and (b) above."

And what were the objectives specified? Here is the exact wording:

"(a) All appropriate steps be taken to ensure conditions of stability throughout Korea.

Unified Action

The "appropriate steps" meant armed operations because that was what the UN forces were engaged in at the time. In fact, in the preamble of the same resolution there is a specific reference to these military operations as follows:

"Having in mind that United Nations Armed Forces are at present operating in Korea in accordance with the recommendations of the Security Council of 27 June 1950, subsequent to its resolution of 25 June 1950, that members of the United Nations furnish such assistance to the Republic of Korea as may be necessary to repel the armed attack and to restore international peace and security in the area, . . ."

There can be no question that the UN Assembly intended last autumn to "restore peace and security in the area" by military action and no question either that the objective was to achieve "conditions of stability throughout Korea."

There was no concession that the status quo which existed a year ago could be restored. There was no admission that North Korea could remain under the control of Communist Russia or Communist China or that North Korea could even exist as a separate entity. The resolution proposed "a unified, independent and democratic government in the sovereign state of Korea."

Merely A Pause

If the view be taken that the armistice is merely a pause and that the main objectives are still to be attained through diplomacy, then the UN forces cannot be withdrawn and brought back to their home countries unless those objectives are assured. Since this means long-drawn-out negotiations, it implies that the UN is willing to compromise and settle for less than the October 7, 1950, resolution set forth.

To do this would be to concede defeat in Korea and to admit that the UN was unable, either by military action or by diplomacy, to carry out its October 7, 1950, resolution.

History will then say that the UN failed as did the League of Nations to enforce its resolutions and that, in this instance, although military and economic sanctions were applied, they were not exerted to maximum degree and the prestige of the UN suffered an ignominious blow. The whole world membership was arrayed against relatively small aggressor forces and yet the UN members failed to achieve a military victory.

Defeat For Truman

There is little doubt that Great Britain, which was responsible for the appeasement at Munich in 1938, is today responsible for the Korean appeasement policy and has influenced the American government to give way and settle the problem without a military decision. Already the influential "London Economist," which often anticipates British government action, says about what is to come after a "cease fire":

"A unified democratic Korea is not now a feasible objective of policy; to unify the country force would have to be used by one side or the other."

This is a realistic statement. Having given up the idea of unifying Korea by military action, the idea of getting it any other way also vanishes in the realm of vague and inconclusive diplomacy. America has suffered a defeat. The UN has suffered a defeat, and the Communists have won a signal victory through the failure of the Truman Administration to assert its leadership in the UN.

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH ALSOP

Unrest In The Alliance

AVON, Connecticut—It will come as a shock to the people here at home who have been airily arguing about whether we "want allies," or should go it alone." Yet the fact is that our allies are also beginning to argue about whether they want us. This seems to this reporter by far the most significant single phenomenon observed during a long, just concluded trip abroad.

There are plenty of obvious reasons for the unrest and anti-American feeling within the Western alliance. The defense program which we have urged upon them is a heavy burden to the British, who have carried so many burdens for so long. The French, with their weak government, are hardly able to keep their promise to us to raise men for more divisions. German rearmament pleases no one.

Yet even these grave difficulties are essentially superficial. They would matter little, if it were not for two other, less noticeable but far deeper sources of trouble.

The first of these trouble sources —it had better be admitted frankly —is the failure of American leadership since the 1948 election.

Sights Are Raised

From November 1949 until the Korean aggression, the Administration told our allies, as it told the country, that we could all disarm and be comfortable. Then came the Korean challenge and the response. Then, with the advent of George C. Marshall at the Defense Department, there was an immense raising of rearmament sights. Then there was the victorious complacency after Inchon in October and the near panic after the Yalu defeat in November and December. And then there were two or three months before Gen. MacArthur's recall, when no one quite knew what American policy really was.

Other choppings and changings might also be noted. But the foregoing is enough to indicate how unpredictable we have seemed to the British, the French and our other allies.

To make matters worse, among our allies today, there is no one with Winston Churchill's superb self-confidence and willingness to take the lead himself. An alliance, like any other body of persons acting together, is deeply dependent on firm, clear-headed leadership. The Western alliance has no other possible leader but the United States. And our unsteady leadership in the past two years and a half has sadly shaken the confidence in the United States that was built up during the war and the great policy-making years just after the war.

In this sense, at least, the MacArthur controversy ought to prove remarkably fortunate, as having at last cleared the minds of Administration chieftains about what they were trying to do and having shown their intentions to the world. But no public debate, nothing but the most urgent and unrelenting effort, can cure the other trouble which is also weakening the Western alliance.

This trouble is simply the fear generated in Britain, in Western Europe, in the Middle and Far East, by the continuing predominance of Soviet military power. A later report will examine this problem in greater detail. It is enough to say here that Americans can hardly imagine the state of mind of informed men in Britain. These Englishmen know their country still lacks any effective air defense. They know also that Britain is the most vulnerable possible target for atomic attack. They expect that Britain will be instantly attacked if a general war breaks out.

Hysterical Fear

For Englishmen who think of a third world war in terms of total devastation, for Frenchmen who think of it in terms of Soviet occupation, the impulse to appease is naturally difficult to resist. This impulse would be less important today, if our allies thought that all risks, to them as well as to us, were being coolly and wisely calculated in Washington. But that is not the impression that has been conveyed. And thus, while our allies have no motion of surrender, they suffer from an almost hysterical fear that they will be plunged into an unnecessary war by American "excitabilty."

There is no use grumbling about injustice, appeasement, and man's ingratitude to man. The practical situation confronting us is the situation outlined above. Furthermore, this situation has been recognized in the Kremlin as another vulnerable flank of the free world. A great war of nerves offensive has been launched to capitalize on our allies' fears. The Kremlin's main aim and hope during the months immediately ahead will be to split and thus to paralyze the Western alliance. Every weapon of psychological warfare, from the crassiest intimidation to the most subtle subversion, is being and will be used to this end.

Fear Of Atom Bomb

This is because the Kremlin knows that the United States cannot go it alone. Fear of atomic attack on Russia by the American Strategic Air Force is the only existing deterrent to further Soviet aggression. The effectiveness of our Strategic Air Force now almost entirely depends upon overseas air bases, in territories of the British and our other allies. If the Kremlin could be sure that use of these bases would be denied to us, the Red Army would march tomorrow. And the Red Army will march, if and when a split in the Western alliance gives the longed-for protection to the masters of Russia.

These are bleak truths which need to be noted, but noted as warnings. For if America can only lead as America ought to lead, which means if America can only be true to her own greatness, there may be hard and tricky times ahead; but the Western alliance will hold firm and there will be no catastrophe. The knowledge that he is skirting a precipice makes the mountaineer step more carefully but also more firmly, and this must be the American rule today.

Congress' Six Months

Disclosure to the American people and to the world at large of United States military weaknesses, imminent dangers of involvement in global war, crime conditions in the country's large cities, and undesirable practices by appointed and elected officials was the most notable activity of the 82nd Congress during its first six months.

The business of investigating took attention from the business of legislating with the result that few measures of leading importance have been finally enacted. Public laws adopted up to July 1 numbered only 70. This compares with 145 new laws during the first six months of the Republican 80th Congress.

Recurrent rumors of a peace in Korea, and uncertainty as to the political and economic effects of a settlement there, made for congressional delay on the military budget, the foreign aid program, tax legislation, and anti-inflation controls. At the opening of the new fiscal year on July 1 not one of the regular appropriation bills had been sent to the President, and it was necessary to adopt an emergency resolution to keep the government departments in funds. The Senate voted an eight-month extension of price-wage-rent controls, scheduled to expire on June 30, but the House failed to act before that date. The existing controls were then extended for one month, with a prohibition against any additional price roll-backs during July.

Senate adoption of the troops-for-Europe resolution in April was the only notable success for the Truman administration during the first six months of this Democratic Congress. While expressing the "sense of the Senate" that Congress should be consulted before ground units in excess of the four divisions now planned are sent to reinforce General Eisenhower's international army, the resolution in effect rejected the Western Hemisphere Gibraltar policy recommended by former President Hoover, and with it primary reliance on sea and air power to protect the country against Communist aggression.

The compromise bill which extended the Selective Service Act, lowered the draft age to 18½, and extended the term of service from 21 to 24 months represented a partial victory for the administration. It laid the ground work for a system of universal military training, long advocated by the President, and sought to assure final action at the 1951 session on legislation to put the program into effect. Future action on UMT may be profoundly affected by the outcome of present efforts for a cease-fire in Korea. This is true also of military and foreign aid appropriations, tax increases, and economic controls.

The searching Senate investigation of Far Eastern policies, following the President's dismissal of General MacArthur from his Asian commands, is not now expected to result in any agreed findings on the rightness or wrongness of Roosevelt-Truman policies in the Pacific. The final verdict is likely to rest with the voters in the 1952 general election.

Action on domestic legislation has been largely dominated by the conservative Republican-southern Democratic coalition which was greatly strengthened by defeats of Administration supporters in 1950 elections to Congress. On the first day of the session the House set aside the anti-bottleneck rule of the last Congress, thus restoring power to obstruct Administration measures to the conservative Rules Committee. One other reform was abandoned when the present Congress decided to enact separate supply measures for the government departments instead of a single package money bill.

The 82nd Congress to date has been at least as conservative on domestic legislation as the Republican 80th. Appropriations for public housing and public power have been sharply trimmed by the House, and restraints have been put on government construction of transmission lines. The outlook for social welfare legislation in general is unpromising. An Administration bill to give the President emergency powers to reorganize government agencies was defeated in the House. Price-wage-rent control powers are more likely to be restricted than expanded, and the Senate is expected to make further cuts in the $7.2 billion of new taxes voted by the House.

White House Career Gal

Mary Margaret Truman arrives in New York this week after what was in effect a triumphal tour of Europe. Even the American music critics who don't like her as a vocalist do like her as a person—and Miss Truman did no singing in Europe.

Another White House girl, also named Margaret, chose singing as a career. Margaret Woodrow Wilson, eldest of President Wilson's three daughters, studied voice for eight years after being graduated from Goucher College, made her debut as soloist with the Chicago Symphony Orchestra at a concert in Syracuse, gave recitals in many Army camps during World War I.

The crtics wrote of Miss Wilson, as they were later to write of Miss Truman, that she sang intelligently and unaffectedly without possessing exactly one of the world's best voices. Miss Wilson later tried a business career without success, then passed out of sight unti 1940, when she joined a colony of religious mystics in India. She died there in 1944, at the age of 57.

Among other Presidential daughters who had careers in their own right were Helen Taft (Manning). She did graduate work in history at Yale while her father was teaching law there, was dean of Bryn Mawr College for many years and acting president for a time, became professor of history there in 1941.

Alice Roosevelt (Longworth) has done much writing in addition to being something of a power behind the scenes in Washington. Anna Roosevelt (Boettiger) has had an active newspaper and radio career. But when we go back to the daughters of the 19th Century Presidents, we find them uniformly what are known as "home girls."

Care In The Use Of DDT

DDT is not as harmful to man as to insects, but it must be used cautiously to prevent poisoning. A number of deaths have been attributed to DDT intoxication but almost every case was questionable because DDT was mixed with large quantities of solvents which can result in similar toxic effects.

Powdered DDT rarely is toxic or irritating to the intact skin. When the substance is mixed with oil or chemical solvents there is a good chance that it will be absorbed into the system. Acute poisoning is manifested by muscle twitching, beginning in the eyelids and spreading to the remainder of the body. These tremors may become marked and in the more serious cases the heart beats irregularly and convulsions develop. Chronic intoxication is possible when exposure occurs over a long period of time. Loss of weight and appetite, mild anemia, muscular weakness, and tremors ensue. Fatal cases often encounter convulsions and go into coma prior to death.

The solvents that are combined with DDT, as mentioned previously, may produce similar symptoms which makes it difficult to determine the exact origin of the poisoning. Overexposure to kerosene, for example, leads to nervousness, headache, fatigue, and numbness and tingling sensations in and about the lips; but regardless of the cause, DDT mixtures should be utilized according to directions. The dry powder is less dangerous than the mixed solutions of DDT. Placing powder on the skin, for example, may be harmless but if the surface is oily and dissolves some of the powder, the combination enters the system.

The aerosol form of DDT is relatively safe but may irritate the eyes or the lungs when inhaled. Twitching of the lids is the first sign that too much has been absorbed. If DDT is swallowed accidentally, vomiting should be induced to eliminate as much of the ingested material as possible. The physician also employs a stomach tube to wash out the gastric pouch. During the next 24 hours the victim must avoid cathartics as well as oily and fatty foods to discourage absorption of any of the insecticide that remains.

Individuals who use the powder must wear protective clothing, particularly if the skin is contaminated with grease or oil. Goggles and solvent resistant gloves also help when large amounts of the material are being handled. A mask prevents inhalation of DDT applied via spray, mist, or aerosol mixture; this is a wise precaution if the preparation contains 5 per cent or more of DDT. After the job is completed a bath and change of clothing are desirable.

DDT used in the home seldom leads to poisoning unless the job is done carelessly. The insecticide never should be stored in food cupboards or medicine cabinets where it is likely to be mistaken for something else. Before applying, it is advisable to cover exposed foods, utensils, children's toys, and cribs. A room occupied by an ill person should not be sprayed and aquariums and delicate plants ought to be removed before applying spray or aerosol. Many of the mixtures are inflammable and should not be employed in the vicinity of an open fire. The skin must not be squirted with the aerosol discharge; nor should the powder or oil solution be placed on the fur of pets where it can be licked off.

This depends upon the type of operation performed. Most surgeons remove only enough of the joint to permit the toe to be straightened. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on bunions.

Not necessarily, but sand is a good start toward stones.

MUSHROOM POISONING

REPLY

If symptoms appear within a few minutes to two hours they are likely to include abdominal cramps, diarrhea, vomiting, excess saliva, and eye manifestations such as tearing and contracted pupils. With the delayed type of reaction, which is more serious, in addition to the above symptoms, the liver is damaged and urination may cease.

Early-Morning Price Debate Revealed Special-Interest Senators; Sen. Ferguson Defeated On Automobile Roll-Up Amendment; Senator Shouted Down Lehman

WASHINGTON.—The public was alseep at 3 a.m. when the Senate staged its most revealing debate on price control. Asleep also were many newspapermen.

Yet the speeches certain senators made at that time—just as price controls were scheduled to expire—and the amendments they introduced, give the clearest of all pictures regarding who pulls the strings to make certain senators dance.

At about 2:30 a.m. up spoke Sen. Homer Ferguson of Michigan, his silver hair more awry than usual. He had an amendment which would have increased the price of automobiles throughout the nation.

Ferguson did not mention the fact that his wife and son-in-law are heavy stockholders in a subsidiary of one of the biggest automobile companies — Chrysler. Nor did Sen. Willis Robertson of Virginia mention it, as Sen. Elmer Thomas was unkind enough to do three years ago when he threatened to expose Ferguson's family interest in Chrysler unless Ferguson quit investigating him.

However, Robertson, alert to catch the significance of Ferguson's amendment, warned his colleagues that it was "tailored perfectly to increase the price of automobiles."

"Then this is a roll-up amendment," snapped Clinton Anderson of New Mexico. "If we want chaos in price administration, this is the easiest way to get it I have ever seen."

Then, turning to Ferguson, the New Mexico Senator observed: "It applies primarily to the automobile industry."

"The Senator is correct," admitted Ferguson. "Why should that industry be discriminated against?"

"The profits of automobile manufacturers were reasonably good, were they not?" Anderson shot back, referring to the fact that most big motor companies have just celebrated their highest profits in history.

"Now we come to the secret. The Senator wants to fix prices so as to determine profits," angrily shouted the Michigan Senator.

Ferguson had reason to expect his automobile amendment to pass like other special-interest amendments, log-rolled through in the early hours of the morning. But it was defeated—with Michigan's other Senator, Blair Moody of Detroit, voting against it.

Peanuts And Milk

Senators Ed Thye, Minnesota Republican, and Warren Magnuson, Washington Democrat, also pushed through an amendment to freeze dairy and peanut products at their present high prices. But Senator Anderson, once secretary of agriculture, and now the consumers' most consistent friend, objected.

"The bill we are considering is designed to try to put ceilings on prices," he said. "How is a measure that would prevent prices from dropping germane to a bill that is trying to put on ceilings?"

"That may have been true so far as the original intent of the bill," sarcastically interposed Senator Douglas of Illinois, another friend of the housewife, "but it is completely appropriate now, since the price-control bill has turned into a bill to increase prices."

However, Senator Thye, himself a dairy farmer, defended the bill on the grounds "it is necessary in the general defense of our land."

"I do not believe that the national defense is going to be jeopardized in the slightest if we allow a peanut from some other country to come into this country," snorted Anderson.

Cattle and Black-Markets

However, the dairy-peanut amendment passed.

Anderson also tried to block an amendment by Sen. Hugh Butler, Nebraska Republican, weakening the government's control over meat slaughtering. Butler raises cattle in Nebraska, while Anderson raises cattle in New Mexico. But while Butler has been the great champion of the cattleman—and his pocketbook interest—Anderson has voted against his own pocketbook.

This brought Senate Majority Leader Ernest McFarland of Arizona angrily to his feet. Though he is supposed to be the administration spokesman, he supported Butler.

"I resent the insinuation that this is a black-market amendment," bristled McFarland. "I cannot permit him (Anderson) to say unchallenged that I am advocating a black market."

Later, Anderson read a telegram to show that he was supported by some meat packers.

Children Or $ $

While the Senate voted for the special interests, it voted against the underprivileged, on an amendment offered by New York's gentle Sen. Herbert Lehman. Lehman, who lost his son in the war, begged the Senate to "make it illegal for a landlord to deny the rental of housing accommodations to any applicant solely on the ground that the applicant has children."

No one dared to speak publicly against Lehman's amendment, but the Senators shouted it down with a chorous of "no's."

More On Newsprint

Matthew J. Burns, a member of Thorold (Ontario) Local 101, International Brotherhood of Paper Makers—retired, writes to the editor of the Washington "Times-Herald":

". . . In 1910 the reciprocity bill with Canada was before the Congress—tariff would be removed on newsprint paper manufactured in Canada and all other countries. The publishers really got interested now in a new source of supply of newsprint paper. They threw the weight of their influence into the balance and succeeded in getting Congress to remove the protective tariff from newsprint paper which had been on since George Washington's administration. This was achieved under a Republican administration."

I presume that because it was the Republicans who did this deed, that makes it kosher. In the long history of American Internationalism, the Republicans have at times been as stupid as the Democrats.

The fact of the matter is that in 1925, the United States produced about half of the newsprint it consumer; in 1949, it was about 16 percent. Now we not only have a shortage but the price has been fixed so high by the Canadian Cartel that a free press in this country is imperilled because its principal raw material is moving out of reach.

Newsprint is the second largest import in the United States, being exceeded, in value, only by coffee. Approximately 80 percent of the amount we use comes from Canada, and the Canadians can fix any price they choose for it. They have no real competition.

In 1890, there were 130 manufacturers of newsprint in the United States and 13 in Canada, according to the report of the Celler committee. In 1913, newsprint was put on the free list and has remained there since in all tariff legislation. Let me quote from the Celler committee:

". . . In 1913 Canadian newsprint production was only about 350,000 tons compared to 1,305,000 produced in the United States. Canadian exports to this country in that year were only 117,000 tons, or about a third of total Canadian production. Only 13 years later, in 1926, Canadian production had eclipsed that in the United States, and the Dominion was exporting to this country almost as much newsprint as was manufactured by all domestic mills combined. . . .

"Production of newsprint in the United States, which attained its zenith of 1,687,000 tons in 1926, gradually dwindled until by 1933 it had fallen below the million ton mark. Thereafter, production in this country hovered steadily between 725,000 and 1,000,000 tons. . ."

In 1913, the United States was practically self-sufficient, producing 85 percent of its own requirements. Today, it imports about 80 percent of its newsprint from Canada. It is true that considerable American capital has been invested in Canadian mills, but the fact remains that this country is short of a commodity as essential as steel.

There is ample evidence that for many years the Canadian government has been in control of the price of newsprint, which is an essential factor in the economy of that country. One point that the Canadians emphasize is that they have no desire to destroy their forests unless they get a good price for newsprint. This quotation from the "paper trade journal" on August 26, 1937 is important as indicating the attitude of Candaians, which has remained unchanged since then:

"Efforts are now being made to prevent a repetition of over-expansion. Premier Duplessis of Quebec has appealed to the Ontario government for collaboration in formulating a common policy to "direct and not administer' the industry. Meanwhile he has forbidden the opening of new pulp and paper mills until those closed have been put into operation, and has established measures to prevent export of any pulpwood.

"The end to which Premier Duplessis is working is the maintenance of a fairly even balance between supply and demand and the adoption of a considerate price policy."

Canada cannot be blamed for conserving its forests, for preventing over-expansion of a national industry or for getting as high a price as it can. The United States can be blamed for not protecting a nationally essential commodity.

Any study of this problem indicates three clear facts:

1. The Canadians have us;
2. Our government, ECA and similar American agencies, use enormous amounts of newsprint and are competing so actively that the demand encourages pricing beyond purchaser power by the smaller newspapers;
3. Former competition by Finland and Sweden is not likely to be available under present conditions.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON.—All the double talk in the world will not erase the sample fact that the United Nations is quitting in Korea without achieving its objectives. When the fighting ends, the leverage ends. The same hold on North Korea that the Communists had before their aggression a year ago will continue. This is now taken for granted and is plainly implied in American pronouncements.

What makes the incident such a shameful chapter in the history of "collective security" is that the United Nations is now about to repudiate its resolution adopted by the General Assembly on October 7, 1950, when it said that the achievement of stability throughout Korea was its primary objective. Today the claim is repeatedly made by high American officials that it was never intended to use military means to attain that objective. Yet here is the language of the U.N. resolution of last October 7:

"United Nations forces should not remain in any part of Korea otherwise than so far as necessary for achieving the objectives specified in sub-paragraphs (a) and (b) above."

And what were the objectives specified? Here is the exact wording:

"(a) All appropriate steps be taken to ensure conditions of stability throughout Korea.

Unified Action

The "appropriate steps" meant armed operations because that was what the UN forces were engaged in at the time. In fact, in the preamble of the same resolution there is a specific reference to these military operations as follows:

"Having in mind that United Nations Armed Forces are at present operating in Korea in accordance with the recommendations of the Security Council of 27 June 1950, subsequent to its resolution of 25 June 1950, that members of the United Nations furnish such assistance to the Republic of Korea as may be necessary to repel the armed attack and to restore international peace and security in the area, . . ."

There can be no question that the UN Assembly intended last autumn to "restore peace and security in the area" by military action and no question either that the objective was to achieve "conditions of stability throughout Korea."

There was no concession that the status quo which existed a year ago could be restored. There was no admission that North Korea could remain under the control of Communist Russia or Communist China or that North Korea could even exist as a separate entity. The resolution proposed "a unified, independent and democratic government in the sovereign state of Korea."

Merely A Pause

If the view be taken that the armistice is merely a pause and that the main objectives are still to be attained through diplomacy, then the UN forces cannot be withdrawn and brought back to their home countries unless those objectives are assured. Since this means long-drawn-out negotiations, it implies that the UN is willing to compromise and settle for less than the October 7, 1950, resolution set forth.

To do this would be to concede defeat in Korea and to admit that the UN was unable, either by military action or by diplomacy, to carry out its October 7, 1950, resolution.

History will then say that the UN failed as did the League of Nations to enforce its resolutions and that, in this instance, although military and economic sanctions were applied, they were not exerted to maximum degree and the prestige of the UN suffered an ignominious blow. The whole world membership was arrayed against relatively small aggressor forces and yet the UN members failed to achieve a military victory.

Defeat For Truman

There is little doubt that Great Britain, which was responsible for the appeasement at Munich in 1938, is today responsible for the Korean appeasement policy and has influenced the American government to give way and settle the problem without a military decision. Already the influential "London Economist," which often anticipates British government action, says about what is to come after a "cease fire":

"A unified democratic Korea is not now a feasible objective of policy; to unify the country force would have to be used by one side or the other."

This is a realistic statement. Having given up the idea of unifying Korea by military action, the idea of getting it any other way also vanishes in the realm of vague and inconclusive diplomacy. America has suffered a defeat. The UN has suffered a defeat, and the Communists have won a signal victory through the failure of the Truman Administration to assert its leadership in the UN.

Unrest In The Alliance

AVON, Connecticut—

It will come as a shock to the people here at home who have been airily arguing about whether we "want allies," or should go it alone." Yet the fact is that our allies are also beginning to argue about whether they want us. This seems to this reporter by far the most significant single phenomenon observed during a long, just concluded trip abroad.

There are plenty of obvious reasons for the unrest and anti-American feeling within the Western alliance. The defense program which we have urged upon them is a heavy burden to the British, who have carried so many burdens for so long. The French, with their weak government, are hardly able to keep their promise to us to raise men for more divisions. German rearmament pleases no one.

Yet even these grave difficulties are essentially superficial. They would matter little, if it were not for two other, less noticeable but far deeper sources of trouble.

The first of these trouble sources—it had better be admitted frankly—is the failure of American leadership since the 1948 election.

Sights Are Raised

From November 1949 until the Korean aggression, the Administration told our allies, as it told the country, that we could all disarm and be comfortable. Then came the Korean challenge and the response. Then, with the advent of George C. Marshall at the Defense Department, there was an immense raising of rearmament sights. Then there was the victorious complacency after Inchon in October and the near panic after the Yalu defeat in November and December. And then there were two or three months before Gen. MacArthur's recall, when no one quite knew what American policy really was.

Other choppings and changings might also be noted. But the foregoing is enough to indicate how unpredictable we have seemed to the British, the French and our other allies.

To make matters worse, among our allies today, there is no one with Winston Churchill's superb self-confidence and willingness to take the lead himself. An alliance, like any other body of persons acting together, is deeply dependent on firm, clear-headed leadership. The Western alliance has no other possible leader but the United States. And our unsteady leadership in the past two years and a half has sadly shaken the confidence in the United States that was built up during the war and the great policy-making years just after the war.

In this sense, at least, the MacArthur controversy ought to prove remarkably fortunate, as having at last cleared the minds of Administration chieftains about what they were trying to do and having shown their intentions to the world. But no public debate, nothing but the most urgent and unrelenting effort, can cure the other trouble which is also weakening the Western alliance.

This trouble is simply the fear generated in Britain, in Western Europe, in the Middle and Far East, by the continuing predominance of Soviet military power. A later report will examine this problem in greater detail. It is enough to say here that Americans can hardly imagine the state of mind of informed men in Britain. These Englishmen know their country still lacks any effective air defense. They know also that Britain is the most vulnerable possible target for atomic attack. They expect that Britain will be instantly attacked if a general war breaks out.

Hysterical Fear

For Englishmen who think of a third world war in terms of total devastation, for Frenchmen who think of it in terms of Soviet occupation, the impulse to appease is naturally difficult to resist. This impulse would be less important today, if our allies thought that all risks, to them as well as to us, were being coolly and wisely calculated in Washington. But that is not the impression that has been conveyed. And thus, while our allies have no motion of surrender, they suffer from an almost hysterical fear that they will be plunged into an unnecessary war by American "excitabilty."

There is no use grumbling about injustice, appeasement, and man's ingratitude to man. The practical situation confronting us is the situation outlined above. Furthermore, this situation has been recognized in the Kremlin as another vulnerable flank of the free world. A great war of nerves offensive has been launched to capitalize on our allies' fears. The Kremlin's main aim and hope during the months immediately ahead will be to split and thus to paralyze the Western alliance. Every weapon of psychological warfare, from the crassiest intimidation to the most subtle subversion, is being and will be used to this end.

Fear Of Atom Bomb

This is because the Kremlin knows that the United States cannot go it alone. Fear of atomic attack on Russia by the American Strategic Air Force is the only existing deterrent to further Soviet aggression. The effectiveness of our Strategic Air Force now almost entirely depends upon overseas air bases, in territories of the British and our other allies. If the Kremlin could be sure that use of these bases would be denied to us, the Red Army would march tomorrow. And the Red Army will march, if and when a split in the Western alliance gives the longed-for protection to the masters of Russia.

These are bleak truths which need to be noted, but noted as warnings. For if America can only lead as America ought to lead, which means if America can only be true to her own greatness, there may be hard and tricky times ahead; but the Western alliance will hold firm and there will be no catastrophe. The knowledge that he is skirting a precipice makes the mountaineer step more carefully but also more firmly, and this must be the American rule today.

ALONG THE POTOMAC TO WASHINGTON

(By Representative J. Glenn Beall, Sixth Maryland District)

On the basis of Senate hearings on the tax bill, it is indicated that there will be a complete rewriting of the $7.2 billion tax bill passed by the House under a gag rule. Senator Walter F. George, (D) of Georgia, Finance Chairman, advocates raising 6 billion dollars in new revenue, more than a billion less than the House bill would yield and cutting the President's budget by applying cuts not only on domestic items but on military and foreign aid as well. He stated that individual income rates would destroy" some taxpayers.

Some interesting figures have come to my attention. The Census Bureau reported last week that the total farm production in Maryland last year was $172,157,401. Then I find that Maryland's share of payments for the revenue act of 1951 is $128,880,000. In other words, Maryland's share of tax-paying is almost as much as the entire farm revenue. Of this share, last year Maryland received back in Federal aid only $54,258,300, or much less than half of what her citizens paid in. This may be explained by the fact that the cost of operating peacetime departments of Commerce, Interior, Labor, Justice, State and Independent Offices over the last five years has increased from $3,505,975,565 to $11,214,579,034 or almost four times as much. Tax revenues laid on the people to pay for Government activities totaled $91,586,076,130 for all Presidents from Washington to Hoover; during the Roosevelt regime from 1933 through April, 1945, tax revenues rose to $156,762,318,450; and the total tax revenues collected during the Truman Administration from May 1, 1945 to June 20, 1951 totaled $260,417,309,430 or $12,068,914,840 more than was collected in the nation's history prior to his Administration.

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation is taking steps to clean up the mess brought to light by the recent investigations. All field agencies have been stripped of their power to grant loans. Heretofore they had been permitted to grant loans up to $100,000 without referring such requests to Washington. This action was taken when it was discovered that loans were made to such activities as flower growing, an advertising agency and the setting up of an optometrist shop among others.

Former Representative Martin Dies, of Texas who was Chairman of the House Committee on Un-American Activities has stated, in speeches in Texas, that there is a close affinity between the socialization schemes of the present Administration and the Russian pattern of Government. Mr. Dies declared that the last two Administrations were mainly responsible for the "rise of Russia from a third rate power to the position of a world menace without the loss of a Russian soul. The plain and ugly truth" he states, "is that our Government has protected Communism at home and abroad from 1933 to quite recently."

Under The Dome

I was advised by the Post Office Department that they are rearranging star route 13241, Baltimore (parcel post station) to Thurmont, and a round trip of service over that route between Baltimore and Frederick six times a week effective July 1, 1951. This will supersede star route 13113 Baltimore (parcel post station) to Union Bridge and a portion of Thurmont Junction and Frederick CP service. I asked the Department to give the residents of Frederick better service and I am hopeful the above plan will be satisfactory.

My bill authorizing the Interstate Commerce Commission to investigate the passenger facilities and rates in the Washington metropolitan area has been approved by the Montgomery County Civic Federation. This group adopted a Resolution asking for such an investigation. I have requested the Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee of the House to hold hearings on my bill.

The National Production Administration advised me that steel for a road project in Montgomery County would be available early in September. This steel was ordered some time ago and the shipment was first promised for May, however, present restrictions have held up the shipment.

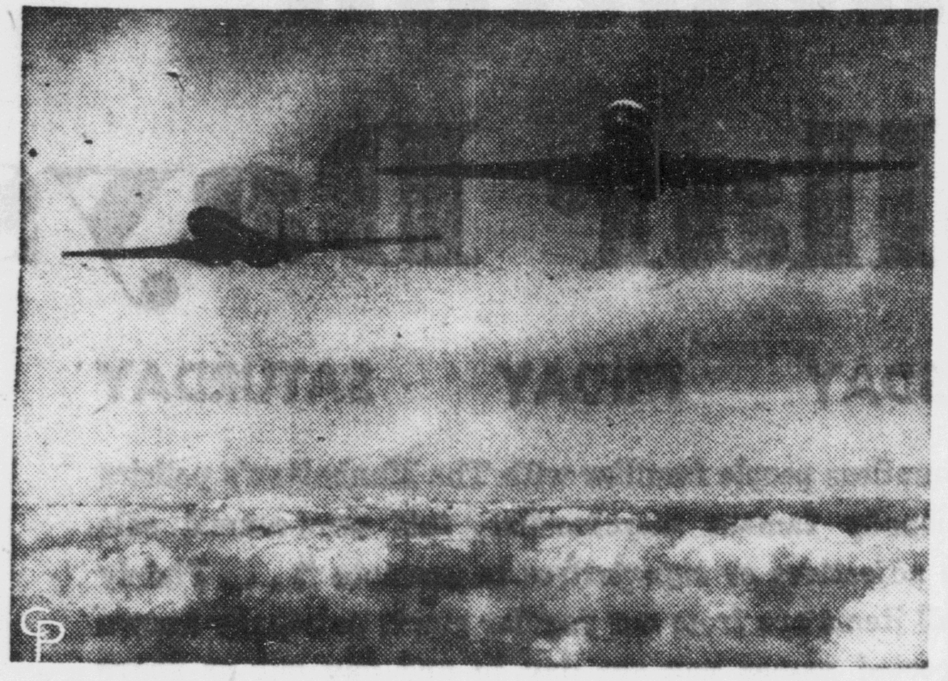
BRITISH PIN AIR FUTURE ON PASSENGER JETPLANES



Two propellerless British Comet jets fly high above the clouds.

By JOHN GOETTE
Central Press Staff Writer

LONDON—By thrusting commercial flying into a Jet Age, British airplane manufacturers and the United Kingdom's two passenger airlines, the British Overseas Airways corporation and the British European Airways, have forced a friendly but highly competitive challenge upon their American opposites.

Since the end of World War II, British airlines eagerly advertised that many of their world-girdling passenger planes were American-made. The picture is changing, and at least two important aviation companies in Britain are constructing planes of the pure jet and the jet-propeller type.

Between the end of 1951 and the spring of 1953, it is planned to send into the skies these jets which could start the best American piston-engined craft toward obsolescence.

The BOAC, while awaiting delivery of 14 Comets, four-engined, propellerless jets, is training commercial crews on the London-to-Cairo run, on one such craft with a passenger load of 23 persons.

* * *

THE BEA, which claims a record of more passengers per year than any line outside the United States, has completed operational tests of the first prop-jet planes to go into scheduled passenger service anywhere in the world.

By the beginning of 1953 this line plans to have in regular service on its continental European runs the 28 prop-jets now on assembly lines.

The British are frank in setting forth their plans for this Jet Age competition against the lead enjoyed by producers of piston-engined planes in the United States. W. E. Nixon, managing director of the de Havilland Aircraft corporation, builder of the Comet jet, states the issue plainly:

"We face the difficult task of securing world-wide business from the established airlines, bearing in mind that for 15 years they have been using American equipment and forming happy and satisfactory associations with our American competitors.

* * *

"THE AMERICANS, of course, will do all they can to save their market," Mr. Nixon continued. "We know that we must press forward with the development of the Comet to still better capabilities.

"We are preparing for a Comet with larger engines for the very long and severe trunk-route stages of the world."

An idea of how deeply Britain's drive into the Jet Age of commercial aviation can affect the American industry, may be gauged from current figures. The British European Airways flies on domestic and Continental routes three types of planes, of which approximately one-third are American.

When the BEA's 28 Vickers Viscount jet-props are delivered, that ratio will be seriously altered against its American-built craft. Likewise, for the present at least, British aviation has the field of foreign markets for jets to itself. Announcement has been made of orders for the new types from several airlines outside the United Kingdom.

Washington Wonderland

By SENATOR HARRY F. BYRD

The president recently thought the time had come in the Washington Wonderland to talk about shortages, controls, rationing and things, in connection with military preparedness requirements.

Among other shortages which appear to be of great concern to the Federal Government is the shortage of people to hire.

For the last twelve months the Military Establishment has been employing civilians at the rate of nearly 1,500 a day!

Harry F. Byrd

In some places, such as the Wright-Patterson Air Force Base at Dayton, Ohio, the Air Force can not find any more typists and stenographers to hire; so they are attempting to employ unqualified people and use maintenance and operations money to send them to commercial business schools!

While the federal payroll now totals more than 2½ million people and is costing more than $8 billion a year, government employment is continuing to increase at the date of hundreds a day in both the military and civilian agencies.

And we have only started recruiting employees for the new emergency agency now being established!

Recently the Joint Committee on Reduction of Nonessential Federal Expenditures made a survey of federal employment in the so-called field service, outside of Washington, throughout the country. It found federal employees in every one of the 3,069 counties of the 48 States except one — Armstrong County, South Dakota!

This report inspired Peter Steele to write a poem, which may be thought provoking to the readers of this column.

Americanus Independus

All Hail to Armstrong, South Dakota,
Land of the Free!
You have yet to fill your quota
With a Federal Employee!

No one from Agriculture?
How do you farm?
No one from Justice?
Who keeps you from harm?

No one from Veterans?
By whom are you paid?
No one from Commerce?
How do you trade?

No one from Housing?
Who buildeth your shacks?
No one from Treasury?
Who takes your tax?

No one from Post Office?
Who sells your stamp supply?
No one from Military?
Who keeps your powder dry?

No one from Security?
How, then, can you be Social,
If you have no single bureaucrat
To decide things equivocal?

Even the Department of Interior
Is from Armstrong's roster missed.
Tell me, Armstrong County,
How do you exist?

All Hail to Armstrong County,
Where there's no "share the pelf,"
And despite the Welfare Staters,
Each does things for himself.

Taking a trip? Brush up on what's new in what and when to tip to save yourself uncertainty and embarrassment.

SECRETS OF CHARM

By JOHN ROBERT POWERS

How much to tip and when, now that the old rule of ten percent is outmoded, puzzles many a traveler and diner-outer. But a new scale of gratuities has evolved and removes the uncertainty and embarrassment over such matters. The following schedule is currently accepted as fair to both those who give and those who receive service. Tuck it into your wallet and it will serve as a guide when you venture afield.

In Restaurants and Hotels

Except in world famous and haute-monde restaurants, where, smarting under the high prices you must pay, your conscience extracts a comparably outsize tip, leave 25c for a check between $1.00 and $2.00. For larger checks, about 12 per cent of the total raised to the next round figure is right. On a $4.00 check that would be 50c; on a $10.00 check, $1.25.

In hotels, tip the bellboy who shows you to your room 25c to 50c depending on the amount of luggage he carries for you. The chambermaid should receive 10 per cent of the cost of your room for a short stay or $3.00 to $5.00 per week. For room service, tip the waiters 25 per cent of the check unless the bill is over $5.00; then 15 per cent is adequate.

When travelling by train, tip station porters 15c for a small bag; 25c for a large one, except in the terminals where there is a fixed price for hauling luggage, in which case the porter will inform you of the total cost. Pullman porters are usually given 25c for a day trip, 50c for each night in an upper, 75c in a lower; $1.00 in a roomette, $1.50 in a compartment and $2.00 to $3.00 if you travel in a drawing room.

Ships, Planes and Taxis

On ships, 10 per cent of your passage is considered ample for division among your bath and cabin attendants, and your deck and dining stewards. Your travel agent will be glad to advise you on this as well as about tipping customs at your destination.

Airplanes: No tipping is permitted.

Doormen are not tipped unless a special service is performed, except at night clubs where 25c on leaving is customary. For powder-room attendants, 15c to 25c; for taxi drivers (in large cities), no less than 10c for a 50c ride and beyond that, 20 per cent.

And here's a tip that will help you get through the world pleasantly: Never offer a gratuity for willing service without a straight forward "thank you!"

Gunplay Lands Man In Jail

Arlie T. Lease, Pinto, is lodged in Allegany County jail in default of a $3,000 bond imposed at a hearing yesterday at Trial Magistrate's Court and is awaiting action of the October term of Circuit Court.

Lease is being held for allegedly assaulting his son, Rueben, and pointing a gun at him during an argument.

Court attaches said Trooper A. M. Spioch, who was dispatched to the Lease home to investigate a disturbance, arrived to find the prisoner pointing the weapon at his son. On other occasions, Lease fired through windows at his home, they added.

Unobserved by Lease, the trooper sneaked up behind the man and disarmed him. The prisoner was in the act of turning around to point the shotgun at Spioch, authorities reported.

About four years ago, State Police said, Trooper Spioch disarmed another gun-toter in the Westernport area while probing a complaint.

BRITISH PIN AIR FUTURE ON PASSENGER JETPLANES

Central Press Staff Writer

LONDON—By thrusting commercial flying into a Jet Age, British airplane manufacturers and the United Kingdom's two passenger airlines, the British Overseas Airways corporation and the British European Airways, have forced a friendly but highly competitive challenge upon their American opposites.

Since the end of World War II, British airlines eagerly advertised that many of their world-girdling passenger planes were American-made. The picture is changing, and at least two important aviation companies in Britain are constructing planes of the pure jet and the jet-propeller type.

Between the end of 1951 and the spring of 1953, it is planned to send into the skies these jets which could start the best American piston-engined craft toward obsolescence.

The BOAC, while awaiting delivery of 14 Comets, four-engined, propellerless jets, is training commercial crews on the London-to-Cairo run, on one such craft with a passenger load of 23 persons.

• • •

THE BEA, which claims a record of more passengers per year than any line outside the United States, has completed operational tests of the first prop-jet planes to go into scheduled passenger service anywhere in the world.

By the beginning of 1953 this line plans to have in regular service on its continental European runs the 28 prop-jets now on assembly lines.

The British are frank in setting forth their plans for this Jet Age competition against the lead enjoyed by producers of piston-engined planes in the United States. W. E. Nixon, managing director of the de Havilland Aircraft corporation, builder of the Comet jet, states the issue plainly:

"We face the difficult task of securing world-wide business from the established airlines, bearing in mind that for 15 years they have been using American equipment and forming happy and satisfactory associations with our American competitors.

• • •

"THE AMERICANS, of course, will do all they can to save their market," Mr. Nixon continued. "We know that we must press forward with the development of the Comet to still better capabilities.

"We are preparing for a Comet with larger engines for the very long and severe trunk-route stages of the world."

An idea of how deeply Britain's drive into the Jet Age of commercial aviation can affect the American industry, may be gauged from current figures. The British European Airways flies on domestic and Continental routes three types of planes, of which approximately one-third are American.

When the BEA's 28 Vickers Viscount jet-props are delivered, that ratio will be seriously altered against its American-built craft. Likewise, for the present at least, British aviation has the field of foreign markets for jets to itself. Announcement has been made of orders for the new types from several airlines outside the United Kingdom

Washington Wonderland

By SENATOR HARRY F. BYRD

The president recently thought the time had come in the Washington Wonderland to talk about shortages, controls, rationing and things, in connection with military preparedness requirements.

Among other shortages which appear to be of great concern to the Federal Government is the shortage of people to hire.

For the last twelve months the Military Establishment has been employing civilians at the rate of nearly 1,500 a day!

In some places, such as the Wright-Patterson Air Force Base at Dayton, Ohio, the Air Force can not find any more typists and stenographers to hire; so they are attempting to employ unqualified people and use maintenance and operations money to send them to commercial business schools!

While the federal payroll now totals more than 2½ million people and is costing more than $8 billion a year, government employment is continuing to increase at the date of hundreds a day in both the military and civilian agencies.

And we have only started recruiting employees for the new emergency agency now being established!

Recently the Joint Committee on Reduction of Nonessential Federal Expenditures made a survey of federal employment in the so-called field service, outside of Washington, throughout the country. It found federal employees in every one of the 3,069 counties of the 48 States except one — Armstrong County, South Dakota!

This report inspired Peter Steele to write a poem, which may be thought provoking to the readers of this column.

Americanus Independus

All Hail to Armstrong, South Dakota,
Land of the Free!
You have yet to fill your quota
With a Federal Employee!

No one from Agriculture?
How do you farm?
No one from Justice?
Who keeps you from harm?

No one from Veterans?
By whom are you paid?
No one from Commerce?
How do you trade?

No one from Housing?
Who buildeth your shacks?
No one from Treasury?
Who takes your tax?

No one from Post Office?
Who sells your stamp supply?
No one from Military?
Who keeps your powder dry?

No one from Security?
How, then, can you be Social,
If you have no single bureaucrat
To decide things equivocal?

Even the Department of Interior
Is from Armstrong's roster missed.
Tell me, Armstrong County,
How do you exist?

All Hail to Armstrong County,
Where there's no "share the pelf,"
And despite the Welfare Staters,
Each does things for himself.

Taking a trip? Brush up on what's new in what and when to tip to save yourself uncertainty and embarrassment.

SECRETS OF CHARM

By JOHN ROBERT POWERS

How much to tip and when, now that the old rule of ten percent is outmoded, puzzles many a traveler and diner-outer. But a new scale of gratuities has evolved and removes the uncertainty and embarrassment over such matters. The following schedule is currently accepted as fair to both those who give and those who receive service. Tuck it into your wallet and it will serve as a guide when you venture afield.

In Restaurants and Hotels

Except in world famous and haute-monde restaurants, where, smarting under the high prices you must pay, your conscience extracts a comparably outsize tip, leave 25c for a check between $1.00 and $2.00. For larger checks, about 12 per cent of the total raised to the next round figure is right. On a $4.00 check that would be 50c; on a $10.00 check, $1.25.

In hotels, tip the bellboy who shows you to your room 25c to 50c depending on the amount of luggage he carries for you. The chambermaid should receive 10 per cent of the cost of your room for a short stay or $3.00 to $5.00 per week. For room service, tip the waiters 25 per cent of the check unless the bill is over $5.00; then 15 per cent is adequate.

When travelling by train, tip station porters 15c for a small bag; 25c for a large one, except in the terminals where there is a fixed price for hauling luggage, in which case the porter will inform you of the total cost. Pullman porters are usually given 25c for a day trip, 50c for each night in an upper, 75c in a lower; $1.00 in a roomette, $1.50 in a compartment and $2.00 to $3.00 if you travel in a drawing room.

Ships, Planes and Taxis

On ships, 10 per cent of your passage is considered ample for division among your bath and cabin attendants, and your deck and dining stewards. Your travel agent will be glad to advise you on this as well as about tipping customs at your destination.

Airplanes: No tipping is permitted.

Doormen are not tipped unless a special service is performed, except at night clubs where 25c on leaving is customary. For powder-room attendants, 15c to 25c; for taxi drivers (in large cities), no less than 10c for a 50c ride and beyond that, 20 per cent.

And here's a tip that will help you get through the world pleasantly: Never offer a gratuity for willing service without a straight forward "thank you!"

Gunplay Lands Man In Jail

Arlie T. Lease, Pinto, is lodged in Allegany County jail in default of a $3,000 bond imposed at a hearing yesterday at Trial Magistrate's Court and is awaiting action of the October term of Circuit Court.

Lease is being held for allegedly assaulting his son, Rueben, and pointing a gun at him during an argument.

Court attaches said Trooper A. M. Spioch, who was dispatched to the Lease home to investigate a disturbance, arrived to find the prisoner pointing the weapon at his son. On other occasions, Lease fired through windows at his home, they added.

Unobserved by Lease, the trooper sneaked up behind the man and disarmed him. The prisoner was in the act of turning around to point the shotgun at Spioch, authorities reported.

About four years ago, State Police said, Trooper Spioch disarmed another gun-toter in the Westernport area while probing a complaint.

Orchardists Name Directors

Four area fruit growers attended the annual meeting of the board of directors of the Appalachian Apple Service, Inc., at Martinsburg, W. Va., Monday when three of the four officers were elected for their 16th consecutive year.

The officers are C. Purnell McCue, of Greenwood, Va., president; Malcolm M. Brown, treasurer, and Carroll R. Miller, secretary-manager, both of Martinsburg. Also re-elected was Charles R. Packard, of Roaring Springs, Pa., vice president.

On the board from this area are John P. Caspar, of Hancock; Henry W. Miller, Jr., of Paw Paw, W. Va.; J. Howard Rannells, of Romney, W. Va., and Cecil W. Wood, of Hedgesville, W. Va.

The apple service is comprised of 1,515 orchardists in Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia and Pennsylvania. The office is at Martinsburg, the central point of the 500-mile long belt.

South End Group To Hear Tax Talk

The South Cumberland Business Men's Association meets Monday at Grace Methodist Church Community Hall to hear a discussion of city finances by Commissioner William H. Buchholtz.

Commissioner Buchholtz will speak on "Why Our City Costs So Much."

This will be one of two meetings scheduled by the association this summer. The other will be held August 13. The bi-weekly meetings will be resumed in September.

A nominating committee has been named to report at the annual meeting in September. The group is composed of Marcus Naughton, Roy Cunningham and Lacy Cifala.

AREA COUPLE IS WED—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Robinson ducked thrown rice as they left Grace Methodist Church, Keyser, W. Va., following their marriage July 7 at 11:30 a. m. Rev Robert L. Bridgers officiated assisted by Rev. Lloyd Myers. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Bright, Keyser; the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Boyd A. Robinson, McCoole.

It is estimated that an object which weighs 20 pounds on earth would weigh only three pounds on the moon.

A furlong is 660 feet.

Merry-Go-Round

morning, Michigan's young Senator Moody put up a last-ditch fight to strike out all the special-interest amendments and salvage a good price-control law.

"It is about time that the interest of the consumers, of the American people, is considered ahead of the special interests who hope to profit by inflation at the public's expense," pleaded Moody.

Sen. Bill Benton, Connecticut Democrat, agreed.

"Abraham Lincoln said there should be a proper balance between property rights and human rights. However, that balance has been entirely upset in the past few days in the course of the proceedings in this chamber," Benton declared. "I suggest that we had better begin to consider how to reach the proper balance between property rights and human rights. If we do not do so, we shall lose the cold war. We shall lose it by losing the war of inflation."

But Sen. Irving Ives, New York Republican, saw the handwriting on the wall. Ives has consistantly battled for the consumer. So, at about 4 a.m., he admitted defeat: "the votes are against us, and there is nothing we can do about it. Only the test of time can show that we are right and they are wrong. I am willing to abide by that test. I should like to have the question come to a vote."

The roll call was called—and the Senate voted against the public, 59 to 22.

The first woman editor in the United States was Anne Franklin, of the Newport, R. I., Mercury, in 1762.

MAYBE NOT YOUR FAULT

WHEN your pair fails to get the same good score made by all of its rivals on a duplicate deal, the unfortunate result may not be your own fault. It may have been caused by something your opponents did, different from the opposition's action at other tables. Perhaps a third-hand psychic bid by one of them caused his partner to select a lead which could ruin your contract. The only justice in this is that such things happen occasionally to every other pair, so that in the long run they balance out.

The psychic bid of 1-Spade by East was made at only one table of a big duplicate game. South in every other case made the contract of 6-Diamonds without the slightest difficulty, following the club lead induced by normal bidding. The only trick lost by the declarer in these instances was in hearts.

West would have been easily convictable of a real bridge crime if he had led anything except a spade after the bidding sequence given above. And it of course beat the contract, with a ruff in that suit and a trick with the heart K.

East at this table was well stocked with imagination. With a partner who could not open the bidding, and an original call made by North, he saw several purposes that might be served by a psychic bid of his void in spades. One could be his causing strong opponents to land in the wrong declaration. Another could be exactly what did happen.

South's double of the 1-Spade told West immediately the nature of his partner's bid, since he held five of the suit himself. Then, when East eventually doubled the diamond slam, it was obvious to West that his partner wanted a spade lead. South said afterward that his own redouble was in a desperate effort to make West believe he did not fear a spade lead. But that try failed, and only increased the score for the defense.

"The Authority on Authorities"

MAYBE NOT YOUR FAULT

WHEN your pair fails to get the same good score made by all of its rivals on a duplicate deal, the unfortunate result may not be your own fault. It may have been caused by something your opponents did, different from the opposition's action at other tables. Perhaps a third-hand psychic bid by one of them caused his partner to select a lead which could ruin your contract. The only justice in this is that such things happen occasionally to every other pair, so that in the long run they balance out.

| Pass | 2 ♥ | 3 ♣ | 3 NT |
| Pass | 4 ♦ | 5 ♣ | 5 NT |

The psychic bid of 1-Spade by East was made at only one table of a big duplicate game. South in every other case made the contract of 6-Diamonds without the slightest difficulty, following the club lead induced by normal bidding. The only trick lost by the declarer in these instances was in hearts.

West would have been easily convictable of a real bridge crime if he had led anything except a spade after the bidding sequence given above. And it of course beat the contract, with a ruff in that suit and a trick with the heart K.

East at this table was well stocked with imagination. With a partner who could not open the bidding, and an original call made by North, he saw several purposes that might be served by a psychic bid of his void in spades. One could be his causing strong opponents to land in the wrong declaration. Another could be exactly what did happen.

South's double of the 1-Spade told West immediately the nature of his partner's bid, since he held five of the suit himself. Then, when East eventually doubled the diamond slam, it was obvious to West that his partner wanted a spade lead. South said afterward that his own redouble was in a desperate effort to make West believe he did not fear a spade lead. But that try failed, and only increased the score for the defense.

Librarian Averts Youths' Suicide By Reading Book

CHICAGO (NS) — A Baltimore librarian who turned the thoughts of jobless, depression-weary youths from suicide with readings from "The Three Musketeers" won the American Library Association's top prize today for descriptions of the power of books to influence human lives.

Winner of the $200 award in the ALA's 75th anniversary contest was Miss Elizabeth Hart of Baltimore's Enoch Pratt library.

Her statement, read today at the group's convention in Chicago, told of her "boys" — waterfront youths in Baltimore's Locust Point district — who met in the library one winter night in 1932 to talk of suicide because "guys can't go on this way." The librarian's entry read, in part:

"In the eyes of the world they were men . . . but there was no work . . . for two years there had been no work . . . they needed so much, and I had only books to offer . . .

"Taking 'The Three Musketeers' from the shelf, I began to read:

Librarian Averts Youths' Suicide By Reading Book

CHICAGO (NS) — A Baltimore librarian who turned the thoughts of jobless, depression-weary youths from suicide with readings from "The Three Musketeers" won the American Library Association's top prize today for descriptions of the power of books to influence human lives.

Winner of the $200 award in the ALA's 75th anniversary contest was Miss Elizabeth Hart of Baltimore's Enoch Pratt library.

Her statement, read today at the group's convention in Chicago, told of her "boys" — waterfront youths in Baltimore's Locust Point district — who met in the library one winter night in 1932 to talk of suicide because "guys can't go on this way." The librarian's entry read, in part:

"In the eyes of the world they were men . . . but there was no work . . . for two years there had been no work . . . they needed so much, and I had only books to offer . . .

"Taking 'The Three Musketeers' from the shelf, I began to read:

Another top prize-winner, Mrs. Rezia Gaunt of the Gary, Ind., public library, credited the institution's stock of "good and wise" books on race relations with helping to "make the diference between rioting and no rioting" during tension periods in the city.

STARTING GATE ARRIVES — The starting gate for the races which will open at Fairgo Tuesday is seen yesterday on Fayette Street as it was being taken to the race track. The vanguard of the hundreds of workers needed to insure smooth operation of the track has been busy for some time at Fairgo making last minute preparations for the racing session. About a fourth of the 400 horses slated to take part in the races are already stabled at the grounds.

City Sewage Equipment Is Used At Luke

A sewer emergency which at one time threatened to close a section of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company at Luke has been averted through the use of Cumberland's new motorized equipment.

Mrs. Lucile W. Roeder, commissioner of streets and public property, said the company hired the new sewer cleaning equipment for a limited period of time.

The emergency occurred July 4 and the equipment is due back tomorrow she said.

The Luke firm is paying all expenses. Since only city-trained men can operate the equipment, the company is paying transportation, wages and any overtime for the three operators required; $25 a day rental and has assumed responsibility for any repair the machinery might need when the emergency ends.

Mrs. Roeder said she authorized rental of the equipment because it was the only gear available to the plant which produces products vital to the defense program. A shutdown because of the sewer emergency would also have resulted in unemployment, she added.

The sewer cleaning equipment is one of the most recent modernizations in the Department of Streets and Public Property. The machinery is so designed to cut time and labor on city projects that it will eventually pay for itself, officials have said.

Dr. Emil Grubbe Receives Recognition For X-Ray Work

CHICAGO (AP) — Recognition is coming more than a half century late for Dr. Emil Grubbe—the man whose pioneer work led to saving or prolonging millions of lives.

Dr. Grubbe now is generally credited by medical science as the founder of x-ray treatments. This research venture cost the 76 year old and still active Chicago physician his left hand, the full use of his right hand and a strip of skin from his upper lip.

As a 20 year old physicist, he used a beam of x-rays to treat a woman cancer patient in Chicago in January, 1896. This was only a few months after Wilhelm Roentgen, a German physicist, discovered that invisible penetrating x-rays could be produced by sending an electrical charge through a vacuum tube.

Roentgen at the time regarded the x-ray as a valuable aid in diagnosis.

Account Is Published

An account of Grubbe's early work and belated recognition was published in Pageant Magazine. The Alumni Association of the now defunct Hahnemann Medical College of Chicago, where Grubbe was an instructor in physics when he treated the first patient with x-rays, announced it is presenting the physician with a special honor award.

Dr. Grubbe will be cited as one of "our greatest medical pioneers."

The Pageant article, written by Herb Bailey, said Grubbe tested the x-ray effect of his vacuum tube with his left hand, suffering disabling but delayed action burns.

"Although the world was rocked with Roentgen's announcement of x-rays as a diagnostic medium, no physician dreamed they would have a curative power. That is not until Professor Grubbe showed his injured hand to the doctors at the Hanemann medical college where he was teaching.

Dr. Emil Grubbe Receives Recognition For X-Ray Work

CHICAGO (AP) — Recognition is coming more than a half century late for Dr. Emil Grubbe—the man whose pioneer work led to saving or prolonging millions of lives.

Dr. Grubbe now is generally credited by medical science as the founder of x-ray treatments. This research venture cost the 76 year old and still active Chicago physician his left hand, the full use of his right hand and a strip of skin from his upper lip.

As a 20 year old physicist, he used a beam of x-rays to treat a woman cancer patient in Chicago in January, 1896. This was only a few months after Wilhelm Roentgen, a German physicist, discovered that invisible penetrating x-rays could be produced by sending an electrical charge through a vacuum tube.

Roentgen at the time regarded the x-ray as a valuable aid in diagnosis.

Account Is Published

An account of Grubbe's early work and belated recognition was published in Pageant Magazine. The Alumni Association of the now defunct Hahnemann Medical College of Chicago, where Grubbe was an instructor in physics when he treated the first patient with x-rays, announced it is presenting the physician with a special honor award.

Dr. Grubbe will be cited as one of "our greatest medical pioneers."

The Pageant article, written by Herb Bailey, said Grubbe tested the x-ray effect of his vacuum tube with his left hand, suffering disabling but delayed action burns.

"Although the world was rocked with Roentgen's announcement of x-rays as a diagnostic medium, no physician dreamed they would have a curative power. That is not until Professor Grubbe showed his injured hand to the doctors at the Hannemann medical college where he was teaching.

Could Destroy Cancer

"One of the doctors, J. E. Gilman, suggested if the x-rays could wreak such damage to normal tissues, they should also destroy cancer cells. The idea was exciting to Grubbe. He volunteered to test it."

Dr. Grubbe's first x-ray patient, Mrs. Rose Lee, died after treatment, the article said, but her advanced cancer tumor shrank and she remained relatively free from pain.

The young physicist received his M.D. degree two years later and has treated thousands of patients with x-rays since. He has an office on Chicago's north side.

The Pageant article said one reason Dr. Grubbe failed to receive popular recognition was because he was not a doctor at the time and did not have access to medical journals. A Viennese doctor, L. Freund who in 1897 used x-rays to remove superfluous hair sometimes has been credited as the first to apply radiation treatments.

The year book of the American Roentgen Ray Society recently credited Dr. Grubbe as the first to use the x-ray in treatments.

Mirror Of Your Mind

By LAWRENCE GOULD, Consulting Psychologist

Can a mother's love cure eczema?

Answer: Yes, says Dr. Donald H. Williams, Vancouver, B. C. dermatologist. A mother's caresses and expressions of affection are a better cure than any drug in many cases of "allergic eczema" in little children—in fact, the child may be literally "itching for love." For a baby's skin not only is more sensitive than the average adult's; it is a more direct source and vehicle of emotion. The anxiety of a child who feels he is neglected or rejected by his mother may express itself directly in skin irritation which only the calming of his fears will relieve. Some adults react in much the same way.

Is race hatred taught by parents?

Answer: Sometimes, of course but it is even more likely to be induced unintentionally by parental harshness. According to Dr. P. M. Turquet, writing in the British Journal of Medical Psychology, a child who is harshly treated or frustrated and forbidden to express his anger at the people who treat him in that way is likely to take it out on "foreigners" or "strangers" when he grows up. To punish a child who says, "I hate you," when you discipline him may make him a bully or warmonger later, even though he is neither by nature. Dictatorial fathers probably caused Nazi anti-semitism.

Do shock treatments alter personality?

Answer: Not essentially, report psychologists Sadi Oppenheim and David Brower in the Psychiatric Quarterly Supplement. Comparison of the findings of the Rorschach ("ink-blot") tests of 35 patients before and after such treatment led to the conclusion that "electric shock therapy in and by itself does not penetrate the deeper strata of the personality of depressed patients," though it makes them more responsive and helps them to think more clearly. Only psychotherapy can reach the real sources of their difficulties, which express deep-lying emotional conflicts.

Can a mother's love cure eczema?

Answer: Yes, says Dr. Donald H. Williams, Vancouver, B. C. dermatologist. A mother's caresses and expressions of affection are a better cure than any drug in many cases of "allergic eczema" in little children—in fact, the child may be literally "itching for love." For a baby's skin not only is more sensitive than the average adult's; it is a more direct source and vehicle of emotion. The anxiety of a child who feels he is neglected or rejected by his mother may express itself directly in skin irritation which only the calming of his fears will relieve. Some adults react in much the same way.

Is race hatred taught by parents?

Answer: Sometimes, of course but it is even more likely to be induced unintentionally by parental harshness. According to Dr. P. M. Turquet, writing in the British Journal of Medical Psychology, a child who is harshly treated or frustrated and forbidden to express his anger at the people who treat him in that way is likely to take it out on "foreigners" or "strangers" when he grows up. To punish a child who says, "I hate you," when you discipline him may make him a bully or warmonger later, even though he is neither by nature. Dictatorial fathers probably caused Nazi anti-semitism.

Do shock treatments alter personality?

Answer: Not essentially, report psychologists Sadi Oppenheim and David Brower in the Psychiatric Quarterly Supplement. Comparison of the findings of the Rorschach ("ink-blot") tests of 35 patients before and after such treatment led to the conclusion that "electric shock therapy in and by itself does not penetrate the deeper strata of the personality of depressed patients," though it makes them more responsive and helps them to think more clearly. Only psychotherapy can reach the real sources of their difficulties, which express deep-lying emotional conflicts.

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK, July 11.—(INS)—Am considering a non-political trip to Spain, so had better brush up on my olive oil.

No known flora or fauna ever bowed into literature more dramatically than the olive. The first recorded mention of the olive is in the biblical story of Noah, and the dove which returned to the ark with an olive twig in its beak.

The olive apparently originated in the countries at the eastern end of the Mediterranean — probably Palestine and Syria. Its first serious culture seems to have been in the land of Canaan.

Phoenecian mariners in all probability carried it to the other countries of the Mediterranean basin, which today are the largest producers of olive oil — Spain, Italy, Tunis, Algeria, French Morocco, Portugal and Greece, the first European country to cultivate the tree. Fellow named Pliny wrote that the Romans obtained the olive tree from the Greeks in the time of Tarquinius Priscus, about 627 B. C., although the tree is believed to have existed in an uncultivated state in Italy before that.

• — • — •

Since antiquity, olive oil has always been the symbol of ease and contentment in living. It was used as a food and condiment by the Greeks and Romans, and Virgil, in a good housekeeping magazine mood, described a Roman of his day making a salad:

"With cautious hand that judges what it spills,

Some drops of olive oil he then instills."

A 2,000 year old cookbook, "De Re Coquinaria," written by Apicius, recommends olive oil as a condiment for such dishes as leucoromus chicken and rose cake. Beg to report have had neither of these dishes for, oh, weeks.

The Romans used olive oil for other purposes. Cato and Varro speak of it as the "oil which comforts man not only within, but without, for it follows us into the bath and gymnasium." Egyptians used it as a sun-tan lotion, a practice that continues.

The process of deriving the oil from the olive has not changed, essentially, since the first drops were squeezed therefrom. It is still the juice of a not-quite-fully-ripe olive.

As in primitive days, the olives, after spraying, are first crushed between weights or rolls. Following this first crushing, the fruit is placed in large cloths or bags made of Esparto grass. The bags are then subjected to a pressure of 300 to 500 pounds per square inch, which extracts most of the juice and the fine, sweet oil called virgin olive oil, which is superior in flavor and quality to that obtained from later pressings.

The second pressing, at 1,500 pounds per square inch pressure, gets the second grade edible oil. The third, a real crush job, produces an oil that is used for industrial purposes.

Centrifugal vats separate the oil from the juice. A spray, atop the fresh oil, quickly dissolves and carries away with it any bitterness. The "vintage" oil, cream of the cream, is not thus treated, however. It is stored and allowed to age like wine.

There are olive oil tasters, like wine authorities. They supervise the blending of oils secured at different seasons of the harvesting period, to produce a uniform quality and taste. They must also consider aroma and color. The best must be "fruity" in scent, and the color of charteuse liqueur.

If olive oil had no other claim to immortality it could at least boast of being more widely and more consistently imitated than any other food product sold to the American consumer. Olive oil has inspired a seemingly tireless search for substitutes.

It retains its hold on the American palate because it remains a bountiful product. The 1951 crop is expected to be the biggest in history. Nothing is as cheap as it was in 1939, but olive oil prices today range from 30 to 40 per cent below the OPA ceilings of World War II, when it did indeed become as rare quantitively as the old Romans considered it qualitatively.

W. Md. Railway Income Rises

Western Maryland Railway estimated its net income for the first half of 1951 at approximately $2,886,000 after taxes and all charges.

This was equal to $16.26 a share on the 177,420 shares of seven per cent cumulative first preferred stock, in arrears as to dividends.

For the corresponding period of last year net income was $2,277,445 or $12.83 a share on the first preferred stock.

June net income was estimated at $473,000 down slightly from $486,127 for the similar month last year, but ahead of the net figure of $412,025 reported for May, 1951.

Gross operating revenues for the first six months were approximately $24,154,000, an increase of 28 per cent over $18,799,879 for the like period last year.

Coal freight revenues at $8,534,000 were up 15 per cent and other freight receipts at $14,472,000 rose 36 per cent.

June gross was estimated at $3,946,000 an increase of 13 per cent over $3,485,269 for the corresponding month of 1950.

Coal revenues for June were down six per cent but other freight revenues were up 27 per cent.

A company spokesman said the volume of ore business during June and the first six months was virtually double that of last year.

NEWS OF AREA SERVICE MEN

MARINE CORPS——ARMY——NAVY——AIR FORCES

Russell Lee Keplinger, aviation boatswain mate, third class, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Keplinger, 143 Kornhoff Place, has completed a 12-week course at the Naval Airship School (non-pilot) at the Lakehurst Naval Air Station, N. J.

He was taught the fundamentals of airship construction, maintenance and aerodynamics during the first six weeks.

The second six weeks he participated in the actual erection of a Navy airship and flew as a member of the crew as an airship structural mechanic.

Old Prussian Military Discipline Absent In German Police School

FRANKFURT, Germany—(AP)—The old Prussian military spirit is blissfully absent in Western Germany's new mobile security force.

The break with the former traditions of army life runs from training in the use of firearms to eating habits and recreation.

"Discipline and military education are possible without violating human dignity" is the motto in training schools.

Ten thousand young Germans are being trained to take their place this fall in the Preparedness Police (Beritschaftspolizei). This force is being set up by the Federal and State governments to guard against the threat of Communist infiltration, riot or sabotage.

Certainly their training is a far cry from the rigid barracks life first laid down 200 years ago by Frederick The Great—and followed by every German army and police force since.

"You get the best results with the mildest means," young trainees for the mobile security force are told.

Now the mobile police trainee takes his meals with superior officers and on white covered tables, just as at home.

A spirit of comradeship between officers and men is encouraged in the training schools. A German soldier was a subordinate in private life just as in the barracks.

Now the young police trainee simply nods his head when meeting an officer in off duty hours.

Arms Bottleneck Curbing Training For U. S. Troops

STUTTGART, Germany — (AP) — Bottlenecks in armament production in the United States are a temporary curb on realistic battle training for American troops of the defense line in Europe.

Officers of the expanding Seventh Army stationed along the frontier of Soviet-occupied East Germany, say the supply situation, worrisome at present, should vastly improve in a few months.

In simulating wartime conditions, the Seventh Army uses live ammunition during some of its field exercises. Because of the acute needs of U.S. forces in Korea, American ammunition output has largely gone there.

Shipments May Increase

Officers look for ammunition shipments here to increase soon as more factories back home reach their full production stride. The "ration" for training then can be substantially enlarged.

A shortage of Napalm (fire bombs) is also exxpected to be overcome. Until now, reserves here have not been large enough to permit use of Napalm in some field problems.

Communications equipment is another item in short supply among ground forces in Germany. Even so, the Seventh Army's communications are believed much superior to those of Soviet troops on the other side of the frontier.

No shortages are reported in the Army's rolling stock. The supply of tanks, for example, is in satisfactory proportion to present manpower and more will arrive with new divisions.

Two-Fold Mission

The Seventh Army has a two-fold mission under its veteran commander, Lieutenant General Manton S. Eddy, whose victories in the last war ranged from North Africa to the Rhine.

Its first responsibility is to be in combat readiness at all times against possible Soviet attack.

But it is also responsible for taking semi-green divisions from camps at home and giving them a sharp fighting edge.

There is no better way to prepare soldiers for the impact of a shooting war than to make training as realistic as possible. This the Seventh Army intends to do, with close security control to protect the lives of participants, but it's counting on the men and women on the production line back home to help out.

Shipments May Increase

Officers look for ammunition shipments here to increase soon as more factories back home reach their full production stride. The "ration" for training then can be substantially enlarged.

A shortage of Napalm (fire bombs) is also exxpected to be overcome. Until now, reserves here have not been large enough to permit use of Napalm in some field problems.

Communications equipment is another item in short supply among ground forces in Germany. Even so, the Seventh Army's communications are believed much superior to those of Soviet troops on the other side of the frontier.

No shortages are reported in the Army's rolling stock. The supply of tanks, for example, is in satisfactory proportion to present manpower and more will arrive with new divisions.

Two-Fold Mission

The Seventh Army has a two-fold mission under its veteran commander, Lieutenant General Manton S. Eddy, whose victories in the last war ranged from North Africa to the Rhine.

Its first responsibility is to be in combat readiness at all times against possible Soviet attack.

But it is also responsible for taking semi-green divisions from camps at home and giving them a sharp fighting edge.

There is no better way to prepare soldiers for the impact of a shooting war than to make training as realistic as possible. This the Seventh Army intends to do, with close security control to protect the lives of participants, but it's counting on the men and women on the production line back home to help out.

Socialized Medicine Is Now Three Years Old In Britain

LONDON —(AP)— Socialized medicine in Britain is three years old today and still suffering from growing pains.

But politicians of all shades and doctors and patients are agreed on one thing: Free medical service is here to stay.

The only major argument is how baby's growth is to be supervised and directed, and how big her budget should be.

Government-aid medical service in the current fiscal year is costing Britain $1,120,000,000. The figure has risen each year since the first budget allotted $604,800,000 for the last nine months of fiscal 1948-49.

$28 For Each Patient

The budget figure this year adds up to about $28 for each patient.

The Labor Cabinet, which inaugurated and has run the health service, got worried about mounting costs this year and made a bow in the direction of economy by ordering patients to pay half the cost of false teeth and spectacles.

The charges on patients not only have trimmed the budget a bit— they also have deprived comedians, humorists and cartoonists of ammunition for overworked gags about the health service.

The Laborites acknowledge the service is not yet working as smoothly as it should be. But they point out that the enterprise covers about 42,000,000 of Britain's 50,000,000 people and as many as 19,000 of the country's 21,000 general practitioners.

The health service runs almost 3,000 hospitals.

With the health service subject to scrutiny by legislators, newspapers and others, there has been a lot of paper work to account for all the money and medicine.

Doctors Grouse

And it's paper work that the doctors grouse considerably about.

The other doctors' grousings are overwork and underpay.

Negotiations to reduce their caseload and boost the per-patient payment from the treasury are in progress.

The man in the street laughs at some of the foibles of the health service but he concedes that he's glad to be freed from the worry of doctors bills.

The Conservative Party, bitter opponent of other nationalization schemes of the socialist government, would never dream of suggesting that free medical service should be scrapped. That would be political suicide.

The Conservatives say proudly that they had a share in the parenthood since most of the planning for the service was done while they were in the wartime coalition cabinet.

But they feel that they could run it more efficiently and less expensively than the Laborites do.

Bosox Play

with an 8½ game lead over the New York Giants, open a long home stand against the western clubs with a night game against the seventh-place Chicago Cubs while the Giants and Cardinals fight it out for second place.

The rest of tomorrow's program:

Chisox Hold 7-4 Edge

So far this year Chicago has a 7-4 margin in games over Boston in the battle of the Soxes. But three of the Red Sox four victories came in their last series in Boston as the Fenway Flailers began a drive that carried them to 13 victories in 17 games, the last six in a row.

Paul Richards named Saul Rogovin and former Boston flinger Joe Dobson to stop the rampaging Red Sockers. The Red Sox will counter with Mel Parnell and Leo Kiely.

The Yankees, who beat the Indians eight times in eleven attempts during the first half of the season, open a 13-game western tour with "the big fellow," Joe DiMaggio, on the bench and with a rather wobbly pitching staff.

DiMaggio Is Missing

DiMaggio, suffering from a torn leg muscle, was unable to play in the All-Star game. He is expected to be out of action for at least ten days and may not play at all in the west.

Meanwhile Manager Casey Stengel is reported pulling strings in an effort to bring up outfielder Bob Cerv and southpaw pitcher Jerry Wiesler from Kansas City as insurance.

Stengel listed Allie Reynolds to pitch tomorrow night's opener in Cleveland against Bob Feller.

Although history has shown that a big mid-season lead isn't safe in Brooklyn, the Dodgers appear to be in no immediate danger. They have won seven of eleven from the Cubs so far and Manager Chuck Dressen's greatest concern now is over the condition of Andy Pafko's left knee.

Pafko's Knee Injured

Pafko, obtained from the Cubs last month, was hurt the second day he played for the Dodgers. He has been in an out of the lineup and after an examination yesterday of the stubborn swelling behind his knee, he was advised to rest until it subsides.

The Giants, only one game ahead of the Cardinals in the second-place struggle, also have a problem concerning one of their key men. Little Eddie Stanky hasn't been playing well and may be replaced any day by Dave Williams, the $50,000 second-base beauty just brought in from Minneapolis.

Lloyd's Of London Presents $250 Gifts To Calumet Grooms

LEXINGTON, KY., July 11 (AP)—Two Calumet farm grooms are receiving a gift of $250 each from a grateful Lloyd's of London.

The noted insurance firm is presenting Dan Burnette and R. W. Coleman with the gifts for their work in saving the fabulous Citation from possible harm during a van fire.

Big Cy, leading money-winner in the racing world, and stablemates Ponder, 1949 Derby winner, and Two Lea were being vanned from Bay Meadows down the coast in California to Hollywood Park last May when brakes on the van became overheated and caught fire.

Coleman and Burnette stood by the horses to calm them until the blaze was extinguished, averting any possible injury to the horses while the fire-fighting was going on outside the van.

It's common gossip in the horse world that Calumet carries insurance on big Cy running well up into six figures.

Jury Trials Granted In Bookmaking Cases

HAGERSTOWN, July 11 (AP) — Jury trials were granted today for three persons arrested last Saturday night in gambling raids.

The trials by jury were granted by Magistrate John Berkson at the request of State's Attorney John S. Hollyday.

The defendants are John Lester Saum, Plaza Restaurant proprietor, James Gray and Bruce McLanahan. Saum and Gray are at liberty on $2,000 bail and McLanahan without bond.

Saum and Gray are charged with bookmaking. McLanahan is accused of hitting police officer Oscar Joseph Plume on the head with a bottle during the raid.

Count Turf To Vie In Travers Stakes

NEW YORK, July 11 (AP)—Trainer Sol Rutchick said today he has abandoned plans to ship Count Turf to Chicago for the $50,000 added Arlington Handicap July 21. Instead the Kentucky Derby winner will be pointed for the $20,000 added Travers Stakes at Saratoga, Aug. 18, said the trainer.

Fred Perry, former British tennis star, now writes a tennis column for a London newspaper.

Method Of Contacting War Prisoners Is Outlined

Families of servicemen believed held prisoner by North Korean or Chinese Communist forces, are being given the following information as to the manner in which mail should be addressed to the servicemen.

Instructions, given by the Maryland Veterans Commission, say to use the name, rank and serial number of the prisoner, followed by the words: Care of Chinese People's Committee for World Peace, Peking, China.

When the above address is used, the commission added, no stamp need be used and the letter may be dropped in any U. S. mailbox.

It should be emphasized that details on captured men have not been reported accurately by the enemy to the International Red Cross. Therefore, the commission continues, it has been necessary to use the following sources of information: The Peking radio, monitored 24 hours a day; the Communist press in this country, carrying names of alleged prisoners; and letters from prisoners to their families.

The unreliability of the first two sources mentioned is obvious.

Four of the 19 men who managed the St. Louis Browns were born in Missouri. They are Harold (Muddy) Ruel, James Burke, George Stovall and John O'Connor.

Marriage Licenses

Ernest Franklin Henderson, 408 Cedar Street, and Evelyn May Youngblood, Magnolia, W. Va.

Glenn Edward Axton and Anita Louise Hixenbaugh, both Fairhope, Pa.

Lonaconing Wins, 6-5

Lonaconing defeated the Hyndman Firemen by the score of 6-5 in a Bi-State Baseball League game yesterday at Hyndman.

After Lonaconing went ahead Hyndman announced it was playing the game under protest, claiming Lonaconing used Joe Scarpelli, an ineligible player.

Hyndman failed to report the game.

The Syracuse Nationals in the National Basketball Association will play in Syracuse's $3,500,000 Onondaga County War Memorial next season.

PLASTERED BUT CHEERFUL—Sugar Ray Robinson manages a big grin in his London hotel today despite plastered cut over eye and loss of his middleweight title. Sugar Ray lost the decision in a 15-round bout with Randy Turpin, British negro, in a stunning upset on Tuesday night. Robinson received $84,000 for losing. He should be cheerful.

Rallying for six runs in the top of the 7th inning, the Lions came from behind to defeat the Exchange Club by the score of 7-5 in a Hot Stove Baseball League thriller yesterday at Community Park.

The victory moved Manager Jim Stevenson's aggregation to within a half-game of the front-running Optimist Club.

Four hits coupled with two walks and an outfield bobble marked the rally that put the game on ice in the final stanza after the Exchange Club had taken a 5-1 lead.

During the explosion Rohe and Long walked and Widdows, Landis, Poling and Gene Rice singled. The latter's blow came with the score tied at 5-5 and scored the winning runs.

Jerry Landis hurled a nice article of ball after relieving Bobby Dawson in the 5th. He struck out six batters, got credit for the win and collected two of his team's seven bingles. Galen McGregor struck out 14 Lions and obtained two of the five hits credited to the Exchange Club.

At Campobello, Ronnie Stickley pitched Manager Mike Robinson's Jaycees to a 3-1 decision over the Times-News tossers who dropped into 5th place in the eight-club circuit.

Stickley held the opposition to five hits, shut them out until the final frame and struck out eight. The Jaycees collected only three hits off Murphy and Grimes.

Clarence "Pooch" Lewis of the Jaycees turned in three sparkling catches in right field while "Hank" Page played a bangup game at third base for the losers. Dick Bittner of the Times-News was the only player to collect two hits. The scores:

Snead Is Choice In Western Open

Tournament Starts Today In Davenport

DAVENPORT, Ia., July 11. (AP)—The tradition-rich Western Open Golf Tournament gets underway here tomorrow and the favorite, of course, is Sam Snead.

Snead, the PGA champion and golf's biggest money winner, is after his third straight western title. If the long hitter from West Virginia gets it, he'll tie the tournament record set by Ralph Guldahl.

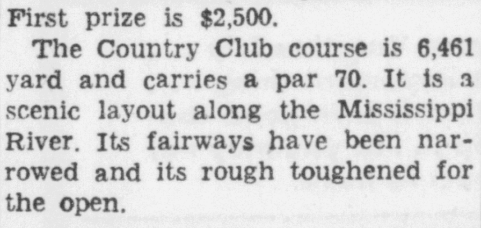
The site is the Davenport Country Club.

Big Ralph finished the 1936 tournament with a course record 64 for a 274 total. He retained his championship the next two years. His course record here has held up through the years, but many observers expect it to fall in the next four days.

Snead won his first Western Open at St. Paul in 1949 and followed through in 1950 at Los Angeles.

Nearly all the top professionals except little Ben Hogan, the National Open champ, are here with stout ideas about stopping Snead. First prize is $2,500.

The Country Club course is 6,461 yard and carries a par 70. It is a scenic layout along the Mississippi River. Its fairways have been narrowed and its rough toughened for the open.



NEW YORK, July 11 (AP)—Probable pitchers for tomorrow's major league games (won-lost records in parentheses):

NATIONAL LEAGUE

St. Louis at New York—Presko (6-3) or Chambers (6-8) vs Koslo (3-5).

Cincinnati at Boston (night)—Ramsdell (6-9) vs Surkont (7-6).

Chicago at Brooklyn (night)—Minner (4-7) vs Branca (7-2).

Pittsburgh at Philadelphia (night)—Pollet (2-5) or Dickson (10-8) vs Church (9-4).

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Boston at Chicago (twi-night doubleheader)—Parnell (10-5) and Kiely (1-0) vs Rogovin (5-4) and Dobson (6-3).

New York at Cleveland (night)—Reynolds (9-5) vs Feller (12-2).

Yanks At Cleveland Tonight; Brooklyn Opens Home Stand

NEW YORK, July 11 (AP)—Although the National League slugged out a victory in the 1951 major league All-Star game, the American will bounce right back into the spotlight tomorrow when the pennant races are resumed after a three-day intermission.

The four clubs involved in a knockdown battle for the lead in the younger circuit start right off by battling one another.

The Boston Red Sox, hottest team in either league for the past couple of weeks, go into Chicago for a twi-night doubleheader opening a four-game series with the league-leading White Sox. At the same time the champion Yankees, who have slipped to third, open a four-game set in Cleveland with a night game against the fourth-place Indians.

Tribe Trails By Four

Dappers Beat Dans, 12-4, 2,000 See All-Star Game

John Rice's Two-Run Homer Turns Tide In Tilt At Penn Field

Scoring in every inning but the second, the Dappers romped to victory over the Dans by the convincing score of 12-4 in the second annual all-star game of the Little Baseball League, staged last night at Penn Avenue Field before approximately 2,000 spectators.

The Dans succeeded in holding the opposition to a 1-1 draw for two frames but in the third John Rice, Red Sox outfielder, slammed a two-run homer to give the Dappers a lead they never relinquished.

Four pitchers were used by the Dappers whose personnel included members of the Phillies, Athletics, Cardinals, Red Sox, Pirates and Yankees, under the management of Howard "Farmer" Northcraft. Coaches of the winning team were Charley Hornbrook, Bob Collins, John "Joker" Boyle and Jimmy Crawford.

Washington Is Winner

Mike McCullough of the A's started on the peak for the Dappers and he was followed in order by Arthur Washington of the Phillies; Charley Smith of the A's and Ronnie Markley of the Cardinals. Washington got credit for the victory.

Manager Bill Buzzard, who was assisted by Charley Kreitzburg, used five moundsmen, namely, Eddie McKinney, Senators; Gary Wolford, Braves; Robert Paye, Indians; Richard McGann, Tigers, and Frank Valentine, Dodgers. The loss was charged to Wolford.

The Dapper collected 11 hits with John Rice and Charley Smith sharing four of the blows.

Limited To Four Hits

Only four hits were credited to the Dans and they were made by Ronnie Mayo, Roy Lafferty, Gary Wolford and Bob Paye.

Eleven errors were committed by the teams, six being charged against the victors and five against the Dans.

Washington struck out six Dans while McKinney fanned four Dappers.

Bobby Page, of the A's, who played second base for the Dappers, turned in the fielding gem when he fell down making a stop of Beckwith's grounder over second base and tossed out the batter at first base.

Ronald Hymes, Pirates outfielder, who was in the Dappers' lineup, also turned in a nice play in the 5th when he speared a low line drive for the final out with two runners on the paths.

Forty-eight boys participated in the contest, 25 with the Dappers and 23 with the Dans.

Four hits coupled with two walks and an outfield bobble marked the rally that put the game on ice in the final stanza after the Exchange Club had taken a 5-1 lead.

During the explosion Rohe and Long walked and Widdows, Landis, Poling and Gene Rice singled. The latter's blow came with the score tied at 5-5 and scored the winning runs.

Jerry Landis hurled a nice article of ball after relieving Bobby Dawson in the 5th. He struck out six batters, got credit for the win and collected two of his team's seven bingles. Galen McGregor struck out 14 Lions and obtained two of the five hits credited to the Exchange Club.

At Campobello, Ronnie Stickley pitched Manager Mike Robinson's Jaycees to a 3-1 decision over the Times-News tossers who dropped into 5th place in the eight-club circuit.

Tournament Starts Today In Davenport

DAVENPORT, Ia., July 11. (AP)—The tradition-rich Western Open Golf Tournament gets underway here tomorrow and the favorite, of course, is Sam Snead.

Snead, the PGA champion and golf's biggest money winner, is after his third straight western title. If the long hitter from West Virginia gets it, he'll tie the tournament record set by Ralph Guldahl.

The site is the Davenport Country Club.

Big Ralph finished the 1936 tournament with a course record 64 for a 274 total. He retained his championship the next two years. His course record here has held up through the years, but many observers expect it to fall in the next four days.

Snead won his first Western Open at St. Paul in 1949 and followed through in 1950 at Los Angeles.

Nearly all the top professionals except little Ben Hogan, the National Open champ, are here with stout ideas about stopping Snead. First prize is $2,500.

The Country Club course is 6,461 yard and carries a par 70. It is a scenic layout along the Mississippi River. Its fairways have been narrowed and its rough toughened for the open.

Yanks At Cleveland Tonight; Brooklyn Opens Home Stand

NEW YORK, July 11 (AP)—Although the National League slugged out a victory in the 1951 major league All-Star game, the American will bounce right back into the spotlight tomorrow when the pennant races are resumed after a three-day intermission.

The four clubs involved in a knockdown battle for the lead in the younger circuit start right off by battling one another.

The Boston Red Sox, hottest team in either league for the past couple of weeks, go into Chicago for a twi-night doubleheader opening a four-game series with the league-leading White Sox. At the same time the champion Yankees, who have slipped to third, open a four-game set in Cleveland with a night game against the fourth-place Indians.

Tribe Trails By Four

Dappers Beat Dans, 12-4, 2,000 See All-Star Game

John Rice's Two-Run Homer Turns Tide In Tilt At Penn Field

Scoring in every inning but the second, the Dappers romped to victory over the Dans by the convincing score of 12-4 in the second annual all-star game of the Little Baseball League, staged last night at Penn Avenue Field before approximately 2,000 spectators.

The Dans succeeded in holding the opposition to a 1-1 draw for two frames but in the third John Rice, Red Sox outfielder, slammed a two-run homer to give the Dappers a lead they never relinquished.

Four pitchers were used by the Dappers whose personnel included members of the Phillies, Athletics, Cardinals, Red Sox, Pirates and Yankees, under the management of Howard "Farmer" Northcraft. Coaches of the winning team were Charley Hornbrook, Bob Collins, John "Joker" Boyle and Jimmy Crawford.

Washington Is Winner

Mike McCullough of the A's started on the peak for the Dappers and he was followed in order by Arthur Washington of the Phillies; Charley Smith of the A's and Ronnie Markley of the Cardinals. Washington got credit for the victory.

Manager Bill Buzzard, who was assisted by Charley Kreitzburg, used five moundsmen, namely, Eddie McKinney, Senators; Gary Wolford, Braves; Robert Paye, Indians; Richard McGann, Tigers, and Frank Valentine, Dodgers. The loss was charged to Wolford.

The Dapper collected 11 hits with John Rice and Charley Smith sharing four of the blows.

Washington struck out six Dans while McKinney fanned four Dappers.

Bobby Page, of the A's, who played second base for the Dappers, turned in the fielding gem when he fell down making a stop of Beckwith's grounder over second base and tossed out the batter at first base.

Ronald Hymes, Pirates outfielder, who was in the Dappers' lineup, also turned in a nice play in the 5th when he speared a low line drive for the final out with two runners on the paths.

Forty-eight boys participated in the contest, 25 with the Dappers and 23 with the Dans.

Two Title Matches Planned For New York In September

Turpin-Robinson Bout Set Sept. 6; Louis To Face Charles Sept. 26

NEW YORK, July 11 (AP)—Barring upsets and accidents, New York will get the two fistic plums of the year—the return title bouts between Randy Turpin and Ray Robinson and Ezzard Charles and Joe Louis.

Promoter Jim Norris of the International Boxing Club made this clear today as he started working on plans to stage both of these shows in the Polo Grounds in September.

If all goes according to plan, the Turpin-Robinson middleweight title bout will be held Sept. 6 and the Charles-Louis heavyweight championship bout Sept. 26.

Joe Fights On Coast

Louis and Charles both have some action scheduled before their date. The Brown Bomber meets Cesar Brion in San Francisco, Aug. 1, and Charles is slated to defend his crown once more against old Jersey Joe Walcott in Pittsburgh, July 18.

Norris said he first expected to hold the Turpin-Robinson fight on the 26th but that he had been asked by British promoter Jack Solomons to put it on earlier. According to Norris, Solomons wants to stage a show of his own in London, Sept. 25.

There was a report earlier in the day from London which quoted Solomons as saying that the Turpin-Robinson contract provided that the return could be held in either London or New York depending on where the most money could be grossed.

Norris said that wasn't so and that he held iron-clad papers for a New York return.

"We'll put it on here," said Norris, "and it should go over big. Of course that wipes out the proposed Robinson-Rocky Graziano fight for Chicago, Sept. 5."

Robinson Patched Up

In London, Robinson said that he wants the fight to be held in New York. Sugar Ray, who lost the title to the 23-year-old Turpin in an astounding upset last night in London, required ten stitches to patch up a deep gash over his left eye.

He said that he expected the wound to heal up in time to get in the necessary training for the return.

Robinson, who lost his second fight in an 11-year career, said he wasn't properly prepared for his battle with Turpin, who had never gone beyond eight rounds in a bout before.

"You know, I'd had six fights in six weeks and by the time I fought in Italy, I was tired," said Robinson in London. "If there's one thing a boxer needs it's rest and I had been on the go every minute since I got to Europe.

"I don't want to take anything away from Turpin. He's a real nice boy. He's not the best I ever met but he was better than me last night. He beat me, that's all there is to it.

"Maybe I would have lost anyway if I hadn't been running around so much, but at least they would have seen me at my best."

SPORTS SPUTTERINGS

By WALTER L. JOHNS

DETROIT—Casey Stengel was holding court in the press headquarters at the All-Star game here and when Casey holds court you stand by and listen.

Casey's the type of a guy you can't put in words, or, as one writer said, you can't use half the words he says because they wouldn't get by in print.

The boss man of the Yankees and manager of the American League All-Stars talks with gestures which run from pantomine to back-slapping.

In this particular instance, Casey used a highball glass, tinkling it with emphasis as he came forth with the following spiel which rambles just the way old Casey does:

"They got this All-Star system all wrong. . . If a man has two or three good pitchers on his own club that can do the job why should he have to take on several more? . . . I don't need five pitchers to win a ball game if they are good ones. . . . They told me last year that the National Leaguers didn't have anyone to play center field. . . . Just some old guy from the Cardinals. . . . Well sir, I'm telling you that that guy made some catches that really made me believe someone was playing center field for the Nationals.

"Now you talk about the pennant races. . . . I threw my three best pitchers against Boston and they beat us. . . . Any team that can beat my three best is a contender. . . . And don't count Cleveland and Chicago out of it. . . . Those White Sox are getting beat, but not by much. . . . Cleveland's got the best pitching staff of 'em all but not any three good enough to match my three best, Lopat, Raschi and Reynolds. . . . They talk about the other clubs being young ball clubs. . . . Why, I'm playing the goldarnest youngest group you ever did see. . . .

"And they said I quit on that Mickey Mantle guy. . . . $?!(&%$! I did. . . . Sure I benched him for three weeks . . . and then I put him in there against Boston. . . . Now you take that Ted Williams. . . . He hit the doggondest homer you ever did see. . . . It went right over the heads of our guys in the bullpen. . . . But then I put in Mantle and you know what he did? . . . Why, he hit one farther than Williams. . . . That Williams is only a rabbit hitter compared to what that Mantle can do. . . . You writin' guys wrote all kinds of things about him. . . . So he went like a house afire until everybody started to work on him and figure him out. . . . He'll do me some good the rest of the year, too, don't think he won't. . . . Why, that guy has driven in 45 runs and how many guys can you find doing that? . . . If we didn't have him we'd never have been up in first place.

"Now you take that big guy, Walt Dropo. . . . Howinthehell can they send him out to the Coast league after he has hit home some 145 runs? . . . They got a little guy on first base who can figure out where they hit 'em. . . . But can he smack that long ball? Can he bunt? Can he hit 'em where they ain't? . . . Why, if I was to have a guy like Dropo. . . . What do they do? . . . If he doesn't hit they call him a bum. . . . And they pat the other guy on the back when he makes a good play. . . . Yeah, you know why, because of television.

"You guys ought to take a road trip. . . . Boy, what fun. . . . And are they after me. . . . So what am I supposed to do? . . . Yeah, I know we can't win in Boston. . . . But Boston can't win in New York, either. . . . Yeah, I think that Boston gang will hit a hot stride on the road. . . . Shucks, they got more pitchers than they know what to do with.

"So we went into Boston. . . . And one guy wrote a piece and I didn't have time to read it before we played. . . . You know the way we play today. . . . One afternoon game, another at night. . . . Shucks, we're on the go all the time. . . . So when I came back I asked my wife where the paper was and she said she tore it up. . . . But I wanted to read it. . . . But she said the story said I was all right, anyhow. . . . Say, we better go get something to eat."

Turpin-Robinson Bout Set Sept. 6; Louis To Face Charles Sept. 26

NEW YORK, July 11 (AP)—Barring upsets and accidents, New York will get the two fistic plums of the year —the return title bouts between Randy Turpin and Ray Robinson and Ezzard Charles and Joe Louis.

Promoter Jim Norris of the International Boxing Club made this clear today as he started working on plans to stage both of these shows in the Polo Grounds in September.

If all goes according to plan, the Turpin-Robinson middleweight title bout will be held Sept. 6 and the Charles-Louis heavyweight championship bout Sept. 26.

Joe Fights On Coast

Louis and Charles both have some action scheduled before their date. The Brown Bomber meets Cesar Brion in San Francisco, Aug. 1, and Charles is slated to defend his crown once more against old Jersey Joe Walcott in Pittsburgh, July 18.

Norris said he first expected to hold the Turpin-Robinson fight on the 26th but that he had been asked by British promoter Jack Solomons to put it on earlier. According to Norris, Solomons wants to stage a show of his own in London, Sept. 25.

There was a report earlier in the day from London which quoted Solomons as saying that the Turpin-Robinson contract provided that the return could be held in either London or New York depending on where the most money could be grossed.

Norris said that wasn't so and that he held iron-clad papers for a New York return.

"We'll put it on here," said Norris, "and it should go over big. Of course that wipes out the proposed Robinson-Rocky Graziano fight for Chicago, Sept. 5."

Robinson Patched Up

In London, Robinson said that he wants the fight to be held in New York. Sugar Ray, who lost the title to the 23-year-old Turpin in an astounding upset last night in London, required ten stitches to patch up a deep gash over his left eye.

He said that he expected the wound to heal up in time to get in the necessary training for the return.

Robinson, who lost his second fight in an 11-year career, said he wasn't properly prepared for his battle with Turpin, who had never gone beyond eight rounds in a bout before.

"You know, I'd had six fights in six weeks and by the time I fought in Italy, I was tired," said Robinson in London. "If there's one thing a boxer needs it's rest and I had been on the go every minute since I got to Europe.

"I don't want to take anything away from Turpin. He's a real nice boy. He's not the best I ever met but he was better than me last night. He beat me, that's all there is to it.

"Maybe I would have lost anyway if I hadn't been running around so much, but at least they would have seen me at my best."

BIGGER AND BETTER

LOS ANGELES—(NEA) — Santa Anita will offer 29 stakes races and an all-time high of $885,000 in added money next winter.

Delaware Park consists of five different race tracks. A main oval, two steeplechase courses, a ⅝-mile training track for flat runers, and a steeplechase schooling course.

Now you take that Ted Williams. . . . He hit the doggondest homer you ever did see. . . . It went right over the heads of our guys in the bullpen. . . . But then I put in Mantle and you know what he did? . . . Why, he hit one farther than Williams. . . . That Williams is only a rabbit hitter compared to what that Mantle can do. . . . You writin' guys wrote all kinds of things about him. . . . So he went like a house afire until everybody started to work on him and figure him out. . . . He'll do me some good the rest of the year, too, don't think he won't. . . . Why, that guy has driven in 45 runs and how many guys can you find doing that? . . . If we didn't have him we'd never have been up in first place.

"Now you take that big guy, Walt Dropo. . . . Howinthehell can they send him out to the Coast league after he has hit home some 145 runs? . . . They got a little guy on first base who can figure out where they hit 'em. . . . But can he smack that long ball? Can he bunt? Can he hit 'em where they ain't? . . . Why, if I was to have a guy like Dropo. . . . What do they do? . . . If he doesn't hit they call him a bum. . . . And they pat the other guy on the back when he makes a good play. . . . Yeah, you know why, because of television.

"You guys ought to take a road trip. . . . Boy, what fun. . . . And are they after me. . . . So what am I supposed to do? . . . Yeah, I know we can't win in Boston. . . . But Boston can't win in New York, either. . . . Yeah, I think that Boston gang will hit a hot stride on the road. . . . Shucks, they got more pitchers than they know what to do with.

"So we went into Boston. . . . And one guy wrote a piece and I didn't have time to read it before we played. . . . You know the way we play today. . . . One afternoon game, another at night. . . . Shucks, we're on the go all the time. . . . So when I came back I asked my wife where the paper was and she said she tore it up. . . . But I wanted to read it. . . . But she said the story said I was all right, anyhow. . . . Say, we better go get something to eat."

Layne Favored Over Marciano In Garden Bout

15,000 Are Expected To See Young Heavies In 10-Round Scrap

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK, July 11 (AP)—Rex Layne, the fistic pride of the Rockies, was rated an 8½ to 5 favorite today to hand Rock Marciano his first defeat and thereby earn a heavyweight title shot.

The two sluggers, classed as the best young hopes in the greybeard-dominated heavyweight division, clash in a ten-rounder in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night.

Rex Layne

The prospect of another slugging match like the one put on by Jake La Motta and Irish Bobby Murphy has stirred up the fight faithful and some 15,000 are expected to shell out between $100,000, and $125,000.

This is another no television, no radio show. The 9 p. m. (EST) bout will, however, be theater-cast once again in 11 movie houses in eight cities—Philadelphia, Washington, Baltimore, Albany, N. Y., Chicago, Cleveland, Pittsburgh and Richmond, Va.

Layne expects to tip the scales at 192 pounds and Marciano at 185 when the weigh in at noon tomorrow.

Both Predict KOs

Both are extremely confident and predict knock-out victories. It figures to be that kind of a fight.

"I'll knock him out within seven rounds," said Marciano as he limbered up lightly at this Greenwood Lake Camp.

"I know what Marciano can do and what he can't do," said Layne at Pompton Lakes, N. J.

"And I feel confident I will stop him."

Layne, on the strength of his fine showings against wily Jersey Joe Walcott and belting Bob Satterfield, is the almost unanimous pick of the experts. They like the way the chunky, aggressive youngster outgamed Walcott and the way he picked himself off the floor to stop Satterfield.

Those two fights outweigh anything Marciano has displayed in all of his 35 pro scraps. The likeable, quiet, 26-year-old ex-G. I. from Brockton, Mass., won 30 of his fights by kayos and the other five by decisions.

Layne Has Cement Jaw

His chief claim to face is the split decision he gained over previously undefeated Roland La Starza in the Garden on March 24, 1950. Rocky, a crude boxer with a fair left and a heavy thumping right, has been fighting on the New England circuit against obscure opponents ever since. He hits hard enough to put most fighters out but he has never run into anyone with a cement jaw like Layne's.

The 23-year-old Layne, an ex-GI from Lewiston, Utah, has never been stopped. His record shows 34 wins, one loss, two draws and 24 knockouts.

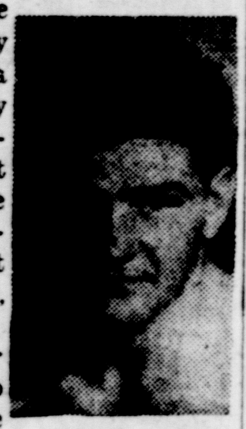
Layne Favored Over Marciano In Garden Bout

15,000 Are Expected To See Young Heavies In 10-Round Scrap

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK, July 11 (AP)—Rex Layne, the fistic pride of the Rockies, was rated an 8½ to 5 favorite today to hand Rock Marciano his first defeat and thereby earn a heavyweight title shot.

The two sluggers, classed as the best young hopes in the greybeard-dominated heavyweight division, clash in a ten-rounder in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night.



Rex Layne

The prospect of another slugging match like the one put on by Jake La Motta and Irish Bobby Murphy has stirred up the fight faithful and some 15,000 are expected to shell out between $100,000, and $125,000.

This is another no television, no radio show. The 9 p. m. (EST) bout will, however, be theater-cast once again in 11 movie houses in eight cities—Philadelphia, Washington, Baltimore, Albany, N. Y., Chicago, Cleveland, Pittsburgh and Richmond, Va.

Layne expects to tip the scales at 192 pounds and Marciano at 185 when the weigh in at noon tomorrow.

Both Predict KOs

Both are extremely confident and predict knock-out victories. It figures to be that kind of a fight.

"I'll knock him out within seven rounds," said Marciano as he limbered up lightly at this Greenwood Lake Camp.

"I know what Marciano can do and what he can't do," said Layne at Pompton Lakes, N. J.

"And I feel confident I will stop him."

Layne, on the strength of his fine showings against wily Jersey Joe Walcott and belting Bob Satterfield, is the almost unanimous pick of the experts. They like the way the chunky, aggressive youngster outgamed Walcott and the way he picked himself off the floor to stop Satterfield.

Those two fights outweigh anything Marciano has displayed in all of his 35 pro scraps. The likeable, quiet, 26-year-old ex-G. I. from Brockton, Mass., won 30 of his fights by kayos and the other five by decisions.

Layne Has Cement Jaw

His chief claim to face is the split decision he gained over previously undefeated Roland La Starza in the Garden on March 24, 1950. Rocky, a crude boxer with a fair left and a heavy thumping right, has been fighting on the New England circuit against obscure opponents ever since. He hits hard enough to put most fighters out but he has never run into anyone with a cement jaw like Layne's.

The 23-year-old Layne, an ex-GI from Lewiston, Utah, has never been stopped. His record shows 34 wins, one loss, two draws and 24 knockouts.

HOLLYWOOD, July 11 (INS) — Frank Loesser will write the music for "Hans Christian Andersen" for Sam Goldwyn, ending rumors that Rodgers and Hammerstein were practically set for the score.

To list all of Loesser's credits would take the rest of this column. But the most recent are "Guys And Dolls," the current Broadway hit; "Where's Charlie?" the Ray Bolger perennial, and just a year ago he walked off with the Oscar for "Baby, It's Cold Outside."

All the "credits" on Sam's musical based on the fable writer are sheer class. Moss Hart is doing the screenplay. George Balanchine arrives soon to take over the choreography. And, oh yes—Danny Kaye and Moira Shearer are the stars.

—o—

Opera and concert star, Marguerite Piazza, has been holding her two weeks old infant in one hand and a telephone receiver in the other talking to her agent, Paul Small, about an MGM contract.

It's now set for her to be here August 15 to test for a team deal. This will probably throw Metropolitan opera impresario, Rudolf Bing, into another snit. He was so furious over Robert Merrill's coming here for "Aaron Slick From Pumpkin Crick" that he cancelled him out of the Met next season.

—o—

Most Hollywood producers believe that stories about Hollywood make bad movies — the great "A Star Is Born" excepted, of course.

But Wald and Krasna think they have just bought the best Hollywood yarn since the Janet Gaynor-Fredric March hit in "The Way Up," an original by Novelist Alfred Hayes and Columnist Sid Skolsky.

Pretty little English Jean Simmons is scheduled for this as soon as she finishes "Androcles And The Lion" and they couldn't have hit on a more logical choice because the story is about a young English actress who comes to California to crash Hollywood. Now if the heroine would wind up married to Stewart Granger that would be exactly what happened to Jean in Hollywood.

—o—

Cary Grant and Betsy Drake have their first child — but hold on, it's just 13-year-old Irish Mann, first of their movie children to be signed for "Room For One More."

Irish is the youngster who was such a hit in "The Innocents" on Broadway last season and hailed by the critics as a truly remarkable child performer.

If Producer Henry Blanke and Director Norman Taurog aren't prejudiced she'll be just as big a click on the screen.

Betty Hutton's youngsters, Lindsay and Candy, will be flower girls at the wedding of Peggy Wright Cobb and Christy Walsh Jr., on August 4. Edith Head is designing the dresses for the kids and the bride.

Jeanette MacDonald and Gene Raymond make their first appearance on TV in New York August 6. Then, Jeanette goes to Europe for three weeks and Gene returns here for more TV.

Mrs. James Bell, who was at the sneak preview of "Quo Vadis" in San Francisco before being rushed to the hospital straight from the theater, is naming the baby "Marcus" in honor of Bob Taylor!

Lloyd Bacon is shooting fast to finish "Golden Girl" now that Mitzi Gaynor is back on the set following a three week layoff with a broken foot.

Dining at the Kings — British actor Robert Newton and the Warner secretary who has captured his heart, Shirley Barri.

It's a boy for the Sterling (Cameraman) Smiths at Methodist Hospital.

Loretta Young's two boys, Pete and Christopher, received miniature Austin racers from Wilbur Shaw in appreciation of Mamma's appearance at the auto races. The cars have everything except motors — much to Loretta's relief.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

Summer Tie

Smart but inexpensive

FASHION: Opera star Igor Gorin (at right) wears cotton ties in the hot weather for comfort and for smart appearance. They're light as a feather and beautifully styled. Inexpensive, too!

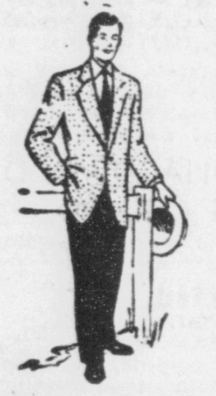
Tips to Motorists: Don't neglect the spare when you put air in your tires. . . . When you use a jack, block the tire diagonally opposite the one jacked up. . . . If there's oil on your garage floor, clean it up. Oil rots rubber.

Amateur Chef: Ever try a liverwurst omelette, pancake style? Brown several thin slices in pan before pouring in the egg mix. . . . For a fine melted cheese sandwich, butter the outside of the bread and grill in heavy frying pan. . . . Supply small paint brush for buttering corn at out-of-door meals.

Dress Tips: If a bootblack puts colored powder on your suède shoes, see that it is brushed out well before you wear the shoes with a light suit. . . . Use soap and water for cleaning nylon mesh insets in shoes.



The right mix

Contrasts: Mixing suits is a smart and economical way of stretching a summer wardrobe — but do it correctly. 1. Use single-breasted coats only. 2. Avoid combining two patterned garments. 3. Combine light-colored jacket with darker pants such as blue with gray, brown with tan; white jacket with any color slacks.

Handyman: After you've oiled an electric fan, tie a big paper bag over it and run fan for a few minutes. Bag will catch oil spatters which might otherwise smear your walls. . . . If you inherit the job of putting on shelf paper, shelf edgings, etc.—use a staple-tacker. It's easier than hammer and tacks.

Odd Items: Robert Q. Lewis actually has forty pairs of glasses! Wears 'em to fit different moods. . . . Reader Edith Blanchard challenges you to tell which moving part on an automobile moves the least often. (Answer next week). . . . This week's "Pass The Cigars" to—Rouben Mamoulian who has restaged "Oklahoma!" sixteen times and kept it as fresh and exciting as it was on opening night.

STAG LINES

A Column for Men

Summer Tie

Smart but inexpensive

FASHION: Opera star Igor Gorin (at right) wears cotton ties in the hot weather for comfort and for smart appearance. They're light as a feather and beautifully styled. Inexpensive, too!

Tips to Motorists: Don't neglect the spare when you put air in your tires. . . . When you use a jack, block the tire diagonally opposite the one jacked up. . . . If there's oil on your garage floor, clean it up. Oil rots rubber.

Amateur Chef: Ever try a liverwurst omelette, pancake style? Brown several thin slices in pan before pouring in the egg mix. . . . For a fine melted cheese sandwich, butter the outside of the bread and grill in heavy frying pan. . . . Supply small paint brush for buttering corn at out-of-door meals.

Dress Tips: If a bootblack puts colored powder on your suède shoes, see that it is brushed out well before you wear the shoes with a light suit. . . . Use soap and water for cleaning nylon mesh insets in shoes.

Contrasts: Mixing suits is a smart and economical way of stretching a summer wardrobe—but do it correctly. 1. Use single-breasted coats only. 2. Avoid combining two patterned garments. 3. Combine light-colored jacket with darker pants such as blue with gray, brown with tan; white jacket with any color slacks.

Handyman: After you've oiled an electric fan, tie a big paper bag over it and run fan for a few minutes. Bag will catch oil spatters which might otherwise smear your walls. . . . If you inherit the job of putting on shelf paper, shelf edgings, etc.—use a staple-tacker. It's easier than hammer and tacks.

Odd Items: Robert Q. Lewis actually has forty pairs of glasses! Wears 'em to fit different moods. . . . Reader Edith Blanchard challenges you to tell which moving part on an automobile moves the least often. (Answer next week). . . . This week's "Pass The Cigars" to—Rouben Mamoulian who has restaged "Oklahoma!" sixteen times and kept it as fresh and exciting as it was on opening night.

If you're in the country where you are without electric light, you can make an ordinary candle sere as a night light by packing salt around the wick up as far as the blackened part. This will give you a mild, steady light all night.

Stock Market Continues Zig-Zag Course—Goes Up

NEW YORK, July 11 (AP)—In the slowest trading in nearly two years, the stock market today continued its zig-zag course—this time upward.

The market in each of the last five sessions has reversed the trend of the previous day.

Today's volume came to only 970,000 shares. That's the lowest full day since Oct. 3, 1949, when 760,000 shares changed hands.

The rail and steel sections were strong and some good advances showed in chemicals, copper mining issues and miscellaneous manufacturers.

Utilities were steady. Motors were mixed, and that went for air lines and aircrafts. Radio-television issues were mostly lower.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks gained 50 cents (exactly the amount it lost yesterday) and stood at $91.20. The industrial component was up 60 cents, rails up 30 cents, and uitilities 20 cents.

The list of individual issues appearing on the tape contracted to 1,046, lowest in nearly six weeks. Of these, 465 advanced and 294 declined with 13 new highs and 23 new lows for the year established.

Radio Corp. was the day's most active issue unchanged at 21 with 15,600 shares traded. It was followed by St. Regis Paper up ½ at 14¼, National Power & Light unchanged at 1, Eastman Kodak up 1¼ at 42⅝ (which touched a new low for the year yesterday), Standard Oil (NJ) up ⅛ at 61¾, and United Gas Corp. up ½ at 20.

Other stocks moving up included Canadian Pacific up ⅜ at 24⅝, New York Central ¼ at 16⅛, Baltimore & Ohio ½ at 17⅜, Missouri Pacific preferred ½ at 22, Western Union ⅞ at 38⅞, American Smelting 1½ at 78⅜, Phelps Dodge 1 at 62¼, General Electric ⅜ at 55¼, Philip Morris 1 at 48¼, H. J. Heinz 1⅝ at 39⅜ (directors declared a 20 per cent common stock dividend), U. S. Steel ½ at 40, and Chrysler ½ at 68½.

Stock Market Continues Zig-Zag Course—Goes Up

NEW YORK, July 11 (AP)—In the slowest trading in nearly two years, the stock market today continued its zig-zag course—this time upward.

The market in each of the last five sessions has reversed the trend of the previous day.

Today's volume came to only 970,000 shares. That's the lowest full day since Oct. 3, 1949, when 760,000 shares changed hands.

The rail and steel sections were strong and some good advances showed in chemicals, copper mining issues and miscellaneous manufacturers.

Utilities were steady. Motors were mixed, and that went for air lines and aircrafts. Radio-television issues were mostly lower.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks gained 50 cents (exactly the amount it lost yesterday) and stood at $91.20. The industrial component was up 60 cents, rails up 30 cents, and uitilities 20 cents.

The list of individual issues appearing on the tape contracted to 1,046, lowest in nearly six weeks. Of these, 465 advanced and 294 declined with 13 new highs and 23 new lows for the year established.

Radio Corp. was the day's most active issue unchanged at 21 with 15,600 shares traded. It was followed by St. Regis Paper up ½ at 14¼, National Power & Light unchanged at 1, Eastman Kodak up 1¼ at 42⅝ (which touched a new low for the year yesterday), Standard Oil (NJ) up ⅛ at 61¾, and United Gas Corp. up ½ at 20.

Other stocks moving up included Canadian Pacific up ⅜ at 24⅝, New York Central ¼ at 16⅛, Baltimore & Ohio ½ at 17⅜, Missouri Pacific preferred ½ at 22, Western Union ⅞ at 38⅞, American Smelting 1½ at 78⅜, Phelps Dodge 1 at 62¼, General Electric ⅜ at 55¼, Philip Morris 1 at 48¼, H. J. Heinz 1⅝ at 39⅜ (directors declared a 20 per cent common stock dividend), U. S. Steel ½ at 40, and Chrysler ½ at 68½.

Council To Get Smoke Report Here Friday

Executive Session Slated At 11 A. M.

A formal report on the operation of this city's smoke control ordinance will be presented to city officials Friday.

Mayor Thomas S. Post said yesterday the report being prepared by George M. Hitchcock, smoke abatement engineer, will be submitted to the council at an executive meeting scheduled at 11 a. m.

Hitchcock was busy yesterday putting the finishing touches on a report on the operation of the ordinance which was adopted here May 19, 1947.

The Council, at its meeting Monday morning, gave Hitchcock until Wednesday to present his report on whether the present law is adequate and if not, what changes are needed to insure enforcement.

What the report will contain was not disclosed by the smoke abatement engineer, but he has made it clear on several occasions that the present ordinance, similar to that used in 62 per cent of the cities which have smoke abatement programs, is a good one.

Will Stand On Record

Informed sources said Hitchcock is expected to tell the Mayor and Council that Cumberland's smoke control ordinance is adequate for the next five years.

Speculating over the report ordered by the council in May on whether the law is workable and what is needed for stricter enforcement they based the conclusion on past statements by Hitchcock in defense of the statute.

In noting that the ordinance is adequate, Hitchcock was expected to point out that the rate of dustfall here since January has consistantly decreased, a condition which the smoke engineer has termed "gratifying results."

The report is expected to note that if this percentage of decrease continues, Cumberland will be cleaner than any other city with a smoke control program by the end of 1951.

Is Standard Law

The Cumberland ordinance is patterned along the lines of those in St. Louis and Pittsburgh and Hitchcock has said that if those large cities are satisfied with results obtained, the law should do the job here.

Hitchcock, it was said, may also note that so far his job has been to work cooperatively with industrial and other smoke-producing firms in an educational program rather than prosecute for violations.

In the past few weeks, the smoke ordinance has come under attack by civic groups and individuals. Two public meetings were held, one with the civic groups and another with representatives of industry.

It was after these meetings that the council asked for the report from Hitchcock to determine if the ordinance is workable, and if not, how it can be made workable and enforced.

1950-51 Surplus Of $84,000 Is Anticipated

The City hopes to have a surplus of about $84,000 from the 1950-51 fiscal year.

Arthur B. Gibson, city auditor, yesterday said the miscellaneous and tax levy surplus is about $50,000 and that it looks like the unexpended appropriations will aggregate about $34,000.

The $84,000 figure, however, will still be $68,000 short of the $152,000 surplus fund the city had on hand to begin the 1950-51 fiscal year.

Anticipated revenues next year, he added, may be slightly larger to help compensate for the difference in the surplus.

Make-Believe War Exercises Held By 29th

Virginia Maneuvers Nearing Climax

CAMP PICKETT, Va., July 11 (AP)—The 29th Infantry Division's on-the-field training reached the height of its intensity today as the national guardsmen underwent a make-believe war.

Staff officers and men of the Division's Headquarters began plotting a forward advance against "enemy" forces. Their objective was a sector called Sweetheart Ridge.

Many of the Virginia-Maryland trainees were confident they'd "capture" sweetheart before the end of the 29th's national encampment rolled around Saturday.

While Division Headquarters was mapping the strategy, advance units of the 115th, 116th and 175th Infantry Regiments began working on attack plans after several days of wrangling with defensive problems.

Muggy weather that stirred up dust that settled on faces and uniforms added a realistic touch to the maneuvers.

Some units hopefully posted road signs begging vehicles to roll past at no more than five or ten miles an hour so the dust could be kept down. Some units hauled out water sprinklers, but for the most part they proved futile.

Maj. Gen. William H. Sands, Division Commander, visited the tank unit in the field today at the A. P. Hill Military Reservation near Fredericksburg.

The tankmen were in their third day of firing and movement problems at the sprawling training facility. The tank unit is a West Virginia National Guard outfit.

Tomorrow, uniforms, arms and other equipment are scheduled for cleaning jobs at Camp Pickett. The Blue and Gray Division will break camp Saturday.

Regester Will Prepare Water Project Report

Filtration Plant Expansion Due Soon

A preliminary report on plans for expansion of facilities of the Lake Gordon filtration plant is slated in the near future.

Mayor Thomas S. Post said yesterday that Robert T. Regester, Baltimore engineer, will present recommendations on construction needed to increase facilities of the water treatment plant.

He said the expansion will be undertaken in order to provide an immediate increase of 4,000,000 gallons a day, plus further plans for increasing the treatment facilities to take care of the needs of new industries.

Mayor Post said the city wants work on the 4,000,000 gallon a day expansion program to begin as soon as possible.

City officials, he added, asked Regester, who is also preparing plans for a sewage disposal plant here, to advise it on the water project.

He added that the Baltimore engineer, on a visit here Tuesday, conferred with Water Commissioner George H. Tederick and officials of the Evitts Creek Water Company, and secured maps, plats and drawings of existing facilities.

Mayor Post said the water department has a fund of some $100,000 that may be used for the project and expressed the hope that this surplus would be sufficient to take care of immediate needs of the expansion plan.

The city also has authorization to issue $200,000 in bonds for the water system, but said there are no immediate plans for drawing on that source.

Sharp increases in the use of water during the past year has overtaxed the filtering facilities of the plant at Lake Gordon, which was designed for 12,000,000 gallons a day.

Grocery Firm Named In Suit

A $2,000 damage suit, charging that a can of corn contained a large and decomposed worm, was filed in Allegany County Circuit Court yesterday against the C. D. Kenny Division Consolidated Grocers Corporation.

The suit was filed for Emma Jane Hare through her attorney, Paul M. Fletcher.

In the declaration, the plaintiff set forth that the defendant was engaged in the business of preparing and canning perishable vegetables, including corn, and offered them for sale and distribution from its Cumberland office.

The defendant, through its servants and agents, delivered canned corn to a local grocery in March, the declaration stated. The plaintiff's agent subsequently purchased a can of corn from the South End Market.

Finally, the plaintiff contends that after opening and eating a portion of the contents of the can, she discovered a large and decomposed worm in the corn. This made her ill, she stated.

Bishop Walsh Is Reported Freed By Chinese Reds

Bishop James E. Walsh, of this city, has been freed by the Chinese Reds, Senator Herbert R. O'Conor said the State Department informed him yesterday.

The Communists held Bishop Walsh last month when they ordered the Catholic Central Bureau in Shanghai closed.

The Reds charged that the bureau was blocking the communist campaign to "set up an independent church in China," and was "slandering the Chinese people and spreading reactionary literature."

Bishop Walsh and seven other missionaries were ordered held last month in order to investigate the charges.

The bureau is a centralized advisory board whose activities are similar to that of the National Catholic Welfare Conference in the United States.

Bishop Walsh has been secretary of the bureau for the past two years. Most of his work in the priesthood has been as a missionary in China for the Maryknoll Order.

The son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William E. Walsh of this city, he was the first native American priest to be made a bishop in China.

In the information received from the State Department, Senator O'Conor reported that Bishop Walsh is no longer being held by the Chinese Communists and is not in danger.

Great Poetry And Much Nonsense Are Found In World's Epitaphs

By C. WESLEY BLACKBURN
News Staff Writer

The bright young thing who reported she "just loved to wander through cemeteries and read the epithets on the tombstones" was a little mixed up.

But her interest in the subject was a fairly universal one and many of the great have tried their hand at writing their own epitaphs.

One of the most famous of all American epitaphs was the one suggested by Will Rogers.

"When I die," Will said, "my epitaph or whatever you call those signs on gravestones, is going to read:

"I joke about every prominent man of my time, but I never met a man I didn't like."

When the United States issued a stamp in honor of the famous humorist in 1948, the adhesive contained the wording, "I never met a man I didn't like."

Franklin Epitaph

The great and good Benjamin Franklin wrote this for himself:

"The body of Benjamin Franklin, printer, (like the cover of a book, its contents worn out stripped of its lettering and guilding) lies here, food for worms.

"Yet the work itself is not lost, for it will, as he believes, appear once more in a new and more beautiful edition, corrected and amended by the author."

One of the most famous is Shakespeare's, which begins with the lines:

"Good friend, for Jesus sake forbeare
To dig the dust enclosed heare . . .".

Inscribed On Grave

Robert Louis Stevenson wrote the lines inscribed on his grave in the Samoan Islands, which begin:

"Under the wide and starry sky,
Dig the grave and let me lie.
Glad did I live and gladly lie,
And I laid me down with a will."

Alexander Pope, the English poet who did not choose to be buried in Westminster Abbey beside the great of the land, write his own epitaph for his tomb at Twickenham:

"Heroes and kings your distance keep,
"In peace let one poor poet sleep.
Who never flattered folks like you,
Let Horace blush, and Virgil too."

Mule Is Honored

World War I veterans may recall the inscription on a monument in France marking the grave of an Army mule:

"In memory of Maggie, who in her time kicked two colonels, four majors, 10 captains, 24 lieutenants, 42 sergeants, 432 men of other ranks and one Mills bomb."

Equaled in eloquence only by some of the great phrases of the Bible is Seneca's epitaph for a group of Roman soldiers who were trapped and killed from ambush:

"The three hundred Fabiae were not defeated; they were only killed."

Thomas Fuller wrote a dandy for his tomb:

"Fuller's earth."

Dorothy Parker used three words:

"Excuse my dust."

A wag suggested this one for a dentist:

"When on this tomb you gaze with gravity, cheer up! I'm filling my last cavity."

Every time the commies move in to protect the rights of "people's governments" throughout the world, it brings to mind an epitaph someone suggested years ago for Hitler:

"This is my last territorial demand."

They also tell the story of the hardened French criminal who had tatooed on his neck:

Bargains Are Galore During Cumberland's Dollar Days

Today is Dollar Day for Cumberland and the Tri-State Area.

Most of the city's merchants are participating in the semi-annual "Dollar Days" sale which opens [illegible] and continues through Saturday.

Regular store hours will be observed. Today and Friday, stores will be open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and on Saturday from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., L. V. Shinnamon, vice-chairman of the Mercantile Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce, said.

Each participating merchant will have "Dollar Days" signs displayed in show windows and store to guide buyers to the bargains being offered during the sale, Shinnamon said.

These values have taken on added significance because of the early date of the sale, it was stated. Usually, the summer sale does not come until the last of July.

"With the earlier date, stocks are mostly new," Shinnamon said. "The sale coming so early in the season puts especial emphasis on summer materials. However, year - around displays of merchandise will come under price slashing.

"Selections of merchandise are good and especially priced. In many cases, manufacturers have made special concessions to give patrons of stores here outstanding bargains," Shinnamon concluded.

Council To Get Smoke Report Here Friday

Executive Session Slated At 11 A. M.

A formal report on the operation of this city's smoke control ordinance will be presented to city officials Friday.

Mayor Thomas S. Post said yesterday the report being prepared by George M. Hitchcock, smoke abatement engineer, will be submitted to the council at an executive meeting scheduled at 11 a. m.

Hitchcock was busy yesterday putting the finishing touches on a report on the operation of the ordinance which was adopted here May 19, 1947.

The Council, at its meeting Monday morning, gave Hitchcock until Wednesday to present his report on whether the present law is adequate and if not, what changes are needed to insure enforcement.

What the report will contain was not disclosed by the smoke abatement engineer, but he has made it clear on several occasions that the present ordinance, similar to that used in 62 per cent of the cities which have smoke abatement programs, is a good one.

Will Stand On Record

Informed sources said Hitchcock is expected to tell the Mayor and Council that Cumberland's smoke control ordinance is adequate for the next five years.

Speculating over the report ordered by the council in May on whether the law is workable and what is needed for stricter enforcement they based the conclusion on past statements by Hitchcock in defense of the statute.

In noting that the ordinance is adequate, Hitchcock was expected to point out that the rate of dustfall here since January has consistantly decreased, a condition which the smoke engineer has termed "gratifying results."

The report is expected to note that if this percentage of decrease continues, Cumberland will be cleaner than any other city with a smoke control program by the end of 1951.

Is Standard Law

The Cumberland ordinance is patterned along the lines of those in St. Louis and Pittsburgh and Hitchcock has said that if those large cities are satisfied with results obtained, the law should do the job here.

Hitchcock, it was said, may also note that so far his job has been to work cooperatively with industrial and other smoke-producing firms in an educational program rather than prosecute for violations.

In the past few weeks, the smoke ordinance has come under attack by civic groups and individuals. Two public meetings were held, one with the civic groups and another with representatives of industry.

It was after these meetings that the council asked for the report from Hitchcock to determine if the ordinance is workable, and if not, how it can be made workable and enforced.

Bishop Walsh Is Reported Freed By Chinese Reds

Bishop James E. Walsh, of this city, has been freed by the Chinese Reds, Senator Herbert R. O'Conor said the State Department informed him yesterday.

The Communists held Bishop Walsh last month when they ordered the Catholic Central Bureau in Shanghai closed.

The Reds charged that the bureau was blocking the communist campaign to "set up an independent church in China," and was "slandering the Chinese people and spreading reactionary literature."

Bishop Walsh and seven other missionaries were ordered held last month in order to investigate the charges.

The bureau is a centralized advisory board whose activities are similar to that of the National Catholic Welfare Conference in the United States.

Bishop Walsh has been secretary of the bureau for the past two years. Most of his work in the priesthood has been as a missionary in China for the Maryknoll Order.

The son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William E. Walsh of this city, he was the first native American priest to be made a bishop in China.

In the information received from the State Department, Senator O'Conor reported that Bishop Walsh is no longer being held by the Chinese Communists and is not in danger.

1950-51 Surplus Of $84,000 Is Anticipated

The City hopes to have a surplus of about $84,000 from the 1950-51 fiscal year.

Arthur B. Gibson, city auditor, yesterday said the miscellaneous and tax levy surplus is about $50,000 and that it looks like the unexpended appropriations will aggregate about $34,000.

The $84,000 figure, however, will still be $68,000 short of the $152,000 surplus fund the city had on hand to begin the 1950-51 fiscal year.

Anticipated revenues next year, he added, may be slightly larger to help compensate for the difference in the surplus.

Make-Believe War Exercises Held By 29th

Virginia Maneuvers Nearing Climax

CAMP PICKETT, Va., July 11 (AP)—The 29th Infantry Division's on-the-field training reached the height of its intensity today as the national guardsmen underwent a make-believe war.

Staff officers and men of the Division's Headquarters began plotting a forward advance against "enemy" forces. Their objective was a sector called Sweetheart Ridge.

Many of the Virginia-Maryland trainees were confident they'd "capture" sweetheart before the end of the 29th's national encampment rolled around Saturday.

While Division Headquarters was mapping the strategy, advance units of the 115th, 116th and 175th Infantry Regiments began working on attack plans after several days of wrangling with defensive problems.

Muggy weather that stirred up dust that settled on faces and uniforms added a realistic touch to the maneuvers.

Some units hopefully posted road signs begging vehicles to roll past at no more than five or ten miles an hour so the dust could be kept down. Some units hauled out water sprinklers, but for the most part they proved futile.

Maj. Gen. William H. Sands, Division Commander, visited the tank unit in the field today at the A. P. Hill Military Reservation near Fredericksburg.

The tankmen were in their third day of firing and movement problems at the sprawling training facility. The tank unit is a West Virginia National Guard outfit.

Tomorrow, uniforms, arms and other equipment are scheduled for cleaning jobs at Camp Pickett. The Blue and Gray Division will break camp Saturday.

Great Poetry And Much Nonsense Are Found In World's Epitaphs

By C. WESLEY BLACKBURN
News Staff Writer

The bright young thing who reported she "just loved to wander through cemeteries and read the epithets on the tombstones" was a little mixed up.

But her interest in the subject was a fairly universal one and many of the great have tried their hand at writing their own epitaphs.

One of the most famous of all American epitaphs was the one suggested by Will Rogers.

"When I die," Will said, "my epitaph or whatever you call those signs on gravestones, is going to read:

"I joke about every prominent man of my time, but I never met a man I didn't like."

When the United States issued a stamp in honor of the famous humorist in 1948, the adhesive contained the wording, "I never met a man I didn't like."

Franklin Epitaph

The great and good Benjamin Franklin wrote this for himself:

"The body of Benjamin Franklin, printer, (like the cover of a book, its contents worn out stripped of its lettering and guilding) lies here, food for worms.

"Yet the work itself is not lost, for it will, as he believes, appear once more in a new and more beautiful edition, corrected and amended by the author."

One of the most famous is Shakespeare's, which begins with the lines:

"Good friend, for Jesus sake forbeare
To dig the dust enclosed heare . . .".

Inscribed On Grave

Robert Louis Stevenson wrote the lines inscribed on his grave in the Samoan Islands, which begin:

"Under the wide and starry sky,
Dig the grave and let me lie,
Glad did I live and gladly lie,
And I laid me down with a will."

Alexander Pope, the English poet who did not choose to be buried in Westminster Abbey beside the great of the land, write his own epitaph for his tomb at Twickenham:

"Heroes and kings your distance keep,
"In peace let one poor poet sleep.
Who never flattered folks like you,
Let Horace blush, and Virgil too."

Mule Is Honored

World War I veterans may recall the inscription on a monument in France marking the grave of an Army mule:

"In memory of Maggie, who in her time kicked two colonels, four majors, 10 captains, 24 lieutenants, 42 sergeants, 432 men of other ranks and one Mills bomb."

Equaled in eloquence only by some of the great phrases of the Bible is Seneca's epitaph for a group of Roman soldiers who were trapped and killed from ambush:

"The three hundred Fabiae were not defeated; they were only killed."

Thomas Fuller wrote a dandy for his tomb:

"Fuller's earth."

Dorothy Parker used three words:

"Excuse my dust."

A wag suggested this one for a dentist:

"When on this tomb you gaze with gravity, cheer up! I'm filling my last cavity."

Every time the commies move in to protect the rights of "people's governments" throughout the world, it brings to mind an epitaph someone suggested years ago for Hitler:

"This is my last territorial demand."

They also tell the story of the hardened French criminal who had tatooed on his neck:

Regester Will Prepare Water Project Report

Filtration Plant Expansion Due Soon

A preliminary report on plans for expansion of facilities of the Lake Gordon filtration plant is slated in the near future.

Mayor Thomas S. Post said yesterday that Robert T. Regester, Baltimore engineer, will present recommendations on construction needed to increase facilities of the water treatment plant.

He said the expansion will be undertaken in order to provide an immediate increase of 4,000,000 gallons a day, plus further plans for increasing the treatment facilities to take care of the needs of new industries.

Mayor Post said the city wants work on the 4,000,000 gallon a day expansion program to begin as soon as possible.

City officials, he added, asked Regester, who is also preparing plans for a sewage disposal plant here, to advise it on the water project.

He added that the Baltimore engineer, on a visit here Tuesday, conferred with Water Commissioner George H. Tederick and officials of the Evitts Creek Water Company, and secured maps, plats and drawings of existing facilities.

Mayor Post said the water department has a fund of some $100,000 that may be used for the project and expressed the hope that this surplus would be sufficient to take care of immediate needs of the expansion plan.

The city also has authorization to issue $200,000 in bonds for the water system, but said there are no immediate plans for drawing on that source.

Sharp increases in the use of water during the past year has overtaxed the filtering facilities of the plant at Lake Gordon, which was designed for 12,000,000 gallons a day.

Grocery Firm Named In Suit

A $2,000 damage suit, charging that a can of corn contained a large and decomposed worm, was filed in Allegany County Circuit Court yesterday against the G. D. Kenny Division Consolidated Grocers Corporation.

The suit was filed for Emma Jane Hare through her attorney, Paul M. Fletcher.

In the declaration, the plaintiff set forth that the defendant was engaged in the business of preparing and canning perishable vegetables, including corn, and offered them for sale and distribution from its Cumberland office.

The defendant, through its servants and agents, delivered canned corn to a local grocery in March, the declaration stated. The plaintiff's agent subsequently purchased a can of corn from the South End Market.

Finally, the plaintiff contends that after opening and eating a portion of the contents of the can, she discovered a large and decomposed worm in the corn. This made her ill, she stated.

Bargains Are Galore During Cumberland's Dollar Days

Today is Dollar Day for Cumberland and the Tri-State Area.

Most of the city's merchants are participating in the semi-annual "Dollar Days" sale which opens t[illegible] and continues through Saturday.

Regular store hours will be observed. Today and Friday, stores will be open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and on Saturday from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., L. V. Shinnamon, vice-chairman of the Mercantile Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce, said.

Each participating merchant will have "Dollar Days" signs displayed in show windows and store to guide buyers to the bargains being offered during the sale, Shinnamon said.

These values have taken on added significance because of the early date of the sale, it was stated. Usually, the summer sale does not come until the last of July.

KOREAN PEACE TALKS STRIKE SNAG

Big Dogfight Costs Reds Three Planes

Chinese Digging In Near Pyonggang

U. S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Thursday, July 12 (AP)—A spectacular air battle that ranged from 33,000 feet down to 3,000 cost the Communists three MIG-15 jet fighters Wednesday.

Thirty-four Allied Sabrejets destroyed the Russian-built planes and damaged another in a 20-minute dogfight over Northwestern Korea.

Bomb Rail Yards

Thirteen B-29 Superforts bombed railway yards at Hwangju, south of the North Korean capital of Pyongyang, and at Hungnam, on the east coast.

Battlefront reports gave this picture of ground action:

Central Front—more than 2,000 Chinese were digging new positions northeast of Pyonggang, northern apex of the erstwhile "Iron Triangle."

"This is the first time such a large number has been seen in the open," one Allied officer said. "But it is not surprising they are there. The Chinese have formed an extremely strong line along this entire sector."

Allied patrols covered the lower two-thirds of the triangle without meeting Communists.

Ships Reported Sunk

Western Front — Patrol contact and artillery fire was reported in the Munsan area, near the base for the United Nations armistice team.

U. S. battleships and destroyers continued to bombard the East Korean coast. The North Korean radio at Pyongyang broadcast an unconfirmed report that three Allied warships had been sunk by Red gunfire on the west coast.

Open New Base

CASABLANCA, July 11. (AP) — About 20 U. S. Superfortresses and jet fighters will land at the newly built American airbase near here next Saturday.

The planes will come from both European and U. S. bases. It is one of five or seven bases planned for Morocco.

Would Open Relief Rolls To Public

WASHINGTON, July 11 (AP)—A Senate-House Conference Committee today discharged a Senate provision in an appropriation bill which would have allowed states to open their relief rolls to public inspection without the threat of losing federal welfare funds.

That was one of the final actions as the conferees finished the job of compromising Senate and House versions of the Labor-Federal Security Appropriation Bill.

Disregard Payroll Cuts

By another late decision the committee backed away from both House and Senate plans for deep cuts in Federal payrolls.

Committee aides figured that the compromise total of funds for the Labor Department and Federal security agencies comes to about $2,528,000,000. This compares with $2,523,678,000 approved by the Senate, $2,641,206,000 in the House bill and $2,744,253,000 asked by President Truman.

The measure is the first regular appropriation bill for fiscal 1952, which began July 1, to come out of conference for final acceptance by both branches. Ten more are to come.

State To Lose

The relief rolls rider was attached in the Senate under the sponsorship of Senator Jenner (R-Ind). As a result of its elimination Indiana faces the prospect of losing $18,000,000 a year in welfare funds it gets from the Federal government.

The 1952 Indiana legislature passed a law opening the public assistance lists to the public. The Social Security Administration then moved to shut off the funds, under the Federal law requiring secrecy. ESA Administrator Oscar Ewing, however, held up final action pending decision on the Jenner rider.

Quads Are Born

BOLTON, England, July 11 (AP) — Quadruplets, three boys and a girl, were born three months prematurely today to Mrs. Hilda Watkins, 36, wife of a Bolton truck driver.

Girl, Born Without Legs, Walks For Queen Mother

LONDON, July 11. (AP)—Little Doreen Hardman, born 12 years ago without any legs, took the first steps of her life today to hand Britain's 84-year-old Queen Mother Mary a bouquet.

The scene was the annual garden party of Queen Mary's Hospital, where doctors had just fitted Doreen with new artificial legs. Queen Mary was the honored guest.

The little girl was tearfully dubious of her ability to walk until the doctors told her she could present the traditional bouquet to the Queen.

A nurse wheeled Doreen to the receiving line. As the little girl rose unsteadily from her wheel chair, the Queen Mother frowned in sympathy.

"The child needn't have come to me," the Queen whispered. "I could have gone to her."

Doreen took her first tottering steps and crossed the 10-foot space to the Queen without a mishap.

Two Dead, Many Are Missing As Record Floods Cause Untold Damage In Kansas

Thousands Flee Raging Waters In Mid-West

TOPEKA, Kas., July 11 (AP) —The biggest flood in this state's history buffeted Eastern Kansas cities and towns tonight, bringing death to at least two persons, marooning hundreds, and forcing 10,000 more to flee their homes.

The raging waters, sweeping down upon an area that has been flooded and re-flooded for two months, brought untold millions of dollars damage to homes, business establishments and farm crops.

And even this picture will darken, the weatherman told the water weary Kansans. Torrential rains in the watersheds of half a dozen rivers have not yet brought the full force of the overflow to the lower reaches of the streams.

Transportation Stopped

Transportation was practically at a standstill. The big rail center at Kansas City, that funnels half a dozen major lines through Kansas to the West Coast, had its worst snarl in history.

Dozens of trains were stopped there or had to be re-routed. Six Santa Fe trains were stranded at Empora, 130 miles southwest of Kansas City, with more than 1,000 passengers. The highway situation was even worse. The main transcontinental routes were cut in more than 100 places.

The Air Force, National Guard, Coast Guard, Marines and Red Cross responded to calls for aid in the flooded regions. Hardest hit by the raging waters were Manhattan, Strong City, Council Grove, Ottawa, Marion and Florence.

The deaths occurred at Manhattan and Emporia. Capt. Eugene Duffy, Ft. Riley, Kas., was electrocuted at a flooded downtown intersection in Manhattan. E. V. Lindmood drowned at Emporia when his boat capsized.

Two more drownings were reported just across the state line at Kansas City. Identification of the victims was not immediately available.

Boy Is Missing

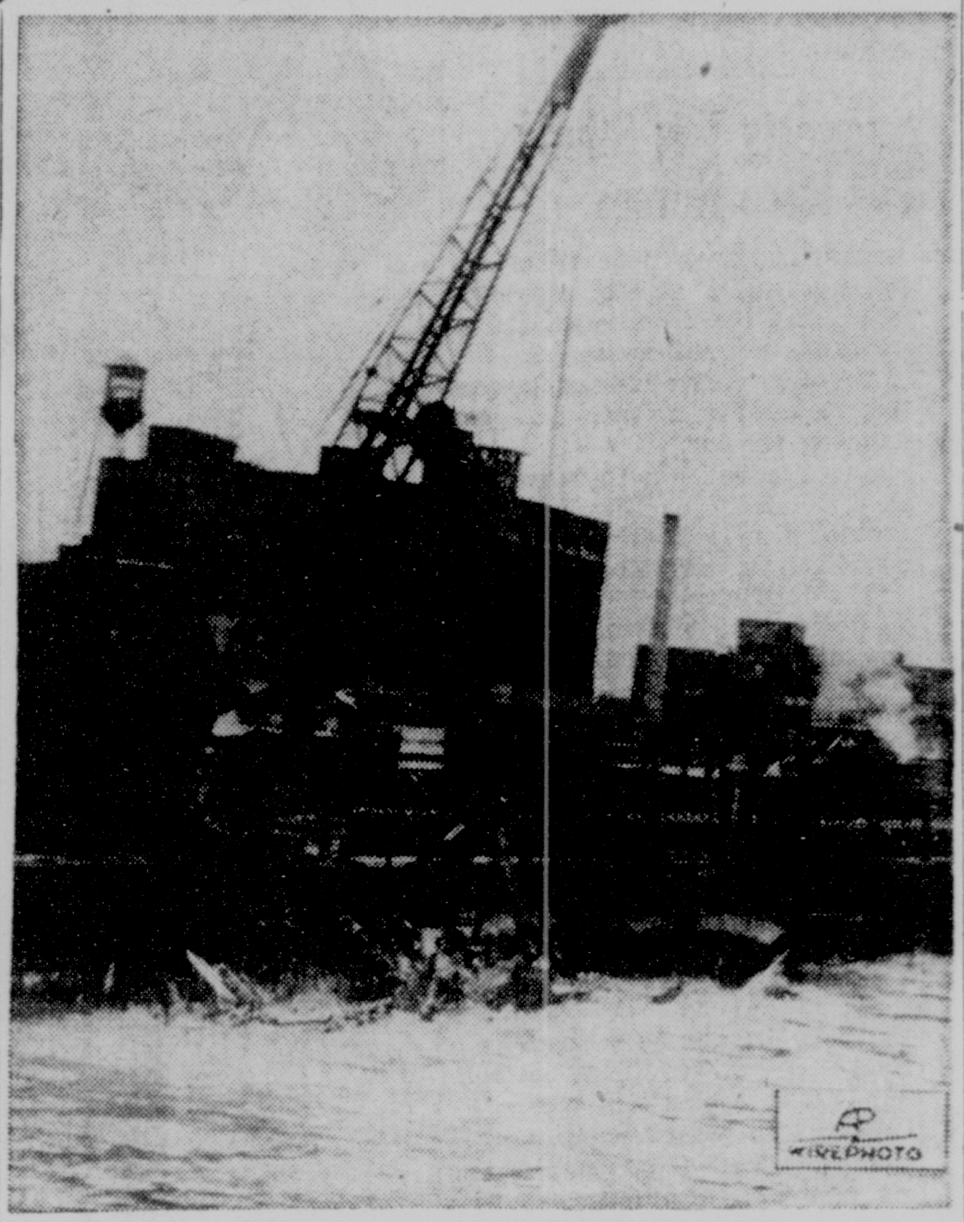
A 12-year-old boy, James Harding of Riley, Kas., was reported missing in Junction City. The youth was swept downstream when a boat which he and two men occupied overturned in the swift Smoky Hill waters. The two men grabbed trees and were rescued.

The rivers giving the most trouble were these:

The Kansas (KAW) formed by a junction of the Smoky Hill and Solomon Rivers west of Manhattan and flowing eastward to Kansas City; the Neosho, that flows from a point 50 miles south of Manhattan southeastward through Emporia, and on to the Oklahoma line; the Cottonwood that flows eastward and joins the Neosho at Emporia, and the Marais Des Cygne which flows eastward into Missouri to form the Grand River about 75 miles due south of Kansas City.

In this state capitol on the Kansas River, the water is expected to reach the unprecedented height of 33 feet tomorrow night. The city proper, on the south bank of the river, is never flooded, but North Topeka's 10,000 residents are leaving their homes or preparing to do so.



Record Flood

The swift flowing waters of the Kansas River approach a new record height at Topeka, Kas., as they threaten Melan Bridge along Kansas Avenue which links north and south Topeka. Two persons were known dead and 10,000 homeless in the mid-western state's worst indunation in its history.

Communist Cells Once Operated On State University Campuses

Housewife, Former FBI Agent, Testifies At Senate Crime Committee's Hearing

ASHINGTON, July 11 (AP)—A pretty Virginia housewife, who served seven years as an FBI spy in Communist ranks, testified today that Communist campus cells once operated at two Maryland universities.

Mrs. Mary Stalcup Markward, 29, the mother of two children, told the House Unamerican Activities Committee that the Reds also sneaked cells into Baltimore steel plants in 1945.

And she named a former Capital reporter for Columnist Drew Pearson as a Communist party member. Pearson replied that he discharged the man as soon as he found out about him.

Mrs. Markward said one of the campus cells was set up at the University of Maryland, College Park, Md. "There were only four members, as I recall," she said. "They were not really too active."

She testified that the Communist Party's white collar section established another cell at Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore but did not say how many members it had.

Meanwhile, the Senate's Internal Security Committee prepared to go tomorrow to New York City to question Millionaire Frederick Vanderbilt Field about the bail put up for Communist leaders, four of whom skipped.

Senator McCarran (D-Nev), committee chairman, told reporters the group had decided not to try to take Field "from the jurisdiction of the New York Court." The Senator said a committee subpoena for Field's appearance in Washington had been issued before Field was cited and sentenced to jail for contempt of court in New York.

Mrs. Markward, who worked in a Washington beauty shop while she spied on the Communists, said she believes the Communist Party still has cells operating in the District of Columbia and Maryland. She did not say whether the Red cells in Maryland's steel plants and colleges were still operating.

Big Rubber Doll Saves Youngster From Drowning

PRESTON, Idaho, July 11 (AP)—Two-year-old Coleen Cherrington fell into an irrigation stream near her home yesterday. In her arms she held a 23 inch long rubber doll.

A neighbor found the child 80 feet down stream, still clutching the doll. He said the girl likely would have drowned if she had not had the doll. Its buoyancy kept the child afloat.

21,500 Auto Workers Idled By Disputes

DETROIT, July 11 (AP) — Some 21,500 auto workers were idle today in two production disputes.

Chrysler Corp. said 6,000 employes walked out of its Plymouth plant protesting the firing of one worker accused of failing to do the work assigned to him.

Subsequently, Briggs Manufacturing Co. sent home 5,500 employes because the bodies it produces for Plymouth began to pile up.

Samuel Goldwyns Are Grandparents

HOLLYWOOD, July 11 (AP)—Film Producer Samuel Goldwyn and his wife were rotified by cable from France today that they have become grandparents.

To their son and daughter-in-law, Lieut. and Mrs. Samuel Goldwyn, Jr., a girl was born at the American Hospital in Paris.

Bill Wins Okay

ROME, July 11 (AP) — Premier Alcide De Gasperi's government today won by a narrow eight-vote margin the Chamber of Deputies' approval of a civil defense bill. It had been the target of violent Leftist attacks for the past two months.

House Rejects Defense Plant Dispersal

Plan Loses 134-79; Fight Is Sectional

WASHINGTON, July 11 (AP)—The House, locked in a battle over economic controls, today rejected a proposal to authorize President Truman to "disperse" new defense plants as a safeguard against atomic attack. The vote was 134 to 79. Veering away from the main price controls fight, the debate on dispersal developed mostly along sectional lines.

Both Democrats and Republicans from the industrial East, fearful of losing heavy industry to the South or West, attacked the proposal as "socialistic" and as "regimentation" of industry.

South Supports Plan

Chief support for the plan came from Southern legislators.

The dispersal plan was offered by the House Banking Committee as an amendment to the proposed new Defense Production Act carrying various emergency control power. The amendment had not been requested by the administration.

Badly buffeted in the preliminary voting, the administration continued to sound alarms about the future if Congress curbs the Federal controls program.

Price Director Michael V. DiSalle told a news conference that auto prices will be raised if price rollbacks are barred by law.

He also hinted that meat price control is already tottering.

DiSalle said livestock marketing is up since yesterday's House vote against government-fixed slaughtering quotas, "but so is the price."

The Federal official said apparently the only thing the slaughterers feared was the loss of their quotas, and he declared:

"They are not paying much attention to price."

Stalling Tactics

Under present control regulations, slaughterers must register with the government in order to obtain their quotas specifying how many cattle they may slaughter for market.

The penalty for a slaughterer violating price ceilings is loss of his quota which would put him out of business. But DiSalle said some slaughterers apparently think the quota system already has been abolished.

With the House now in its third day of voting, the struggle over price controls turned at least temporarily into a merry-go-round of stalling tactics as administration leaders waited with dwindling hope for a wave of "grass roots" support.

U. S. To Send Harriman To Iran For Talk

Premier Mossadegh Will Receive Advisor

WASHINGTON, July 11 (AP) — President Truman's top troubleshooter packed his bags tonight for a flight to Tehran and a dramatic bid to end the billion dollar oil dispute between Britain and Iran.

The White House announced that V.. Averell Harriman, the President's special foreign affairs advisor, would leave within the next 48 hours.

11th Hour Agreement

The eleventh-hour attempt to resolve the explosive oil crisis followed polite agreement by Iranian Premier Mohammed Mossadegh to receive Harriman. But there were no signs the Nationalist leader intended to compromise with the British.

Mr. Truman sent the Premier a letter Monday urging him to accept World Court recommendations to halt Iran's oil nationalization plans pending a joint settlement.

Presumably, Harriman will try to persuade the ailing Mossadegh to accept the Court's decision which also calls for appointment of a joint British-Iranian commission to supervise temporarily the British-owned Anglo-Iranian Oil Company.

Company Withdraws

The company today withdrew its last five British experts from Gach Saran oilfield, 200 miles east of its giant Abadan refinery. The British already have shut off pipelines to the refinery.

The oil company is seeking to force a showdown on Iranian boasts they can operate the far-flung industry without British technicians.

Harriman conferred with the President and Secretary of State Acheson tonight in last-minute talks before his departure.

The talks may decide whether Harriman will confer with the Iranian Premier only or also with the British.

Underwater Quake Recorded In Japan

TOKYO, Thursday, July 12 (AP)—An earthquake deep in the Pacific shook the Tokyo-Yokohama area at 4:23 a. m. today (1:13 p. m., Wednesday, EST), it was felt through most of Honshu Island.

The Japanese central meteorological observatory placed the epicenter about 180 miles northwest of the Bonin Islands, due west of Japan.

Two Marines Killed By Mortar Explosion

CAMP PENDLETON, Calif., July 11 (AP) — Two Marines were killed, 11 were hospitalized and six others were injured less seriously when a mortar shell exploded 20 feet from a gun position today.

Maj. K. A. Angell, commanding officer of the Fourth Marine Training Battalion, said the accident was caused by faulty ammunition. Approximately 55 Marines, training as mortarmen, were on the range using 81 MM. mortars.

Attorney Dies

SILVER SPRING, Md., July 11 (AP) — Joseph Clarke Cissel, 52, former state's attorney for Montgomery County died today in Bethesda Naval Hospital. He had been ill for about a week.

Skilled Worker Shortages Creating Labor Problems

WASHINGTON, July 11 (AP)—Shortages of certain skilled and semi-skilled workers are "more widespread and troublesome than at any previous time since Korea," the Labor Department's Bureau of Employment Security said today.

The new strains on the nation's manpower are developing under the combined impact of the defense program and continued heavy civilian output.

Robert C. Goodwin, head of the bureau and executive director of the Defense Manpower Administration, said that while no overall labor shortage has yet developed, the employment situation seems to be tightening.

That means getting men for jobs is becoming harder and harder.

But while some employers are having trouble finding men to fill jobs, in some areas workers are losing their jobs. These are principally in industries like automobile manufacturing where materials diverted to defense production are resulting in curtailed civilian production; or in industries converting to defense work.

The latest census figures show 61,803,000 employed in June, 1951, compared with 61,482,000 in June, 1950. However non-farm employment is up 1,400,000 over a year ago to a total of 53,768,000—an all time high for June. About 8,000,000 are employed in agriculture, or a million fewer than last year.

Commies Bar Press Convoy From Confab

Allies Refuse New Talks After Order

TOKYO, Thursday, July 12 (AP)—Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's Supreme Headquarters announced today Korean cease-fire talks have been broken off temporarily because the Communists refused to allow Allied newsmen in Kaesong.

MUNSAN, Korea, Thursday, July 12 (AP) — High-level talks seeking an end of the Korean War hit at least a temporary snag today when the Reds barred 20 Allied newsmen from going to the Communist-held peace-talk city of Kaesong.

The senior member of the U. N. delegation, Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, indicated the third day of talks would not open until the convoy containing the newsmen was allowed to pass.

Joy and the rest of the U. N. delegation were still at this forward Allied "peace camp" two and one half hours after their scheduled time of departure for Kaesong, 12 miles northwest. The official party has been traveling in helicopters.

Sentiment of officers in Seoul, was that the delay in the talks was only temporary. They felt the matter would be ironed out during the day with the meetings resumed.

The hitch developed after an Allied delegation spokesman Wednesday night reported the talks were "on the tracks" despite indications the Allies would refuse to discuss a Red demand that they get out of Korea.

Admiral Joy messaged Gen. Nam Il, of North Korea, leader of the Communists' delegation, that the newsmen's convoy had been refused passage and he had ordered it to return to U. N. lines.

"I am prepared," the message said, "to return with my delegation and continue the discussions which were recessed yesterday upon notification from you that my convoy bearing personnel of my choosing, including such press representation I consider necessary, will be cleared to the conference site."

The convoy of newsmen left here in a truck at 7:27 a.m. (4:27 p.m. EST, Wednesday). Joy said it was halted at 9:30 a.m. by armed Communist guards at a Red control post on the Munsan-Kaesong road.

The Communists have opposed admission of Allied newsmen to Kaesong, at least during the present uncertain stage of discussions.

They did agree yesterday, however, to the presence of five Army photographers. Five news, television and newsreel photographers, accredited to the U. S. Eighth Army, were admitted to Kaesong yesterday.

Communist photographers are in Kaesong and an Allied officer who helped arrange the high-level talks Sunday said he believed, but was not sure, that newsmen also were present.

Official expressions of optimism came last night after the conclusion

Missing Boat Search Dropped

PORT HURON, Mich., July 11. (AP) — A dramatic 20-hour long air search for two missing fishermen, part of a four-member fishing party, was dropped late today.

It appeared that the treacherous winds and currents of Lake Huron had claimed the lives of three of the party, which set out from Lexington, 20 miles away.

The missing men are Clarence Smith, 40, of Detroit, and Aubert Krass, 64, a lay brother at the Catholic St. Joseph's boys school in Buffalo.

The body of a third person, Mrs. Muriel Koerber, 35, of Detroit, washed ashore at midnight Tuesday. The fourth, Mrs. Gretchen Davis, 24, was rescued shortly after winds upset their rowboat.

She was the only one of three unable to swim and had been given the boat's only life preserver. When she last saw the other three, she said, they were clinging to the overturned boat.

Court Refuses To Accept Red Congress Money

15 Commies Sent Back To Jail

NEW YORK, July 11. (AP)—Fifteen second-string U. S. Communist leaders went back to jail today, their best and maybe last source of bail money gone.

Federal Judge Sylvester J. Ryan revoked their bails totalling $176,500 posted by the Civil Rights Congress and said the Congress cannot act as bondsman again in his court.

The effect of his ruling, the defense argued, is "to deny the right of these defendants to be admitted to bail."

Judge Ryan gave the indicted Communists one break, however. The government had asked that new bonds be boosted to a total of $876,000—four times the total posted by the Congress.

"In justice, I can't charge them with the non-appearance of their co-conspirators in either case," said Judge Ryan in leaving the total at $176,500.

He referred to four fugitive top-level officers of the Communist Party, plus four lesser leaders who never have been arrested.

When or where the indicted Reds can get fresh bail money was uncertain. Their attorney said commercial bonding firms won't go bail for Communists.

If they can't post new bonds, they'll have to stay in jail until their case is decided—which might be weeks or months.

Book Houses Termed Unfair

WASHINGTON, July 11 (AP) — The Federal Trade Commission issued complaints today charging six of the nation's biggest publishing houses with "unlawful practices which give book clubs an unfair competitive advantage over retail book stores."

The complaints named Harper and Brothers, Random House and Simon and Schuster, all of New York City; Houghton Mifflin Co., and Little Brown and Co., Inc., both of Boston, and Doubleday and Co., Inc., of Garden City, L. I., N. Y.

The complaints charged the publishers with "indirectly discriminating" against retail book sellers by leasing some printing plates to book clubs exclusively and requiring retailers, but not the clubs, to sell at fixed minimum resale prices.

Twenty days were allowed for filing answers to the complaints. The first hearing was scheduled Sept. 10 in Washington before Trial Examiner Frank Hier.

Polka Dot Paint Wins Approval

WARWICK, R. I., July 11 (AP)—When Emery R. Jernquist decided to paint his house, he decided on something different—polka dots.

The house—now that the painting is completed—is entirely black with large multi-colored Polka dots.

"Funny thing," he said, "about 70 per cent of the people seeing it say they like it."

Communist Group Goes Underground

FRANKFURT, Germany, July 11 (AP) — West Germany's outlawed Communist Youth Organization is going underground to harass the buildup of Western defense forces, Allied officials reported today.

They said the Moscow Politburo has ordered the Militant Free German Youth (FDJ) to defy the official ban on its activities and try to fan disorder in West Germany.

"The talks now are on the tracks," a spokesman, Col. George Ruhlen of Las Cruces, N. Mex., told correspondents Wednesday night. "An armistice is much nearer tonight than it was 24 hours ago."

Ruhlen conceded, however, that the five Allied and five Communist negotiators still were working on an agenda and might not "get down to brass tacks" at today's meeting.

An Allied communique noted that the Reds "exhibited less stiffness and were less formal than on the previous day," permitting "a better understanding between the negotiating parties."

It noted differences on the priority of items for the agenda, but added "there is a general feeling among United Nations delegates x x x that progress is being made."

Rear Adm. Arleigh A. Burke, a member of the United Nations team made it clear the Allies will not discuss the Communist proposal that Allied troops pull out of Korea as part of a cease-fire agreement.

Grapevine Tips Youngsters To Free Ice Cream Treats

PHILADELPHIA, July 11. (AP)—Storekeeper George Heydeman learned today that the grapevine system operated by junior citizens can be an awe-inspiring thing indeed.

A short, slender man with graying hair, Heydeman purchased a cigar and candy store in North Philadelphia three weeks ago and decided he would secure the good will of the neighborhood youngsters by supplying them with free ice cream.

Tips Customers

So, for the past few days, he tipped his customers confidentially: "Ice cream free on Wednesday. Remember, be here at 11 in the morning."

Heydeman reasoned that "the way to get people used to coming in is to get them to come in."

The reasoning was eminently sound, but Heydeman didn't count on the far-flung word-of-mouth system known to all youngsters, but sometimes forgotten by grownups.

As early as 8 a. m., youngsters appeared at the store. They milled about on the sidewalk for three hours, waiting for the invitation.

At 11 a. m., it came. Heydeman went to the door announced: "Come on in, kids."

In they surged.

Into the ice cream container went Heydeman's arm. Up came a cone.

"Don't forget to come back when you want to buy ice cream," he told his first customer, seven-year-old Betty Christopher.

Then he plunged into the container again and scooped and scooped and scooped.

Scores Of Children

Scores of children darted in and out of the store, beaming with pleasure as they departed, cone in hand.

Heydeman scooped out his last trace of ice cream at 11:45 a. m., and handed it over to a two-year-old toddler, who stood looking up at him, tense anxiety etched on his features.

The little fellow's face broke into a smile as Heydeman handed over the cone.

MILAN, Italy, July 11 (AP) —Non-Communist labor leaders voted today to boost dues from member unions in the international confederation in order to fight Communism and improve the worker's lot.

The new dues, about 20 per cent higher, should bring in more than $1,000,000 from 67 countries and 50,000,000 trade unionists to help organize where free trade unionism is backward.

Fire Disrupts Train Service

KEARNY, N. J., July 11. (AP)—A stubborn fire on a drawbridge today halted all Pennsylvania Railroad traffic into and from New York City and threw passenger service into an almost hopeless snarl.

The blaze, believed to have started in wood pilings under the main line bridge which spans the Hackensack River, raged out of control for about two hours.

Train service was disrupted shortly after 1 p. m. (EST). Railroad officials said it would be mid-evening at least before full service could be restored.

All New York-bound trains were halted at Newark and passengers transferred to Hudson and Manhattan tube trains. No through trains to the west left New York's Pennsylvania Station. Passengers for these trains also were re-routed to Newark via the tubes.

McKeldin Boosted For Presidency

ANNAPOLIS, Md., July 11 (AP)—Governor McKeldin found himself promoted for the presidency by a Florida automobile today.

Parked before the hotel at which he and Southern Marylanders attended a state commission meeting was a sedan with loud orange and black "McKeldin for President" signs on front and rear bumpers.

Turned out his booster was Howard Johnson of Salisbury, a member of the commission. He also has a home in Florida.

Accidental Death Verdict Returned

NORTH CHICAGO, Ill., July 11 (AP)—A coroners jury today returned a verdict of "accidental" in the deaths of five children fatally burned July 5 when a left over Fourth of July sparkler set off a turpentine explosion.

Killed in the blast were Billy Brosnan, 9, his sister, Kathleen, 10, and a brother, Martin, Jr., 11, Joan Renarb, 9, and Mary Jean Zorzy, 10.

Fighter Quizzed In Rape-Death

LONDON, July 11 (AP)—Sugar Ray Robinson's saddened fistic party was quizzed twice today by Scotland Yard men seeking to trace down the killer of a little girl admirer of the middleweight ex-champion.

The girl, 7-year-old Christine Butcher, was found raped and strangled at a picnic ground within sight of Windsor Castle, and near Robinson's recent training camp.

Robinson's manager, George Gainsford, told reporters the police asked Robinson and his wife a few routine questions and talked with other members of the party.

Gainsford said the police told him they sought Robinson's help in searching for a "white man in a gray suit."

Robinson, a New York negro, lost his middleweight title last night to Randolph Turpin, a British negro, in one of the big upsets of modern boxing.

Sugar Ray sent a telegram of sympathy today to Christine's parents.

Suggests Tax Stamp For Race Horses

WASHINGTON, July 11 (AP) — Senator Langer (R-ND) suggested today that the government put a stamp tax on race horses.

The horse racing business, he told the Senate, is a vast untapped source of revenue.

If it is logical to put a stamp tax on a slot machine, then it is just as logical to put one on a race horse, Langer contended.

"The race horse is just as much an instrument of gambling as a slot machine," he said.

Plans River Swim With Hands Tied

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill., July 11 (AP) — A 49-year-old packing house worker will try to swim the Mississippi River—not with one, but both hands—tied behind him.

To make it even tougher, he will tow a boatload of six soldiers and six empty barrels, festooned with posters advertising defense bonds.

The swimmer is George Hooper, who has succeeded in similar stunts 12 times in the past 14 years. His new attempt will be made July 29.

Congress' Six Months

Disclosure to the American people and to the world at large of United States military weaknesses, imminent dangers of involvement in global war, crime conditions in the country's large cities, and undesirable practices by appointed and elected officials was the most notable activity of the 82nd Congress during its first six months.

The business of investigating took attention from the business of legislating with the result that few measures of leading importance have been finally enacted. Public laws adopted up to July 1 numbered only 70. This compares with 145 new laws during the first six months of the Republican 80th Congress.

Recurrent rumors of a peace in Korea, and uncertainty as to the political and economic effects of a settlement there, made for congressional delay on the military budget, the foreign aid program, tax legislation, and anti-inflation controls. At the opening of the new fiscal year on July 1 not one of the regular appropriation bills had been sent to the President, and it was necessary to adopt an emergency resolution to keep the government departments in funds. The Senate voted an eight-month extension of price-wage-rent controls, scheduled to expire on June 30, but the House failed to act before that date. The existing controls were then extended for one month, with a prohibition against any additional price roll-backs during July.

Senate adoption of the troops-for-Europe resolution in April was the only notable success for the Truman administration during the first six months of this Democratic Congress. While expressing the "sense of the Senate" that Congress should be consulted before ground units in excess of the four divisions now planned are sent to reinforce General Eisenhower's international army, the resolution in effect rejected the Western Hemisphere Gibraltar policy recommended by former President Hoover, and with it primary reliance on sea and air power to protect the country against Communist aggression.

The compromise bill which extended the Selective Service Act, lowered the draft age to 18½, and extended the term of service from 21 to 24 months represented a partial victory for the administration. It laid the ground work for a system of universal military training, long advocated by the President, and sought to assure final action at the 1951 session on legislation to put the program into effect. Future action on UMT may be profoundly affected by the outcome of present efforts for a cease-fire in Korea. This is true also of military and foreign aid appropriations, tax increases, and economic controls.

The searching Senate investigation of Far Eastern policies, following the President's dismissal of General MacArthur from his Asian commands, is not now expected to result in any agreed findings on the rightness or wrongness of Roosevelt-Truman policies in the Pacific. The final verdict is likely to rest with the voters in the 1952 general election.

Action on domestic legislation has been largely dominated by the conservative Republican-southern Democratic coalition which was greatly strengthened by defeats of Administration supporters in 1950 elections to Congress. On the first day of the session the House set aside the anti-bottleneck rule of the last Congress, thus restoring power to obstruct Administration measures to the conservative Rules Committee. One other reform was abandoned when the present Congress decided to enact separate supply measures for the government departments instead of a single package money bill.

The 82nd Congress to date has been at least as conservative on domestic legislation as the Republican 80th. Appropriations for public housing and public power have been sharply trimmed by the House, and restraints have been put on government construction of transmission lines. The outlook for social welfare legislation in general is unpromising. An Administration bill to give the President emergency powers to reorganize government agencies was defeated in the House. Price-wage-rent control powers are more likely to be restricted than expanded, and the Senate is expected to make further cuts in the $7.2 billion of new taxes voted by the House.

White House Career Gal

Mary Margaret Truman arrives in New York this week after what was in effect a triumphal tour of Europe. Even the American music critics who don't like her as a vocalist do like her as a person—and Miss Truman did no singing in Europe.

Another White House girl, also named Margaret, chose singing as a career. Margaret Woodrow Wilson, eldest of President Wilson's three daughters, studied voice for eight years after being graduated from Goucher College, made her debut as soloist with the Chicago Symphony Orchestra at a concert in Syracuse, gave recitals in many Army camps during World War I.

The crtics wrote of Miss Wilson, as they were later to write of Miss Truman, that she sang intelligently and unaffectedly without possessing exactly one of the world's best voices. Miss Wilson later tried a business career without success, then passed out of sight unti 1940, when she joined a colony of religious mystics in India. She died there in 1944, at the age of 57.

Among other Presidential daughters who had careers in their own right were Helen Taft (Manning). She did graduate work in history at Yale while her father was teaching law there, was dean of Bryn Mawr College for many years and acting president for a time, became professor of history there in 1941.

Alice Roosevelt (Longworth) has done much writing in addition to being something of a power behind the scenes in Washington. Anna Roosevelt (Boettiger) has had an active newspaper and radio career. But when we go back to the daughters of the 19th Century Presidents, we find them uniformly what are known as "home girls."

Editorial Paragraphs

Peace treaties are being considered in various parts of the world. But not even an optimist would predict the atmosphere will ever become so friendly both Gromyko and Malik will learn to say yes.

The Eisenhower boom for President is to be kept under wraps until next spring, it is reported. Perhaps by then Ike will be willing to let it be known which part he belongs to.

What Russia really wants in the Far East is Japan, according to one observer. It will always be a mystery why Nippon wasn't included in the fine print in the Yalta Treaty.

Multiple births are increasing, it is discovered. Perhaps in the state of the world misery loves company and no baby wants to come in alone.

Care In The Use Of DDT

DDT is not as harmful to man as to insects, but it must be used cautiously to prevent poisoning. A number of deaths have been attributed to DDT intoxication but almost every case was questionable because DDT was mixed with large quantities of solvents which can result in similar toxic effects.

Powdered DDT rarely is toxic or irritating to the intact skin. When the substance is mixed with oil or chemical solvents there is a good chance that it will be absorbed into the system. Acute poisoning is manifested by muscle twitching, beginning in the eyelids and spreading to the remainder of the body. These tremors may become marked and in the more serious cases the heart beats irregularly and convulsions develop. Chronic intoxication is possible when exposure occurs over a long period of time. Loss of weight and appetite, mild anemia, muscular weakness, and tremors ensue. Fatal cases often encounter convulsions and go into coma prior to death.

The solvents that are combined with DDT, as mentioned previously, may produce similar symptoms which makes it difficult to determine the exact origin of the poisoning. Overexposure to kerosene, for example, leads to nervousness, headache, fatigue, and numbness and tingling sensations in and about the lips; but regardless of the cause, DDT mixtures should be utilized according to directions. The dry powder is less dangerous than the mixed solutions of DDT. Placing powder on the skin, for example, may be harmless but if the surface is oily and dissolves some of the powder, the combination enters the system.

The aerosol form of DDT is relatively safe but may irritate the eyes or the lungs when inhaled. Twitching of the lids is the first sign that too much has been absorbed. If DDT is swallowed accidentally, vomiting should be induced to eliminate as much of the ingested material as possible. The physician also employs a stomach tube to wash out the gastric pouch. During the next 24 hours the victim must avoid cathartics as well as oily and fatty foods to discourage absorption of any of the insecticide that remains.

Individuals who use the powder must wear protective clothing, particularly if the skin is contaminated with grease or oil. Goggles and solvent resistant gloves also help when large amounts of the material are being handled. A mask prevents inhalation of DDT applied via spray, mist, or aerosol mixture; this is a wise precaution if the preparation contains 5 per cent or more of DDT. After the job is completed a bath and change of clothing are desirable.

DDT used in the home seldom leads to poisoning unless the job is done carelessly. The insecticide never should be stored in food cupboards or medicine cabinets where it is likely to be mistaken for something else. Before applying, it is advisable to cover exposed foods, utensils, children's toys, and cribs. A room occupied by an ill person should not be sprayed and aquariums and delicate plants ought to be removed before applying spray or aerosol. Many of the mixtures are inflammable and should not be employed in the vicinity of an open fire. The skin must not be squirted with the aerosol discharge; nor should the powder or oil solution be placed on the fur of pets where it can be licked off.

BUNION SURGERY

G. W. writes: In a bunion operation, is the joint removed?

REPLY

This depends upon the type of operation performed. Most surgeons remove only enough of the joint to permit the toe to be straightened. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on bunions.

GOUT AND HEARING

B. T. writes: Can gout affect the ears?

REPLY

Now and then uric acid crystals are deposited along the rim of the outer ear. These lesions are known as tophi and do not affect hearing as they are just beneath the skin.

SANDY GALL BLADDER

H. T. writes: Will sand in the gall bladder eventually turn to gallstones?

REPLY

Not necessarily, but sand is a good start toward stones.

MUSHROOM POISONING

L. K. writes: What symptoms are produced by toadstool poisoning?

REPLY

If symptoms appear within a few minutes to two hours they are likely to include abdominal cramps, diarrhea, vomiting, excess saliva, and eye manifestations such as tearing and contracted pupils. In some cases circulatory collapse, mental disturbances, convulsions, and coma occur. With the delayed type of reaction, which is more serious, in addition to the above symptoms, the liver is damaged and urination may cease.

Early-Morning Price Debate Revealed Special-Interest Senators; Sen. Ferguson Defeated On Automobile Roll-Up Amendment; Senator Shouted Down Lehman

WASHINGTON.—The public was alseep at 3 a.m. when the Senate staged its most revealing debate on price control. Asleep also were many newspapermen.

Yet the speeches certain senators made at that time—just as price controls were scheduled to expire—and the amendments they introduced, give the clearest of all pictures regarding who pulls the strings to make certain senators dance.

At about 2:30 a.m. up spoke Sen. Homer Ferguson of Michigan, his silver hair more awry than usual. He had an amendment which would have increased the price of automobiles throughout the nation.

Ferguson did not mention the fact that his wife and son-in-law are heavy stockholders in a subsidiary of one of the biggest automobile companies — Chrysler. Nor did Sen. Willis Robertson of Virginia mention it, as Sen. Elmer Thomas was unkind enough to do three years ago when he threatened to expose Ferguson's family interest in Chrysler unless Ferguson quit investigating him.

However, Robertson, alert to catch the significance of Ferguson's amendment, warned his colleagues that it was "tailored perfectly to increase the price of automobiles."

"Then this is a roll-up amendment," snapped Clinton Anderson of New Mexico. "If we want chaos in price administration, this is the easiest way to get it I have ever seen."

Then, turning to Ferguson, the New Mexico Senator observed: "It applies primarily to the automobile industry."

"The Senator is correct," admitted Ferguson. "Why should that industry be discriminated against?"

"The profits of automobile manufacturers were reasonably good, were they not?" Anderson shot back, referring to the fact that most big motor companies have just celebrated their highest profits in history.

"Now we come to the secret. The Senator wants to fix prices so as to determine profits," angrily shouted the Michigan Senator.

Ferguson had reason to expect his automobile amendment to pass like other special-interest amendments, log-rolled through in the early hours of the morning. But it was defeated—with Michigan's other Senator, Blair Moody of Detroit, voting against it.

Peanuts And Milk

Senators Ed Thye, Minnesota Republican, and Warren Magnuson, Washington Democrat, also pushed through an amendment to freeze dairy and peanut products at their present high prices. But Senator Anderson, once secretary of agriculture, and now the consumers' most consistent friend, objected.

"The bill we are considering is designed to try to put ceilings on prices," he said. "How is a measure that would prevent prices from dropping germane to a bill that is trying to put on ceilings?"

"That may have been true so far as the original intent of the bill," sarcastically interposed Senator Douglas of Illinois, another friend of the housewife, "but it is completely appropriate now, since the price-control bill has turned into a bill to increase prices."

However, Senator Thye, himself a dairy farmer, defended the bill on the grounds "it is necessary in the general defense of our land."

"I do not believe that the national defense is going to be jeopardized in the slightest if we allow a peanut from some other country to come into this country," snorted Anderson.

Cattle and Black-Markets

However, the dairy-peanut amendment passed.

Anderson also tried to block an amendment by Sen. Hugh Butler, Nebraska Republican, weakening the government's control over meat slaughtering. Butler raises cattle in Nebraska, while Anderson raises cattle in New Mexico. But while Butler has been the great champion of the cattleman—and his pocketbook interest—Anderson has voted against his own pocketbook.

This brought Senate Majority Leader Ernest McFarland of Arizona angrily to his feet. Though he is supposed to be the administration spokesman, he supported Butler.

"I resent the insinuation that this is a black-market amendment," bristled McFarland. "I cannot permit him (Anderson) to say unchallenged that I am advocating a black market."

Later, Anderson read a telegram to show that he was supported by some meat packers.

Children Or $ $

While the Senate voted for the special interests, it voted against the underprivileged, on an amendment offered by New York's gentle Sen. Herbert Lehman. Lehman, who lost his son in the war, begged the Senate to "make it illegal for a landlord to deny the rental of housing accommodations to any applicant solely on the ground that the applicant has children."

No one dared to speak publicly against Lehman's amendment, but the Senators shouted it down with a chorous of "no's."

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

More On Newsprint

Matthew J. Burns, a member of Thorold (Ontario) Local 101, International Brotherhood of Paper Makers—retired, writes to the editor of the Washington "Times-Herald":

". . . In 1910 the reciprocity bill with Canada was before the Congress—tariff would be removed on newsprint paper manufactured in Canada and all other countries. The publishers really got interested now in a new source of supply of newsprint paper. They threw the weight of their influence into the balance and succeeded in getting Congress to remove the protective tariff from newsprint paper which had been on since George Washington's administration. This was achieved under a Republican administration."

I presume that because it was the Republicans who did this deed, that makes it kosher. In the long history of American Internationalism, the Republicans have at times been as stupid as the Democrats.

The fact of the matter is that in 1925, the United States produced about half of the newsprint it consumer; in 1949, it was about 16 percent. Now we not only have a shortage but the price has been fixed so high by the Canadian Cartel that a free press in this country is imperilled because its principal raw material is moving out of reach.

Newsprint is the second largest import in the United States, being exceeded, in value, only by coffee. Approximately 80 percent of the amount we use comes from Canada, and the Canadians can fix any price they choose for it. They have no real competition.

In 1890, there were 130 manufacturers of newsprint in the United States and 13 in Canada, according to the report of the Celler committee. In 1913, newsprint was put on the free list and has remained there since in all tariff legislation. Let me quote from the Celler committee:

". . . In 1913 Canadian newsprint production was only about 350,000 tons compared to 1,305,000 produced in the United States. Canadian exports to this country in that year were only 117,000 tons, or about a third of total Canadian production. Only 13 years later, in 1926, Canadian production had eclipsed that in the United States, and the Dominion was exporting to this country almost as much newsprint as was manufactured by all domestic mills combined. . . .

"Production of newsprint in the United States, which attained its zenith of 1,687,000 tons in 1926, gradually dwindled until by 1933 it had fallen below the million ton mark. Thereafter, production in this country hovered steadily between 725,000 and 1,000,000 tons. . ."

In 1913, the United States was practically self-sufficient, producing 85 percent of its own requirements. Today, it imports about 80 percent of its newsprint from Canada. It is true that considerable American capital has been invested in Canadian mills, but the fact remains that this country is short of a commodity as essential as steel.

There is ample evidence that for many years the Canadian government has been in control of the price of newsprint, which is an essential factor in the economy of that country. One point that the Canadians emphasize is that they have no desire to destroy their forests unless they get a good price for newsprint. This quotation from the "paper trade journal" on August 26, 1937 is important as indicating the attitude of Candaians, which has remained unchanged since then:

"Efforts are now being made to prevent a repetition of over-expansion. Premier Duplessis of Quebec has appealed to the Ontario government for collaboration in formulating a common policy to "direct and not administer' the industry. Meanwhile he has forbidden the opening of new pulp and paper mills until those closed have been put into operation, and has established measures to prevent export of any pulpwood.

"The end to which Premier Duplessis is working is the maintenance of a fairly even balance between supply and demand and the adoption of a considerate price policy."

Canada cannot be blamed for conserving its forests, for preventing over-expansion of a national industry or for getting as high a price as it can. The United States can be blamed for not protecting a nationally essential commodity.

Any study of this problem indicates three clear facts:

1. The Canadians have us;

2. Our government, ECA and similar American agencies, use enormous amounts of newsprint and are competing so actively that the demand encourages pricing beyond purchaser power by the smaller newspapers;

3. Former competition by Finland and Sweden is not likely to be available under present conditions.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON.—All the double talk in the world will not erase the sample fact that the United Nations is quitting in Korea without achieving its objectives. When the fighting ends, the leverage ends. The same hold on North Korea that the Communists had before their aggression a year ago will continue. This is now taken for granted and is plainly implied in American pronouncements.

What makes the incident such a shameful chapter in the history of "collective security" is that the United Nations is now about to repudiate its resolution adopted by the General Assembly on October 7, 1950, when it said that the achievement of stability throughout Korea was its primary objective. Today the claim is repeatedly made by high American officials that it was never intended to use military means to attain that objective. Yet here is the language of the U.N. resolution of last October 7:

"United Nations forces should not remain in any part of Korea otherwise than so far as necessary for achieving the objectives specified in sub-paragraphs (a) and (b) above."

And what were the objectives specified? Here is the exact wording:

"(a) All appropriate steps be taken to ensure conditions of stability throughout Korea.

Unified Action

The "appropriate steps" meant armed operations because that was what the UN forces were engaged in at the time. In fact, in the preamble of the same resolution there is a specific reference to these military operations as follows:

"Having in mind that United Nations Armed Forces are at present operating in Korea in accordance with the recommendations of the Security Council of 27 June 1950, subsequent to its resolution of 25 June 1950, that members of the United Nations furnish such assistance to the Republic of Korea as may be necessary to repel the armed attack and to restore international peace and security in the area, . . ."

There can be no question that the UN Assembly intended last autumn to "restore peace and security in the area" by military action and no question either that the objective was to achieve "conditions of stability throughout Korea."

There was no concession that the status quo which existed a year ago could be restored. There was no admission that North Korea could remain under the control of Communist Russia or Communist China or that North Korea could even exist as a separate entity. The resolution proposed "a unified, independent and democratic government in the sovereign state of Korea."

Merely A Pause

If the view be taken that the armistice is merely a pause and that the main objectives are still to be attained through diplomacy, then the UN forces cannot be withdrawn and brought back to their home countries unless those objectives are assured. Since this means long-drawn-out negotiations, it implies that the UN is willing to compromise and settle for less than the October 7, 1950, resolution set forth.

To do this would be to concede defeat in Korea and to admit that the UN was unable, either by military action or by diplomacy, to carry out its October 7, 1950, resolution.

History will then say that the UN failed as did the League of Nations to enforce its resolutions and that, in this instance, although military and economic sanctions were applied, they were not exerted to maximum degree and the prestige of the UN suffered an ignominious blow. The whole world membership was arrayed against relatively small aggressor forces and yet the UN members failed to achieve a military victory.

Defeat For Truman

There is little doubt that Great Britain, which was responsible for the appeasement at Munich in 1938, is today responsible for the Korean appeasement policy and has influenced the American government to give way and settle the problem without a military decision. Already the influential "London Economist," which often anticipates British government action, says about what is to come after a "cease fire":

"A unified democratic Korea is not now a feasible objective of policy; to unify the country force would have to be used by one side or the other."

This is a realistic statement. Having given up the idea of unifying Korea by military action, the idea of getting it any other way also vanishes in the realm of vague and inconclusive diplomacy. America has suffered a defeat. The UN has suffered a defeat, and the Communists have won a signal victory through the failure of the Truman Administration to assert its leadership in the UN.

Unrest In The Alliance

AVON, Connecticut—

It will come as a shock to the people here at home who have been airily arguing about whether we "want allies," or should go it alone." Yet the fact is that our allies are also beginning to argue about whether they want us. This seems to this reporter by far the most significant single phenomenon observed during a long, just concluded trip abroad.

There are plenty of obvious reasons for the unrest and anti-American feeling within the Western alliance. The defense program which we have urged upon them is a heavy burden to the British, who have carried so many burdens for so long. The French, with their weak government, are hardly able to keep their promise to us to raise men for more divisions. German rearmament pleases no one.

Yet even these grave difficulties are essentially superficial. They would matter little, if it were not for two other, less noticeable but far deeper sources of trouble.

The first of these trouble sources —it had better be admitted frankly —is the failure of American leadership since the 1948 election.

Sights Are Raised

From November 1949 until the Korean aggression, the Administration told our allies, as it told the country, that we could all disarm and be comfortable. Then came the Korean challenge and the response. Then, with the advent of George C. Marshall at the Defense Department, there was an immense raising of rearmament sights. Then there was the victorious complacency after Inchon in October and the near panic after the Yalu defeat in November and December. And then there were two or three months before Gen. MacArthur's recall, when no one quite knew what American policy really was.

Other choppings and changings might also be noted. But the foregoing is enough to indicate how unpredictable we have seemed to the British, the French and our other allies.

To make matters worse, among our allies today, there is no one with Winston Churchill's superb self-confidence and willingness to take the lead himself. An alliance, like any other body of persons acting together, is deeply dependent on firm, clear-headed leadership. The Western alliance has no other possible leader but the United States. And our unsteady leadership in the past two years and a half has sadly shaken the confidence in the United States that was built up during the war and the great policy-making years just after the war.

In this sense, at least, the MacArthur controversy ought to prove remarkably fortunate, as having at last cleared the minds of Administration chieftains about what they were trying to do and having shown their intentions to the world. But no public debate, nothing but the most urgent and unrelenting effort, can cure the other trouble which is also weakening the Western alliance.

This trouble is simply the fear generated in Britain, in Western Europe, in the Middle and Far East, by the continuing predominance of Soviet military power. A later report will examine this problem in greater detail. It is enough to say here that Americans can hardly imagine the state of mind of informed men in Britain. These Englishmen know their country still lacks any effective air defense. They know also that Britain is the most vulnerable possible target for atomic attack. They expect that Britain will be instantly attacked if a general war breaks out.

Hysterical Fear

For Englishmen who think of a third world war in terms of total devastation, for Frenchmen who think of it in terms of Soviet occupation, the impulse to appease is naturally difficult to resist. This impulse would be less important today, if our allies thought that all risks, to them as well as to us, were being coolly and wisely calculated in Washington. But that is not the impression that has been conveyed. And thus, while our allies have no motion of surrender, they suffer from an almost hysterical fear that they will be plunged into an unnecessary war by American "excitabilty."

There is no use grumbling about injustice, appeasement, and man's ingratitude to man. The practical situation confronting us is the situation outlined above. Furthermore, this situation has been recognized in the Kremlin as another vulnerable flank of the free world. A great war of nerves offensive has been launched to capitalize on our allies' fears. The Kremlin's main aim and hope during the months immediately ahead will be to split and thus to paralyze the Western alliance. Every weapon of psychological warfare, from the crassiest intimidation to the most subtle subversion, is being and will be used to this end.

Fear Of Atom Bomb

This is because the Kremlin knows that the United States cannot go it alone. Fear of atomic attack on Russia by the American Strategic Air Force is the only existing deterrent to further Soviet aggression. The effectiveness of our Strategic Air Force now almost entirely depends upon overseas air bases, in territories of the British and our other allies. If the Kremlin could be sure that use of these bases would be denied to us, the Red Army would march tomorrow. And the Red Army will march, if and when a split in the Western alliance gives the longed-for protection to the masters of Russia.

These are bleak truths which need to be noted, but noted as warnings. For if America can only lead as America ought to lead, which means if America can only be true to her own greatness, there may be hard and tricky times ahead; but the Western alliance will hold firm and there will be no catastrophe. The knowledge that he is skirting a precipice makes the mountaineer step more carefully but also more firmly, and this must be the American rule today.

ALONG THE POTOMAC TO WASHINGTON

(By Representative J. Glenn Beall, Sixth Maryland District)

On the basis of Senate hearings on the tax bill, it is indicated that there will be a complete rewriting of the $7.2 billion tax bill passed by the House under a gag rule. Senator Walter F. George, (D) of Georgia, Finance Chairman, advocates raising 6 billion dollars in new revenue, more than a billion less than the House bill would yield and cutting the President's budget by applying cuts not only on domestic items but on military and foreign aid as well. He stated that individual income rates would destroy" some taxpayers.

Some interesting figures have come to my attention. The Census Bureau reported last week that the total farm production in Maryland last year was $172,157,401. Then I find that Maryland's share of payments for the revenue act of 1951 is $128,880,000. In other words, Maryland's share of tax-paying is almost as much as the entire farm revenue. Of this share, last year Maryland received back in Federal aid only $54,258,300, or much less than half of what her citizens paid in. This may be explained by the fact that the cost of operating peacetime departments of Commerce, Interior, Labor, Justice, State and Independent Offices over the last five years has increased from $3,505,975,565 to $11,214,579,034 or almost four times as much. Tax revenues laid on the people to pay for Government activities totaled $91,586,076,130 for all Presidents from Washington to Hoover; during the Roosevelt regime from 1933 through April, 1945, tax revenues rose to $156,762,318,450; and the total tax revenues collected during the Truman Administration from May 1, 1945 to June 20, 1951 totaled $260,417,309,430 or $12,068,914,840 more than was collected in the nation's history prior to his Administration.

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation is taking steps to clean up the mess brought to light by the recent investigations. All field agencies have been stripped of their power to grant loans. Heretofore they had been permitted to grant loans up to $100,000 without referring such requests to Washington. This action was taken when it was discovered that loans were made to such activities as flower growing, an advertising agency and the setting up of an optometrist shop among others.

Former Representative Martin Dies, of Texas who was Chairman of the House Committee on Un-American Activities has stated, in speeches in Texas, that there is a close affinity between the socialization schemes of the present Administration and the Russian pattern of Government. Mr. Dies declared that the last two Administrations were mainly responsible for the "rise of Russia from a third rate power to the position of a world menace without the loss of a Russian soul. The plain and ugly truth" he states, "is that our Government has protected Communism at home and abroad from 1933 to quite recently."

Under The Dome

I was advised by the Post Office Department that they are rearranging star route 13241, Baltimore (parcel post station) to Thurmont, and a round trip of service over that route between Baltimore and Frederick six times a week effective July 1, 1951. This will supersede star route 13113 Baltimore (parcel post station) to Union Bridge and a portion of Thurmont Junction and Frederick CP service. I asked the Department to give the residents of Frederick better service and I am hopeful the above plan will be satisfactory.

My bill authorizing the Interstate Commerce Commission to investigate the passenger facilities and rates in the Washington metropolitan area has been approved by the Montgomery County Civic Federation. This group adopted a Resolution asking for such an investigation. I have requested the Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee of the House to hold hearings on my bill.

The National Production Administration advised me that steel for a road project in Montgomery County would be available early in September. This steel was ordered some time ago and the shipment was first promised for May, however, present restrictions have held up the shipment.

BRITISH PIN AIR FUTURE ON PASSENGER JETPLANES

Two propellerless British Comet jets fly high above the clouds.

Central Press Staff Writer

LONDON—By thrusting commercial flying into a Jet Age, British airplane manufacturers and the United Kingdom's two passenger airlines, the British Overseas Airways corporation and the British European Airways, have forced a friendly but highly competitive challenge upon their American opposites.

Since the end of World War II, British airlines eagerly advertised that many of their world-girdling passenger planes were American-made. The picture is changing, and at least two important aviation companies in Britain are constructing planes of the pure jet and the jet-propeller type.

Between the end of 1951 and the spring of 1953, it is planned to send into the skies these jets which could start the best American piston-engined craft toward obsolescence.

The BOAC, while awaiting delivery of 14 Comets, four-engined, propellerless jets, is training commercial crews on the London-to-Cairo run, on one such craft with a passenger load of 23 persons.

* * *

THE BEA, which claims a record of more passengers per year than any line outside the United States, has completed operational tests of the first prop-jet planes to go into scheduled passenger service anywhere in the world.

By the beginning of 1953 this line plans to have in regular service on its continental European runs the 28 prop-jets now on assembly lines.

The British are frank in setting forth their plans for this Jet Age competition against the lead enjoyed by producers of piston-engined planes in the United States. W. E. Nixon, managing director of the de Havilland Aircraft corporation, builder of the Comet jet, states the issue plainly:

"We face the difficult task of securing world-wide business from the established airlines, bearing in mind that for 15 years they have been using American equipment and forming happy and satisfactory associations with our American competitors.

* * *

"THE AMERICANS, of course, will do all they can to save their market," Mr. Nixon continued. "We know that we must press forward with the development of the Comet to still better capabilities.

"We are preparing for a Comet with larger engines for the very long and severe trunk-route stages of the world."

An idea of how deeply Britain's drive into the Jet Age of commercial aviation can affect the American industry, may be gauged from current figures. The British European Airways flies on domestic and Continental routes three types of planes, of which approximately one-third are American.

When the BEA's 28 Vickers Viscount jet-props are delivered, that ratio will be seriously altered against its American-built craft. Likewise, for the present at least, British aviation has the field of foreign markets for jets to itself. Announcement has been made of orders for the new types from several airlines outside the United Kingdom.

Washington Wonderland

By SENATOR HARRY F. BYRD

The president recently thought the time had come in the Washington Wonderland to talk about shortages, controls, rationing and things, in connection with military preparedness requirements.

Among other shortages which appear to be of great concern to the Federal Government is the shortage of people to hire.

For the last twelve months the Military Establishment has been employing civilians at the rate of nearly 1,500 a day!

In some places, such as the Wright-Patterson Air Force Base at Dayton, Ohio, the Air Force can not find any more typists and stenographers to hire; so they are attempting to employ unqualified people and use maintenance and operations money to send them to commercial business schools!

While the federal payroll now totals more than 2½ million people and is costing more than $8 billion a year, government employment is continuing to increase at the date of hundreds a day in both the military and civilian agencies.

And we have only started recruiting employees for the new emergency agency now being established!

Recently the Joint Committee on Reduction of Nonessential Federal Expenditures made a survey of federal employment in the so-called field service, outside of Washington, throughout the country. It found federal employees in every one of the 3,069 counties of the 48 States except one — Armstrong County, South Dakota!

This report inspired Peter Steele to write a poem, which may be thought provoking to the readers of this column.

Americanus Independus

All Hail to Armstrong, South Dakota,
Land of the Free!
You have yet to fill your quota
With a Federal Employee!

No one from Agriculture?
How do you farm?
No one from Justice?
Who keeps you from harm?

No one from Veterans?
By whom are you paid?
No one from Commerce?
How do you trade?

No one from Housing?
Who buildeth your shacks?
No one from Treasury?
Who takes your tax?

No one from Post Office?
Who sells your stamp supply?
No one from Military?
Who keeps your powder dry?

No one from Security?
How, then, can you be Social,
If you have no single bureaucrat
To decide things equivocal?

Even the Department of Interior
Is from Armstrong's roster missed.
Tell me, Armstrong County,
How do you exist?

All Hail to Armstrong County,
Where there's no "share the pelf,"
And despite the Welfare Staters,
Each does things for himself.

Taking a trip? Brush up on what's new in what and when to tip to save yourself uncertainty and embarrassment.

SECRETS OF CHARM

By JOHN ROBERT POWERS

How much to tip and when, now that the old rule of ten percent is outmoded, puzzles many a traveler and diner-outer. But a new scale of gratuities has evolved and removes the uncertainty and embarrassment over such matters. The following schedule is currently accepted as fair to both those who give and those who receive service. Tuck it into your wallet and it will serve as a guide when you venture afield.

In Restaurants and Hotels

Except in world famous and haute-monde restaurants, where, smarting under the high prices you must pay, your conscience extracts a comparably outsize tip, leave 25c for a check between $1.00 and $2.00. For larger checks, about 12 per cent of the total raised to the next round figure is right. On a $4.00 check that would be 50c; on a $10.00 check, $1.25.

In hotels, tip the bellboy who shows you to your room 25c to 50c depending on the amount of luggage he carries for you. The chambermaid should receive 10 per cent of the cost of your room for a short stay or $3.00 to $5.00 per week. For room service, tip the waiters 25 per cent of the check unless the bill is over $5.00; then 15 per cent is adequate.

When travelling by train, tip station porters 15c for a small bag; 25c for a large one, except in the terminals where there is a fixed price for hauling luggage, in which case the porter will inform you of the total cost. Pullman porters are usually given 25c for a day trip, 50c for each night in an upper, 75c in a lower; $1.00 in a roomette, $1.50 in a compartment and $2.00 to $3.00 if you travel in a drawing room.

Ships, Planes and Taxis

On ships, 10 per cent of your passage is considered ample for division among your bath and cabin attendants, and your deck and dining stewards. Your travel agent will be glad to advise you on this as well as about tipping customs at your destination.

Airplanes: No tipping is permitted.

Doormen are not tipped unless a special service is performed, except at night clubs where 25c on leaving is customary. For powder-room attendants, 15c to 25c; for taxi drivers (in large cities), no less than 10c for a 50c ride and beyond that, 20 per cent.

And here's a tip that will help you get through the world pleasantly: Never offer a gratuity for willing service without a straight forward "thank you!"

Gunplay Lands Man In Jail

Arlie T. Lease, Pinto, is lodged in Allegany County jail in default of a $3,000 bond imposed at a hearing yesterday at Trial Magistrate's Court and is awaiting action of the October term of Circuit Court.

Lease is being held for allegedly assaulting his son, Rueben, and pointing a gun at him during an argument.

Court attaches said Trooper A. M. Spioch, who was dispatched to the Lease home to investigate a disturbance, arrived to find the prisoner pointing the weapon at his son. On other occasions, Lease fired through windows at his home, they added.

Unobserved by Lease, the trooper sneaked up behind the man and disarmed him. The prisoner was in the act of turning around to point the shotgun at Spioch, authorities reported.

About four years ago, State Police said, Trooper Spioch disarmed another gun-toter in the Westernport area while probing a complaint.

Orchardists Name Directors

Four area fruit growers attended the annual meeting of the board of directors of the Appalachian Apple Service, Inc., at Martinsburg, W. Va., Monday when three of the four officers were elected for their 16th consecutive year.

The officers are C. Purnell McCue, of Greenwood, Va., president; Malcolm M. Brown, treasurer, and Carroll R. Miller, secretary-manager, both of Martinsburg. Also re-elected was Charles R. Packard, of Roaring Springs, Pa., vice president.

On the board from this area are John P. Caspar, of Hancock; Henry W. Miller, Jr., of Paw Paw, W. Va.; J. Howard Rannells, of Romney, W. Va., and Cecil W. Wood, of Hedgesville, W. Va.

The apple service is comprised of 1,515 orchardists in Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia and Pennsylvania. The office is at Martinsburg, the central point of the 500-mile long belt.

South End Group To Hear Tax Talk

The South Cumberland Business Men's Association meets Monday at Grace Methodist Church Community Hall to hear a discussion of city finances by Commissioner William H. Buchholtz.

Commissioner Buchholtz will speak on "Why Our City Costs So Much."

This will be one of two meetings scheduled by the association this summer. The other will be held August 13. The bi-weekly meetings will be resumed in September.

A nominating committee has been named to report at the annual meeting in September. The group is composed of Marcus Naughton, Roy Cunningham and Lacy Cifala.

It is estimated that an object which weighs 20 pounds on earth would weigh only three pounds on the moon.

A furlong is 660 feet.

Merry-Go-Round

morning, Michigan's young Senator Moody put up a last-ditch fight to strike out all the special-interest amendments and salvage a good price-control law.

"It is about time that the interest of the consumers, of the American people, is considered ahead of the special interests who hope to profit by inflation at the public's expense," pleaded Moody.

Sen. Bill Benton, Connecticut Democrat, agreed.

"Abraham Lincoln said there should be a proper balance between property rights and human rights. However, that balance has been entirely upset in the past few days in the course of the proceedings in this chamber," Benton declared. "I suggest that we had better begin to consider how to reach the proper balance between property rights and human rights. If we do not do so, we shall lose the cold war. We shall lose it by losing the war of inflation."

But Sen. Irving Ives, New York Republican, saw the handwriting on the wall. Ives has consistantly battled for the consumer. So, at about 4 a.m., he admitted defeat: "the votes are against us, and there is nothing we can do about it. Only the test of time can show that we are right and they are wrong. I am willing to abide by that test. I should like to have the question come to a vote."

The roll call was called—and the Senate voted against the public, 59 to 22.

The first woman editor in the United States was Anne Franklin, of the Newport, R. I., Mercury, in 1762.

The first steam pump was made by Henry Rossiter Worthington in 1840.

MAYBE NOT YOUR FAULT

WHEN your pair fails to get the same good score made by all of its rivals on a duplicate deal, the unfortunate result may not be your own fault. It may have been caused by something your opponents did, different from the opposition's action at other tables. Perhaps a third-hand psychic bid by one of them caused his partner to select a lead which could ruin your contract. The only justice in this is that such things happen occasionally to every other pair, so that in the long run they balance out.

The psychic bid of 1-Spade by East was made at only one table of a big duplicate game. South in every other case made the contract of 6-Diamonds without the slightest difficulty, following the club lead induced by normal bidding. The only trick lost by the declarer in these instances was in hearts.

West would have been easily convictable of a real bridge crime if he had led anything except a spade after the bidding sequence given above. And it of course beat the contract, with a ruff in that suit and a trick with the heart K.

East at this table was well stocked with imagination. With a partner who could not open the bidding, and an original call made by North, he saw several purposes that might be served by a psychic bid of his void in spades. One could be his causing strong opponents to land in the wrong declaration. Another could be exactly what did happen.

South's double of the 1-Spade told West immediately the nature of his partner's bid, since he held five of the suit himself. Then, when East eventually doubled the diamond slam, it was obvious to West that his partner wanted a spade lead. South said afterward that his own redouble was in a desperate effort to make West believe he did not fear a spade lead. But that try failed, and only increased the score for the defense.

July Projects Planned

Color in rooms for girls and preparing for the fair are to be the projects for the LaVale Girls Junior 4-H Club, Miss Thelma Allin reported at the meeting recently at the fire hall. Plans were discussed for a one day camp for junior members.

Reports were given on Camp Algawa with Donna Sue Rice telling of the swimming and vesper service; Florence Zaks, meals and camp fire service; Elizabeth Ann Murray, tribes and banquet; Mary Esther Fisher, crafts and public speaking classes and Patricia Fisher, junior leaders.

Zion WSCS Plan Festival, Have Mission Program

The members of the WSCS of Zion Church formulated plans for a seasonal festival at the meeting recently at the church, Bedford Road. Mrs. Rachael Iames presided and it was decided to have the festival in the near future.

Mrs. Iames offered the opening prayer. "Bless Be the Tie that Binds," was sung by the group and Mrs. Jane Mertens continued the devotions with a prayer and spoke on the life of the Filipenos. A report on cards sent to the sick and bereaved was given by Mrs. Lura Twigg.

A social hour followed and refreshments were served by Mrs. Sadie Durst, Mrs. Irene Bucy and Mrs. Bertha Brotemarkle, hostesses. There were 22 members present and one visitor, Mrs. Mabel Browning.

Librarian Averts Youths' Suicide By Reading Book

CHICAGO (NS) — A Baltimore librarian who turned the thoughts of jobless, depression-weary youths from suicide with readings from "The Three Musketeers" won the American Library Association's top prize today for descriptions of the power of books to influence human lives.

Winner of the $200 award in the ALA's 75th anniversary contest was Miss Elizabeth Hart of Baltimore's Enoch Pratt library.

Her statement, read today at the group's convention in Chicago, told of her "boys" — waterfront youths in Baltimore's Locust Point district — who met in the library one winter night in 1932 to talk of suicide because "guys can't go on this way." The librarian's entry read, in part:

"In the eyes of the world they were men . . . but there was no work . . . for two years there had been no work . . . they needed so much, and I had only books to offer . . .

"Taking 'The Three Musketeers' from the shelf, I began to read:

" 'Imagine to yourself a Don Quixote of 18; a Don Quixote without his coat of mail . . .'

Another top prize-winner, Mrs. Rezia Gaunt of the Gary, Ind., public library, credited the institution's stock of "good and wise" books on race relations with helping to "make the diference between rioting and no rioting" during tension periods in the city.

STARTING GATE ARRIVES — The starting gate for the races which will open at Fairgo Tuesday is seen yesterday on Fayette Street as it was being taken to the race track. The vanguard of the hundreds of workers needed to insure smooth operation of the track has been busy for some time at Fairgo making last minute preparations for the racing session. About a fourth of the 400 horses slated to take part in the races are already stabled at the grounds.

Fair Association Obtains Beer Permit

A beer permit yesterday was issued to trustees of the Cumberland Fair Association by the Allegany County Board of License Commissioners.

Trustees who received the license are Harry E. Flook, Tasker G. Lowndes and Carl F. Schmutz. On June 14 the trustees applied for a special 10-day beer, wine and liquor permit for the racing season.

City Sewage Equipment Is Used At Luke

A sewer emergency which at one time threatened to close a section of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company at Luke has been averted through the use of Cumberland's new motorized equipment.

Mrs. Lucile W. Roeder, commissioner of streets and public property, said the company hired the new sewer cleaning equipment for a limited period of time.

The emergency occurred July 4 and the equipment is due back tomorrow she said.

The Luke firm is paying all expenses. Since only city-trained men can operate the equipment, the company is paying transportation, wages and any overtime for the three operators required; $25 a day rental and has assumed responsibility for any repair the machinery might need when the emergency ends.

Mrs. Roeder said she authorized rental of the equipment because it was the only gear available to the plant which produces products vital to the defense program. A shutdown because of the sewer emergency would also have resulted in unemployment, she added.

The sewer cleaning equipment is one of the most recent modernizations in the Department of Streets and Public Property. The machinery is so designed to cut time and labor on city projects that it will eventually pay for itself, officials have said.

DEATHS and FUNERALS

JOSEPH C. CISSEL

Joseph Clark Cissel, 52, of Silver Spring, former state's attorney of Montgomery county (Maryland) and prominent in Maryland National Guard activities for about 30 years, died yesterday morning in the Bethesda Medical Center where he was admitted July 3.

Mr. Cissel was born at Colesville, Md., a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Cissel, and lived in Montgomery county all of his life. In recent years he resided at 8804 Second Avenue, Silver Spring.

At the outbreak of the First World War he enlisted in the National Guard with Company K, 115th Infantry, 29th Division, and served in France as a lieutenant. Returning to civilian life he resumed his studies at the Georgetown University Law School and was elected state's attorney of Montgomery county a few years following his graduation.

Mr. Cissel organized the Service Company of the National Guard at Silver Spring in 1920 and served as its commander until 1938 when he resigned due to the press of business. When Maryland Guardsmen were reactivated in 1940 he re-enlisted in his old company as a private, but later was assigned to officers' school at Fort Benning and after being transferred to the 33rd Division saw service in the South Pacific to be discharged with the rank of major.

Mr. Cissel was well known and active in Democratic political circles in Western Maryland and also prominent in affairs of the 29th Division Association, Veterans of Foreign Wars and American Legion, being a charter member of the VFW at Silver Spring and one of the founders of Cissel-Saxton American Legion Post.

He served as vice president of the Silver Spring Building and Supply Company from 1943 until several weeks ago when he was elected secretary-treasurer.

Mr. Cissel is survived by his wife, the former Leona (Yarnall) Speelman, formerly of Cumberland, and three children by his former wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Cissel, Silver Spring. They are Mrs. Elizabeth Kelley, Maxwell Field, Alabama, and Mrs. Margaret Sundermann and John C. Cissel, both of Silver Spring. # Dr. Emil Grubbe Receives Recognition For X-Ray Work

CHICAGO (AP) — Recognition is coming more than a half century late for Dr. Emil Grubbe—the man whose pioneer work led to saving or prolonging millions of lives.

Dr. Grubbe now is generally credited by medical science as the founder of x-ray treatments. This research venture cost the 76 year old and still active Chicago physician his left hand, the full use of his right hand and a strip of skin from his upper lip.

As a 20 year old physicist, he used a beam of x-rays to treat a woman cancer patient in Chicago in January, 1896. This was only a few months after Wilhelm Roentgen, a German physicist, discovered that invisible penetrating x-rays could be produced by sending an electrical charge through a vacuum tube.

Roentgen at the time regarded the x-ray as a valuable aid in diagnosis.

Account Is Published

An account of Grubbe's early work and belated recognition was published in Pageant Magazine. The Alumni Association of the now defunct Hahnemann Medical College of Chicago, where Grubbe was an instructor in physics when he treated the first patient with x-rays, announced it is presenting the physician with a special honor award.

Dr. Grubbe will be cited as one of "our greatest medical pioneers."

The Pageant article, written by Herb Bailey, said Grubbe tested the x-ray effect of his vacuum tube with his left hand, suffering disabling but delayed action burns.

"Although the world was rocked with Roentgen's announcement of x-rays as a diagnostic medium, no physician dreamed they would have a curative power. That is not until Professor Grubbe showed his injured hand to the doctors at the Hanemann medical college where he was teaching.

Could Destroy Cancer

"One of the doctors, J. E. Gilman, suggested if the x-rays could wreak such damage to normal tissues, they should also destroy cancer cells. The idea was exciting to Grubbe. He volunteered to test it."

Dr. Grubbe's first x-ray patient, Mrs. Rose Lee, died after treatment, the article said, but her advanced cancer tumor shrank and she remained relatively free from pain.

The young physicist received his M.D. degree two years later and has treated thousands of patients with x-rays since. He has an office on Chicago's north side.

The Pageant article said one reason Dr. Grubbe failed to receive popular recognition was because he was not a doctor at the time and did not have access to medical journals. A Viennese doctor, L. Freund who in 1897 used x-rays to remove superfluous hair sometimes has been credited as the first to apply radiation treatments.

Mirror Of Your Mind

By LAWRENCE GOULD, Consulting Psychologist

Can a mother's love cure eczema?

Answer: Yes, says Dr. Donald H. Williams, Vancouver, B. C. dermatologist. A mother's caresses and expressions of affection are a better cure than any drug in many cases of "allergic eczema" in little children—in fact, the child may be literally "itching for love." For a baby's skin not only is more sensitive than the average adult's; it is a more direct source and vehicle of emotion. The anxiety of a child who feels he is neglected or rejected by his mother may express itself directly in skin irritation which only the calming of his fears will relieve. Some adults react in much the same way.

Is race hatred taught by parents?

Answer: Sometimes, of course but it is even more likely to be induced unintentionally by parental harshness. According to Dr. P. M. Turquet, writing in the British Journal of Medical Psychology, a child who is harshly treated or frustrated and forbidden to express his anger at the people who treat him in that way is likely to take it out on "foreigners" or "strangers" when he grows up. To punish a child who says, "I hate you," when you discipline him may make him a bully or warmonger later, even though he is neither by nature. Dictatorial fathers probably caused Nazi anti-semitism.

Answer: Not essentially, report psychologists Sadi Oppenheim and David Brower in the Psychiatric Quarterly Supplement. Comparison of the findings of the Rorschach ("ink-blot") tests of 35 patients before and after such treatment led to the conclusion that "electric shock therapy in and by itself does not penetrate the deeper strata of the personality of depressed patients," though it makes them more responsive and helps them to think more clearly. Only psychotherapy can reach the real sources of their difficulties, which express deep-lying emotional conflicts.

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK, July 11.—(INS)—Am considering a non-political trip to Spain, so had better brush up on my olive oil.

No known flora or fauna ever bowed into literature more dramatically than the olive. The first recorded mention of the olive is in the biblical story of Noah, and the dove which returned to the ark with an olive twig in its beak.

The olive apparently originated in the countries at the eastern end of the Mediterranean — probably Palestine and Syria. Its first serious culture seems to have been in the land of Canaan.

Phoenecian mariners in all probability carried it to the other countries of the Mediterranean basin, which today are the largest producers of olive oil — Spain, Italy, Tunis, Algeria, French Morocco, Portugal and Greece, the first European country to cultivate the tree. Fellow named Pliny wrote that the Romans obtained the olive tree from the Greeks in the time of Tarquinius Priscus, about 627 B. C., although the tree is believed to have existed in an uncultivated state in Italy before that.

Since antiquity, olive oil has always been the symbol of ease and contentment in living. It was used as a food and condiment by the Greeks and Romans, and Virgil, in a good housekeeping magazine mood, described a Roman of his day making a salad:

"With cautious hand that judges what it spills,

A 2,000 year old cookbook, "De Re Coquinaria," written by Apicius, recommends olive oil as a condiment for such dishes as leucoromus chicken and rose cake. Beg to report have had neither of these dishes for, oh, weeks.

The Romans used olive oil for other purposes. Cato and Varro speak of it as the "oil which comforts man not only within, but without, for it follows us into the bath and gymnasium." Egyptians used it as a sun-tan lotion, a practice that continues.

The process of deriving the oil from the olive has not changed, essentially, since the first drops were squeezed therefrom. It is still the juice of a not-quite-fully-ripe olive.

As in primitive days, the olives, after spraying, are first crushed between weights or rolls. Following this first crushing, the fruit is placed in large cloths or bags made of Esparto grass. The bags are then subjected to a pressure of 300 to 500 pounds per square inch, which extracts most of the juice and the fine, sweet oil called virgin olive oil, which is superior in flavor and quality to that obtained from later pressings.

The second pressing, at 1,500 pounds per square inch pressure, gets the second grade edible oil. The third, a real crush job, produces an oil that is used for industrial purposes.

Centrifugal vats separate the oil from the juice. A spray, atop the fresh oil, quickly dissolves and carries away with it any bitterness. The "vintage" oil, cream of the cream, is not thus treated, however. It is stored and allowed to age like wine.

There are olive oil tasters, like wine authorities. They supervise the blending of oils secured at different seasons of the harvesting period, to produce a uniform quality and taste. They must also consider aroma and color. The best must be "fruity" in scent, and the color of charteuse liqueur.

If olive oil had no other claim to immortality it could at least boast of being more widely and more consistently imitated than any other food product sold to the American consumer. Olive oil has inspired a seemingly tireless search for substitutes.

It retains its hold on the American palate because it remains a bountiful product. The 1951 crop is expected to be the biggest in history. Nothing is as cheap as it was in 1939, but olive oil prices today range from 30 to 40 per cent below the OPA ceilings of World War II, when it did indeed become as rare quantitively as the old Romans considered it qualitatively.

W. Md. Railway Income Rises

Western Maryland Railway estimated its net income for the first half of 1951 at approximately $2,886,000 after taxes and all charges.

This was equal to $16.26 a share on the 177,420 shares of seven per cent cumulative first preferred stock, in arrears as to dividends.

June net income was estimated at $473,000 down slightly from $486,127 for the similar month last year, but ahead of the net figure of $412,025 reported for May, 1951.

Gross operating revenues for the first six months were approximately $24,154,000, an increase of 28 per cent over $18,799,879 for the like period last year.

June gross was estimated at $3,946,000 an increase of 13 per cent over $3,485,269 for the corresponding month of 1950.

Coal revenues for June were down six per cent but other freight revenues were up 27 per cent.

Old Prussian Military Discipline Absent In German Police School

FRANKFURT, Germany — (AP) — The old Prussian military spirit is blissfully absent in Western Germany's new mobile security force.

"Discipline and military education are possible without violating human dignity" is the motto in training schools.

Ten thousand young Germans are being trained to take their place this fall in the Preparedness Police (Beritschaftspolizei). This force is being set up by the Federal and State governments to guard against the threat of Communist infiltration, riot or sabotage.

Certainly their training is a far cry from the rigid barracks life first laid down 200 years ago by Frederick The Great—and followed by every German army and police force since.

"You get the best results with the mildest means," young trainees for the mobile security force are told.

A spirit of comradeship between officers and men is encouraged in the training schools. A German soldier was a subordinate in private life just as in the barracks.

Now the young police trainee simply nods his head when meeting an officer in off duty hours.

Arms Bottleneck Curbing Training For U. S. Troops

STUTTGART, Germany — (AP) — Bottlenecks in armament production in the United States are a temporary curb on realistic battle training for American troops of the defense line in Europe.

Officers of the expanding Seventh Army stationed along the frontier of Soviet-occupied East Germany, say the supply situation, worrisome at present, should vastly improve in a few months.

In simulating wartime conditions, the Seventh Army uses live ammunition during some of its field exercises. Because of the acute needs of U.S. forces in Korea, American ammunition output has largely gone there.

Shipments May Increase

Officers look for ammunition shipments here to increase soon as more factories back home reach their full production stride. The "ration" for training then can be substantially enlarged.

A shortage of Napalm (fire bombs) is also exxpected to be overcome. Until now, reserves here have not been large enough to permit use of Napalm in some field problems.

Communications equipment is another item in short supply among ground forces in Germany. Even so, the Seventh Army's communications are believed much superior to those of Soviet troops on the other side of the frontier.

No shortages are reported in the Army's rolling stock. The supply of tanks, for example, is in satisfactory proportion to present manpower and more will arrive with new divisions.

Two-Fold Mission

The Seventh Army has a two-fold mission under its veteran commander, Lieutenant General Manton S. Eddy, whose victories in the last war ranged from North Africa to the Rhine.

Its first responsibility is to be in combat readiness at all times against possible Soviet attack.

But it is also responsible for taking semi-green divisions from camps at home and giving them a sharp fighting edge.

There is no better way to prepare soldiers for the impact of a shooting war than to make training as realistic as possible. This the Seventh Army intends to do, with close security control to protect the lives of participants, but it's counting on the men and women on the production line back home to help out.

Socialized Medicine Is Now Three Years Old In Britain

LONDON—(AP)— Socialized medicine in Britain is three years old today and still suffering from growing pains.

But politicians of all shades and doctors and patients are agreed on one thing: Free medical service is here to stay.

The only major argument is how baby's growth is to be supervised and directed, and how big her budget should be.

Government-aid medical service in the current fiscal year is costing Britain $1,120,000,000. The figure has risen each year since the first budget allotted $604,800,000 for the last nine months of fiscal 1948-49.

$28 For Each Patient

The budget figure this year adds up to about $28 for each patient.

The Labor Cabinet, which inaugurated and has run the health service, got worried about mounting costs this year and made a bow in the direction of economy by ordering patients to pay half the cost of false teeth and spectacles.

The charges on patients not only have trimmed the budget a bit—they also have deprived comedians, humorists and cartoonists of ammunition for overworked gags about the health service.

The Laborites acknowledge the service is not yet working as smoothly as it should be. But they point out that the enterprise covers about 42,000,000 of Britain's 50,000,000 people and as many as 19,000 of the country's 21,000 general practitioners.

The health service runs almost 3,000 hospitals.

With the health service subject to scrutiny by legislators, newspapers and others, there has been a lot of paper work to account for all the money and medicine.

Doctors Grouse

And it's paper work that the doctors grouse considerably about.

The other doctors' grousings are overwork and underpay.

Negotiations to reduce their caseload and boost the per-patient payment from the treasury are in progress.

The man in the street laughs at some of the foibles of the health service but he concedes that he's glad to be freed from the worry of doctors bills.

The Conservative Party, bitter opponent of other nationalization schemes of the socialist government, would never dream of suggesting that free medical service should be scrapped. That would be political suicide.

The Conservatives say proudly that they had a share in the parenthood since most of the planning for the service was done while they were in the wartime coalition cabinet.

But they feel that they could run it more efficiently and less expensively than the Laborites do.

Bosox Play

with an 8½ game lead over the New York Giants, open a long home stand against the western clubs with a night game against the seventh-place Chicago Cubs while the Giants and Cardinals fight it out for second place.

The rest of tomorrow's program:

Chisox Hold 7-4 Edge

So far this year Chicago has a 7-4 margin in games over Boston in the battle of the Soxes. But three of the Red Sox four victories came in their last series in Boston as the Fenway Flailers began a drive that carried them to 13 victories in 17 games, the last six in a row.

Paul Richards named Saul Rogovin and former Boston flinger Joe Dobson to stop the rampaging Red Sockers. The Red Sox will counter with Mel Parnell and Leo Kiely.

The Yankees, who beat the Indians eight times in eleven attempts during the first half of the season, open a 13-game western tour with "the big fellow," Joe DiMaggio, on the bench and with a rather wobbly pitching staff.

DiMaggio Is Missing

DiMaggio, suffering from a torn leg muscle, was unable to play in the All-Star game. He is expected to be out of action for at least ten days and may not play at all in the west.

Meanwhile Manager Casey Stengel is reported pulling strings in an effort to bring up outfielder Bob Cerv and southpaw pitcher Jerry Wiesler from Kansas City as insurance.

Although history has shown that a big mid-season lead isn't safe in Brooklyn, the Dodgers appear to be in no immediate danger. They have won seven of eleven from the Cubs so far and Manager Chuck Dressen's greatest concern now is over the condition of Andy Pafko's left knee.

Pafko's Knee Injured

Pafko, obtained from the Cubs last month, was hurt the second day he played for the Dodgers. He has been in an out of the lineup and after an examination yesterday of the stubborn swelling behind his knee, he was advised to rest until it subsides.

The Giants, only one game ahead of the Cardinals in the second-place struggle, also have a problem concerning one of their key men. Little Eddie Stanky hasn't been playing well and may be replaced any day by Dave Williams, the $50,000 second-base beauty just brought in from Minneapolis.

Lloyd's Of London Presents $250 Gifts To Calumet Grooms

LEXINGTON, KY., July 11 (AP)—Two Calumet farm grooms are receiving a gift of $250 each from a grateful Lloyd's of London.

The noted insurance firm is presenting Dan Burnette and R. W. Coleman with the gifts for their work in saving the fabulous Citation from possible harm during a van fire.

Big Cy, leading money-winner in the racing world, and stablemates Ponder, 1949 Derby winner, and Two Lea were being vanned from Bay Meadows down the coast in California to Hollywood Park last May when brakes on the van became overheated and caught fire.

Coleman and Burnette stood by the horses to calm them until the blaze was extinguished, averting any possible injury to the horses while the fire-fighting was going on outside the van.

Jurv Trials Granted In Bookmaking Cases

HAGERSTOWN, July 11 (AP) — Jury trials were granted today for three persons arrested last Saturday night in gambling raids.

The trials by jury were granted by Magistrate John Berkson at the request of State's Attorney John S. Hollyday.

The defendants are John Lester Saum, Plaza Restaurant proprietor, James Gray and Bruce McLanahan. Saum and Gray are at liberty on $2,000 bail and McLanahan without bond.

Saum and Gray are charged with bookmaking. McLanahan is accused of hitting police officer Oscar Joseph Plume on the head with a bottle during the raid.

Count Turf To Vie In Travers Stakes

NEW YORK, July 11 (AP)—Trainer Sol Rutchick said today he has abandoned plans to ship Count Turf to Chicago for the $50,000 added Arlington Handicap July 21. Instead the Kentucky Derby winner will be pointed for the $20,000 added Travers Stakes at Saratoga, Aug. 18, said the trainer.

Fred Perry, former British tennis star, now writes a tennis column for a London newspaper.

Method Of Contacting War Prisoners Is Outlined

Families of servicemen believed held prisoner by North Korean or Chinese Communist forces, are being given the following information as to the manner in which mail should be addressed to the servicemen.

Instructions, given by the Maryland Veterans Commission, say to use the name, rank and serial number of the prisoner, followed by the words: Care of Chinese People's Committee for World Peace, Peking, China.

When the above address is used, the commission added, no stamp need be used and the letter may be dropped in any U. S. mailbox.

It should be emphasized that details on captured men have not been reported accurately by the enemy to the International Red Cross. Therefore, the commission continues, it has been necessary to use the following sources of information: The Peking radio, monitored 24 hours a day; the Communist press in this country, carrying names of alleged prisoners; and letters from prisoners to their families.

The unreliability of the first two sources mentioned is obvious.

Four of the 19 men who managed the St. Louis Browns were born in Missouri. They are Harold (Muddy) Ruel, James Burke, George Stovall and John O'Connor.

Marriage Licenses

Ernest Franklin Henderson, 408 Cedar Street, and Evelyn May Youngblood, Magnolia, W. Va.

Glenn Edward Axton and Anita Louise Hixenbaugh, both Fairhope, Pa.

Lonaconing Wins, 6-5

Lonaconing defeated the Hyndman Firemen by the score of 6-5 in a Bi-State Baseball League game yesterday at Hyndman.

After Lonaconing went ahead Hyndman announced it was playing the game under protest, claiming Lonaconing used Joe Scarpelli, an ineligible player.

Hyndman failed to report the game.

The Syracuse Nationals in the National Basketball Association will play in Syracuse's $3,500,000 Onondaga County War Memorial next season.

They are (from left): Janice Palmer, 19, of Olney; Bob Barton, 20, Queen Annes; Barbara Riggs, 19, Gaithersburg, and Glenn McGrady, Jr., 17, Rising Sun. The Maryland team copped the honors during the Royal Agricultural Show earlier this month. Barton said he and the other Free State Judgers had to base their judging on British notions. # Frostburg Holy Name Elects

FROSTBURG — Joseph Struntz Jr. was elected president of the Holy Name Society of St. Michael's Catholic Church at a meeting Tuesday evening in the parish hall.

Other officers named for 1951 include Edward Jackson, vice-president, James E. Coyle, secretary, Thomas Struntz, treasurer, and Donald Wilhelm, marshal. An installation of the officers will be held at the next regular meeting August 14.

Rallying for six runs in the top of the 7th inning, the Lions came from behind to defeat the Exchange Club by the score of 7-5 in a Hot Stove Baseball League thriller yesterday at Community Park.

The victory moved Manager Jim Stevenson's aggregation to within a half-game of the front-running Optimist Club.

Four hits coupled with two walks and an outfield bobble marked the rally that put the game on ice in the final stanza after the Exchange Club had taken a 5-1 lead.

During the explosion Rohe and Long walked and Widdows, Landis, Poling and Gene Rice singled. The latter's blow came with the score tied at 5-5 and scored the winning runs.

Jerry Landis hurled a nice article of ball after relieving Bobby Dawson in the 5th. He struck out six batters, got credit for the win and collected two of his team's seven bingles. Galen McGregor struck out 14 Lions and obtained two of the five hits credited to the Exchange Club.

At Campobello, Ronnie Stickley pitched Manager Mike Robinson's Jaycees to a 3-1 decision over the Times-News tossers who dropped into 5th place in the eight-club circuit.

Stickley held the opposition to five hits, shut them out until the final frame and struck out eight. The Jaycees collected only three hits off Murphy and Grimes.

Clarence "Pooch" Lewis of the Jaycees turned in three sparkling catches in right field while "Hank" Page played a bangup game at third base for the losers. Dick Bittner of the Times-News was the only player to collect two hits. The scores:

Snead Is Choice In Western Open

Tournament Starts Today In Davenport

DAVENPORT, Ia., July 11. (AP)—The tradition-rich Western Open Golf Tournament gets underway here tomorrow and the favorite, of course, is Sam Snead.

Snead, the PGA champion and golf's biggest money winner, is after his third straight western title. If the long hitter from West Virginia gets it, he'll tie the tournament record set by Ralph Guldahl.

The site is the Davenport Country Club.

Big Ralph finished the 1936 tournament with a course record 64 for a 274 total. He retained his championship the next two years. His course record here has held up through the years, but many observers expect it to fall in the next four days.

Snead won his first Western Open at St. Paul in 1949 and followed through in 1950 at Los Angeles.

Nearly all the top professionals except little Ben Hogan, the National Open champ, are here with stout ideas about stopping Snead. First prize is $2,500.

The Country Club course is 6,461 yard and carries a par 70. It is a scenic layout along the Mississippi River. Its fairways have been narrowed and its rough toughened for the open.

Miss Hart, of Coral Gables, Fla., eliminated Joan Godfrey of England, 6-1, 6-0. Miss Fry, of Akron, O., won by the same score over Mrs. E. H. Kenney of England.

Bosox Play Double Bill At Chicago

Yanks At Cleveland Tonight; Brooklyn Opens Home Stand

NEW YORK, July 11 (AP)—Although the National League slugged out a victory in the 1951 major league All-Star game, the American will bounce right back into the spotlight tomorrow when the pennant races are resumed after a three-day intermission.

The four clubs involved in a knockdown battle for the lead in the younger circuit start right off by battling one another.

The Boston Red Sox, hottest team in either league for the past couple of weeks, go into Chicago for a twi-night doubleheader opening a four-game series with the league-leading White Sox. At the same time the champion Yankees, who have slipped to third, open a four-game set in Cleveland with a night game against the fourth-place Indians.

Tribe Trails By Four

Dappers Beat Dans, 12-4, 2,000 See All-Star Game

John Rice's Two-Run Homer Turns Tide In Tilt At Penn Field

Scoring in every inning but the second, the Dappers romped to victory over the Dans by the convincing score of 12-4 in the second annual all-star game of the Little Baseball League, staged last night at Penn Avenue Field before approximately 2,000 spectators.

The Dans succeeded in holding the opposition to a 1-1 draw for two frames but in the third John Rice, Red Sox outfielder, slammed a two-run homer to give the Dappers a lead they never relinquished.

Four pitchers were used by the Dappers whose personnel included members of the Phillies, Athletics, Cardinals, Red Sox, Pirates and Yankees, under the management of Howard "Farmer" Northcraft. Coaches of the winning team were Charley Hornbrook, Bob Collins, John "Joker" Boyle and Jimmy Crawford.

Washington Is Winner

Mike McCullough of the A's started on the peak for the Dappers and he was followed in order by Arthur Washington of the Phillies; Charley Smith of the A's and Ronnie Markley of the Cardinals. Washington got credit for the victory.

Manager Bill Buzzard, who was assisted by Charley Kreitzburg, used five moundsmen, namely, Eddie McKinney, Senators; Gary Wolford, Braves; Robert Paye, Indians; Richard McGann, Tigers, and Frank Valentine, Dodgers. The loss was charged to Wolford.

The Dapper collected 11 hits with John Rice and Charley Smith sharing four of the blows.

Limited To Four Hits

Only four hits were credited to the Dans and they were made by Ronnie Mayo, Roy Lafferty, Gary Wolford and Bob Paye.

Eleven errors were committed by the teams, six being charged against the victors and five against the Dans.

Washington struck out six Dans while McKinney fanned four Dappers.

Bobby Page, of the A's, who played second base for the Dappers, turned in the fielding gem when he fell down making a stop of Beckwith's grounder over second base and tossed out the batter at first base.

Ronald Hymes, Pirates outfielder, who was in the Dappers' lineup, also turned in a nice play in the 5th when he speared a low line drive for the final out with two runners on the paths.

Forty-eight boys participated in the contest, 25 with the Dappers and 23 with the Dans.

Two Title Matches Planned For New York In September

Turpin-Robinson Bout Set Sept. 6; Louis To Face Charles Sept. 26

NEW YORK, July 11 (AP)—Barring upsets and accidents, New York will get the two fistic plums of the year—the return title bouts between Randy Turpin and Ray Robinson and Ezzard Charles and Joe Louis.

Promoter Jim Norris of the International Boxing Club made this clear today as he started working on plans to stage both of these shows in the Polo Grounds in September.

If all goes according to plan, the Turpin-Robinson middleweight title bout will be held Sept. 6 and the Charles-Louis heavyweight championship bout Sept. 26.

Joe Fights On Coast

Louis and Charles both have some action scheduled before their date. The Brown Bomber meets Cesar Brion in San Francisco, Aug. 1, and Charles is slated to defend his crown once more against old Jersey Joe Walcott in Pittsburgh, July 18.

Norris said he first expected to hold the Turpin-Robinson fight on the 26th but that he had been asked by British promoter Jack Solomons to put it on earlier. According to Norris, Solomons wants to stage a show of his own in London, Sept. 25.

There was a report earlier in the day from London which quoted Solomons as saying that the Turpin-Robinson contract provided that the return could be held in either London or New York depending on where the most money could be grossed.

Norris said that wasn't so and that he held iron-clad papers for a New York return.

"We'll put it on here," said Norris, "and it should go over big. Of course that wipes out the proposed Robinson-Rocky Graziano fight for Chicago, Sept. 5."

Robinson Patched Up

In London, Robinson said that he wants the fight to be held in New York. Sugar Ray, who lost the title to the 23-year-old Turpin in an astounding upset last night in London, required ten stitches to patch up a deep gash over his left eye.

He said that he expected the wound to heal up in time to get in the necessary training for the return.

Robinson, who lost his second fight in an 11-year career, said he wasn't properly prepared for his battle with Turpin, who had never gone beyond eight rounds in a bout before.

"You know, I'd had six fights in six weeks and by the time I fought in Italy, I was tired," said Robinson in London. "If there's one thing a boxer needs it's rest and I had been on the go every minute since I got to Europe.

"I don't want to take anything away from Turpin. He's a real nice boy. He's not the best I ever met but he was better than me last night. He beat me, that's all there is to it.

"Maybe I would have lost anyway if I hadn't been running around so much, but at least they would have seen me at my best."

SPORTS SPUTTERINGS

By WALTER L. JOHNS

DETROIT—Casey Stengel was holding court in the press headquarters at the All-Star game here and when Casey holds court you stand by and listen.

Casey's the type of a guy you can't put in words, or, as one writer said, you can't use half the words he says because they wouldn't get by in print.

The boss man of the Yankees and manager of the American League All-Stars talks with gestures which run from pantomine to back-slapping.

In this particular instance, Casey used a highball glass, tinkling it with emphasis as he came forth with the following spiel which rambles just the way old Casey does:

"They got this All-Star system all wrong. . . If a man has two or three good pitchers on his own club that can do the job why should he have to take on several more? . . . I don't need five pitchers to win a ball game if they are good ones. . . . They told me last year that the National Leaguers didn't have anyone to play center field. . . . Just some old guy from the Cardinals. . . . Well sir, I'm telling you that that guy made some catches that really made me believe someone was playing center field for the Nationals.

"Now you talk about the pennant races. . . . I threw my three best pitchers against Boston and they beat us. . . . Any team that can beat my three best is a contender. . . . And don't count Cleveland and Chicago out of it. . . . Those White Sox are getting beat, but not by much. . . . Cleveland's got the best pitching staff of 'em all but not any three good enough to match my three best, Lopat, Raschi and Reynolds. . . . They talk about the other clubs being young ball clubs. . . . Why, I'm playing the goldarnest youngest group you ever did see. . . .

"And they said I quit on that Mickey Mantle guy. . . . $?!(&%$! I did. . . . Sure I benched him for three weeks . . . and then I put him in there against Boston. . . . Now you take that Ted Williams. . . . He hit the doggondest homer you ever did see. . . . It went right over the heads of our guys in the bullpen. . . . But then I put in Mantle and you know what he did? . . . Why, he hit one farther than Williams. . . . That Williams is only a rabbit hitter compared to what that Mantle can do. . . . You writin' guys wrote all kinds of things about him. . . . So he went like a house afire until everybody started to work on him and figure him out. . . . He'll do me some good the rest of the year, too, don't think he won't. . . . Why, that guy has driven in 45 runs and how many guys can you find doing that? . . . If we didn't have him we'd never have been up in first place.

"Now you take that big guy, Walt Dropo. . . . Howinthehell can they send him out to the Coast league after he has hit home some 145 runs? . . . They got a little guy on first base who can figure out where they hit 'em. . . . But can he smack that long ball? Can he bunt? Can he hit 'em where they ain't? . . . Why, if I was to have a guy like Dropo. . . . What do they do? . . . If he doesn't hit they call him a bum. . . . And they pat the other guy on the back when he makes a good play. . . . Yeah, you know why, because of television.

"You guys ought to take a road trip. . . . Boy, what fun. . . . And are they after me. . . . So what am I supposed to do? . . . Yeah, I know we can't win in Boston. . . . But Boston can't win in New York, either. . . . Yeah, I think that Boston gang will hit a hot stride on the road. . . . Shucks, they got more pitchers than they know what to do with.

"So we went into Boston. . . . And one guy wrote a piece and I didn't have time to read it before we played. . . . You know the way we play today. . . . One afternoon game, another at night. . . . Shucks, we're on the go all the time. . . . So when I came back I asked my wife where the paper was and she said she tore it up. . . . But I wanted to read it. . . . But she said the story said I was all right, anyhow. . . . Say, we better go get something to eat."

Layne Favored Over Marciano In Garden Bout

15,000 Are Expected To See Young Heavies In 10-Round Scrap

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK, July 11 (AP)—Rex Layne, the fistic pride of the Rockies, was rated an 8½ to 5 favorite today to hand Rock Marciano his first defeat and thereby earn a heavyweight title shot.

The two sluggers, classed as the best young hopes in the greybeard-dominated heavyweight division, clash in a ten-rounder in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night.

Rex Layne

The prospect of another slugging match like the one put on by Jake La Motta and Irish Bobby Murphy has stirred up the fight faithful and some 15,000 are expected to shell out between $100,000, and $125,000.

This is another no television, no radio show. The 9 p. m. (EST) bout will, however, be theater-cast once again in 11 movie houses in eight cities—Philadelphia, Washington, Baltimore, Albany, N. Y., Chicago, Cleveland, Pittsburgh and Richmond, Va.

Layne expects to tip the scales at 192 pounds and Marciano at 185 when the weigh in at noon tomorrow.

Both Predict KOs

Both are extremely confident and predict knock-out victories. It figures to be that kind of a fight.

"I'll knock him out within seven rounds," said Marciano as he limbered up lightly at this Greenwood Lake Camp.

"I know what Marciano can do and what he can't do," said Layne at Pompton Lakes, N. J.

"And I feel confident I will stop him."

Layne, on the strength of his fine showings against wily Jersey Joe Walcott and belting Bob Satterfield, is the almost unanimous pick of the experts. They like the way the chunky, aggressive youngster outgamed Walcott and the way he picked himself off the floor to stop Satterfield.

Those two fights outweigh anything Marciano has displayed in all of his 35 pro scraps. The likeable, quiet, 26-year-old ex-G. I. from Brockton, Mass., won 30 of his fights by kayos and the other five by decisions.

Layne Has Cement Jaw

His chief claim to face is the split decision he gained over previously undefeated Roland La Starza in the Garden on March 24, 1950. Rocky, a crude boxer with a fair left and a heavy thumping right, has been fighting on the New England circuit against obscure opponents ever since. He hits hard enough to put most fighters out but he has never run into anyone with a cement jaw like Layne's.

The 23-year-old Layne, an ex-GI from Lewiston, Utah, has never been stopped. His record shows 34 wins, one loss, two draws and 24 knockouts.

John Zan of Morgantown has been named to the West Virginia State Athletic Commission and will be in charge of boxing and wrestling in the northern district of the state.

Governor Okey Patteson made the appointment. Other members of the commission are Dr. Ward Wylie, of Mullens, and Dr. B. W. West, of Huntington.

Some of the better boys he has shown here are Denver Welch, "Scotty" Riffle, who was killed in action during the Second World War; Bill Neely, Jimmie Carroll, Johnny Gallo, Woody Boorde, Bill Basso, Frankie Wills, Owen Hamilton, Russ Stoner, Sam McCuskey, Neill Gallagher, Vance Sinclair and Billy Hines.

Zan's boxers made their last appearance here April 5, 1948 in the Amvets' show at the Armory. One of the big upsets recorded that night was Billy Hines' knockout at the hands of Wilbur Lewis of Central City, Pa. It happened in 1:58 of the second round.

A lightning left hook to the head and a sizzling right to the midsection dropped Hines and he rolled across the ring floor like a ball. Billy came up at the count of nine but Lewis put him down for keeps with several terrific lefts to the tummy.

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By DOROTHY MANNERS
(Substituting for Louella Parsons)

HOLLYWOOD, July 11 (INS) — Frank Loesser will write the music for "Hans Christian Andersen" for Sam Goldwyn, ending rumors that Rodgers and Hammerstein were practically set for the score.

To list all of Loesser's credits would take the rest of this column. But the most recent are "Guys And Dolls," the current Broadway hit; "Where's Charlie?" the Ray Bolger perennial, and just a year ago he walked off with the Oscar for "Baby, It's Cold Outside."

All the "credits" on Sam's musical based on the fable writer are sheer class. Moss Hart is doing the screenplay. George Balanchine arrives soon to take over the choreography. And, oh yes—Danny Kaye and Moira Shearer are the stars.

Opera and concert star, Marguerite Piazza, has been holding her two weeks old infant in one hand and a telephone receiver in the other talking to her agent, Paul Small, about an MGM contract.

It's now set for her to be here August 15 to test for a team deal. This will probably throw Metropolitan opera impresario, Rudolf Bing, into another snit. He was so furious over Robert Merrill's coming here for "Aaron Slick From Pumpkin Crick" that he cancelled him out of the Met next season.

—o—

Most Hollywood producers believe that stories about Hollywood make bad movies — the great "A Star Is Born" excepted, of course.

But Wald and Krasna think they have just bought the best Hollywood yarn since the Janet Gaynor-Fredric March hit in "The Way Up," an original by Novelist Alfred Hayes and Columnist Sid Skolsky.

Pretty little English Jean Simmons is scheduled for this as soon as she finishes "Androcles And The Lion" and they couldn't have hit on a more logical choice because the story is about a young English actress who comes to California to crash Hollywood. Now if the heroine would wind up married to Stewart Granger that would be exactly what happened to Jean in Hollywood.

Cary Grant and Betsy Drake have their first child — but hold on, it's just 13-year-old Irish Mann, first of their movie children to be signed for "Room For One More."

Irish is the youngster who was such a hit in "The Innocents" on Broadway last season and hailed by the critics as a truly remarkable child performer.

If Producer Henry Blanke and Director Norman Taurog aren't prejudiced she'll be just as big a click on the screen.

Betty Hutton's youngsters, Lindsay and Candy, will be flower girls at the wedding of Peggy Wright Cobb and Christy Walsh Jr., on August 4. Edith Head is designing the dresses for the kids and the bride.

Jeanette MacDonald and Gene Raymond make their first appearance on TV in New York August 6. Then, Jeanette goes to Europe for three weeks and Gene returns here for more TV.

Mrs. James Bell, who was at the sneak preview of "Quo Vadis" in San Francisco before being rushed to the hospital straight from the theater, is naming the baby "Marcus" in honor of Bob Taylor!

Lloyd Bacon is shooting fast to finish "Golden Girl" now that Mitzi Gaynor is back on the set following a three week layoff with a broken foot.

Dining at the Kings — British actor Robert Newton and the Warner secretary who has captured his heart, Shirley Barri.

It's a boy for the Sterling (Cameraman) Smiths at Methodist Hospital.

Loretta Young's two boys, Pete and Christopher, received miniature Austin racers from Wilbur Shaw in appreciation of Mamma's appearance at the auto races. The cars have everything except motors — much to Loretta's relief.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

LIKELY SCHOOL SITE—Here is an aerial view of what may be the location of West Virginia's new four-year school of medicine, dentistry and nursing. It is the property offered by the Monongalia County Court and is near the West Virginia University campus at Morgantown. To the right, not shown in the picture, is property of the country club. In the foreground are the Monongalia General Hospital, nurses' home, old folks' home and the County Health Center. (AP Photo)

Summer Tie

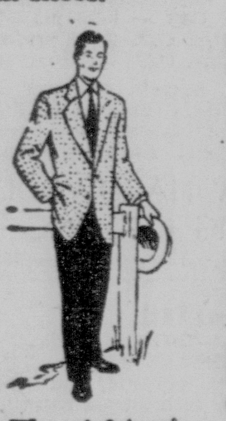
Smart but inexpensive

FASHION: Opera star Igor Gorin (at right) wears cotton ties in the hot weather for comfort and for smart appearance. They're light as a feather and beautifully styled. Inexpensive, too!

Tips to Motorists: Don't neglect the spare when you put air in your tires. . . . When you use a jack, block the tire diagonally opposite the one jacked up. . . . If there's oil on your garage floor, clean it up. Oil rots rubber.

Amateur Chef: Ever try a liverwurst omelette, pancake style? Brown several thin slices in pan before pouring in the egg mix. . . . For a fine melted cheese sandwich, butter the outside of the bread and grill in heavy frying pan. . . . Supply small paint brush for buttering corn at out-of-door meals.

Dress Tips: If a bootblack puts colored powder on your suède shoes, see that it is brushed out well before you wear the shoes with a light suit. . . . Use soap and water for cleaning nylon mesh insets in shoes.



The right mix

Contrasts: Mixing suits is a smart and economical way of stretching a summer wardrobe—but do it correctly. 1. Use single-breasted coats only. 2. Avoid combining two patterned garments. 3. Combine light-colored jacket with darker pants such as blue with gray, brown with tan; white jacket with any color slacks.

Handyman: After you've oiled an electric fan, tie a big paper bag over it and run fan for a few minutes. Bag will catch oil spatters which might otherwise smear your walls. . . . If you inherit the job of putting on shelf paper, shelf edgings, etc.—use a staple-tacker. It's easier than hammer and tacks.

Odd Items: Robert Q. Lewis actually has forty pairs of glasses! Wears 'em to fit different moods. . . . Reader Edith Blanchard challenges you to tell which moving part on an automobile moves the least often. (Answer next week). . . . This week's "Pass The Cigars" to—Rouben Mamoulian who has restaged "Oklahoma!" sixteen times and kept it as fresh and exciting as it was on opening night.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Stock Market Continues Zig-Zag Course—Goes Up

NEW YORK, July 11 (AP)—In the slowest trading in nearly two years, the stock market today continued its zig-zag course—this time upward.

The market in each of the last five sessions has reversed the trend of the previous day.

Today's volume came to only 970,000 shares. That's the lowest full day since Oct. 3, 1949, when 760,000 shares changed hands.

The rail and steel sections were strong and some good advances showed in chemicals, copper mining issues and miscellaneous manufacturers.

Utilities were steady. Motors were mixed, and that went for air lines and aircrafts. Radio-television issues were mostly lower.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks gained 50 cents (exactly the amount it lost yesterday) and stood at $91.20. The industrial component was up 60 cents, rails up 30 cents, and uitilities 20 cents.

The list of individual issues appearing on the tape contracted to 1,046, lowest in nearly six weeks. Of these, 465 advanced and 294 declined with 13 new highs and 23 new lows for the year established.

Radio Corp. was the day's most active issue unchanged at 21 with 15,600 shares traded. It was followed by St. Regis Paper up ½ at 14¼, National Power & Light unchanged at 1, Eastman Kodak up 1¼ at 42⅝ (which touched a new low for the year yesterday), Standard Oil (NJ) up ⅛ at 61¾, and United Gas Corp. up ½ at 20.

Other stocks moving up included Canadian Pacific up ⅜ at 24⅝, New York Central ¼ at 16⅛, Baltimore & Ohio ½ at 17⅜, Missouri Pacific preferred ½ at 22, Western Union ⅞ at 38⅞, American Smelting 1½ at 78⅜, Phelps Dodge 1 at 62¼, General Electric ⅜ at 55¼, Philip Morris 1 at 48¼, H. J. Heinz 1⅝ at 39⅜ (directors declared a 20 per cent common stock dividend), U. S. Steel ½ at 40, and Chrysler ½ at 68½.

A formal report on the operation of this city's smoke control ordinance will be presented to city officials Friday.

Mayor Thomas S. Post said yesterday the report being prepared by George M. Hitchcock, smoke abatement engineer, will be submitted to the council at an executive meeting scheduled at 11 a. m.

Hitchcock was busy yesterday putting the finishing touches on a report on the operation of the ordinance which was adopted here May 19, 1947.

The Council, at its meeting Monday morning, gave Hitchcock until Wednesday to present his report on whether the present law is adequate and if not, what changes are needed to insure enforcement.

What the report will contain was not disclosed by the smoke abatement engineer, but he has made it clear on several occasions that the present ordinance, similar to that used in 62 per cent of the cities which have smoke abatement programs, is a good one.

Will Stand On Record

Informed sources said Hitchcock is expected to tell the Mayor and Council that Cumberland's smoke control ordinance is adequate for the next five years.

Speculating over the report ordered by the council in May on whether the law is workable and what is needed for stricter enforcement they based the conclusion on past statements by Hitchcock in defense of the statute.

In noting that the ordinance is adequate, Hitchcock was expected to point out that the rate of dustfall here since January has consistantly decreased, a condition which the smoke engineer has termed "gratifying results."

The report is expected to note that if this percentage of decrease continues, Cumberland will be cleaner than any other city with a smoke control program by the end of 1951.

Is Standard Law

The Cumberland ordinance is patterned along the lines of those in St. Louis and Pittsburgh and Hitchcock has said that if those large cities are satisfied with results obtained, the law should do the job here.

Hitchcock, it was said, may also note that so far his job has been to work cooperatively with industrial and other smoke-producing firms in an educational program rather than prosecute for violations.

In the past few weeks, the smoke ordinance has come under attack by civic groups and individuals. Two public meetings were held, one with the civic groups and another with representatives of industry.

It was after these meetings that the council asked for the report from Hitchcock to determine if the ordinance is workable, and if not, how it can be made workable and enforced.

1950-51 Surplus Of $84,000 Is Anticipated

The City hopes to have a surplus of about $84,000 from the 1950-51 fiscal year.

Arthur B. Gibson, city auditor, yesterday said the miscellaneous and tax levy surplus is about $50,000 and that it looks like the unexpended appropriations will aggregate about $34,000.

The $84,000 figure, however, will still be $68,000 short of the $152,000 surplus fund the city had on hand to begin the 1950-51 fiscal year.

Make-Believe War Exercises Held By 29th

Virginia Maneuvers Nearing Climax

CAMP PICKETT, Va., July 11 (AP)—The 29th Infantry Division's on-the-field training reached the height of its intensity today as the national guardsmen underwent a make-believe war.

Staff officers and men of the Division's Headquarters began plotting a forward advance against "enemy" forces. Their objective was a sector called Sweetheart Ridge.

Many of the Virginia-Maryland trainees were confident they'd "capture" sweetheart before the end of the 29th's national encampment rolled around Saturday.

While Division Headquarters was mapping the strategy, advance units of the 115th, 116th and 175th Infantry Regiments began working on attack plans after several days of wrangling with defensive problems.

Muggy weather that stirred up dust that settled on faces and uniforms added a realistic touch to the maneuvers.

Some units hopefully posted road signs begging vehicles to roll past at no more than five or ten miles an hour so the dust could be kept down. Some units hauled out water sprinklers, but for the most part they proved futile.

Maj. Gen. William H. Sands, Division Commander, visited the tank unit in the field today at the A. P. Hill Military Reservation near Fredericksburg.

The tankmen were in their third day of firing and movement problems at the sprawling training facility. The tank unit is a West Virginia National Guard outfit.

Tomorrow, uniforms, arms and other equipment are scheduled for cleaning jobs at Camp Pickett. The Blue and Gray Division will break camp Saturday.

Regester Will Prepare Water Project Report

Filtration Plant Expansion Due Soon

A preliminary report on plans for expansion of facilities of the Lake Gordon filtration plant is slated in the near future.

Mayor Thomas S. Post said yesterday that Robert T. Regester, Baltimore engineer, will present recommendations on construction needed to increase facilities of the water treatment plant.

He said the expansion will be undertaken in order to provide an immediate increase of 4,000,000 gallons a day, plus further plans for increasing the treatment facilities to take care of the needs of new industries.

Mayor Post said the city wants work on the 4,000,000 gallon a day expansion program to begin as soon as possible.

City officials, he added, asked Regester, who is also preparing plans for a sewage disposal plant here, to advise it on the water project.

He added that the Baltimore engineer, on a visit here Tuesday, conferred with Water Commissioner George H. Tederick and officials of the Evitts Creek Water Company, and secured maps, plats and drawings of existing facilities.

Mayor Post said the water department has a fund of some $100,000 that may be used for the project and expressed the hope that this surplus would be sufficient to take care of immediate needs of the expansion plan.

The city also has authorization to issue $200,000 in bonds for the water system, but said there are no immediate plans for drawing on that source.

Sharp increases in the use of water during the past year has overtaxed the filtering facilities of the plant at Lake Gordon, which was designed for 12,000,000 gallons a day.

Grocery Firm Named In Suit

A $2,000 damage suit, charging that a can of corn contained a large and decomposed worm, was filed in Allegany County Circuit Court yesterday against the G. D. Kenny Division Consolidated Grocers Corporation.

The suit was filed for Emma Jane Hare through her attorney, Paul M. Fletcher.

In the declaration, the plaintiff set forth that the defendant was engaged in the business of preparing and canning perishable vegetables, including corn, and offered them for sale and distribution from its Cumberland office.

The defendant, through its servants and agents, delivered canned corn to a local grocery in March, the declaration stated. The plaintiff's agent subsequently purchased a can of corn from the South End Market.

Finally, the plaintiff contends that after opening and eating a portion of the contents of the can, she discovered a large and decomposed worm in the corn. This made her ill, she stated.

Bishop Walsh Is Reported Freed By Chinese Reds

Bishop James E. Walsh, of this city, has been freed by the Chinese Reds, Senator Herbert R. O'Conor said the State Department informed him yesterday.

The Communists held Bishop Walsh last month when they ordered the Catholic Central Bureau in Shanghai closed.

The Reds charged that the bureau was blocking the communist campaign to "set up an independent church in China," and was "slandering the Chinese people and spreading reactionary literature."

Bishop Walsh and seven other missionaries were ordered held last month in order to investigate the charges.

The bureau is a centralized advisory board whose activities are similar to that of the National Catholic Welfare Conference in the United States.

Bishop Walsh has been secretary of the bureau for the past two years. Most of his work in the priesthood has been as a missionary in China for the Maryknoll Order.

The son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William E. Walsh of this city, he was the first native American priest to be made a bishop in China.

In the information received from the State Department, Senator O'Conor reported that Bishop Walsh is no longer being held by the Chinese Communists and is not in danger.

Great Poetry And Much Nonsense Are Found In World's Epitaphs

By C. WESLEY BLACKBURN
News Staff Writer

The bright young thing who reported she "just loved to wander through cemeteries and read the epithets on the tombstones" was a little mixed up.

But her interest in the subject was a fairly universal one and many of the great have tried their hand at writing their own epitaphs.

One of the most famous of all American epitaphs was the one suggested by Will Rogers.

"When I die," Will said, "my epitaph or whatever you call those signs on gravestones, is going to read:

> "I joke about every prominent man of my time, but I never met a man I didn't like."

When the United States issued a stamp in honor of the famous humorist in 1948, the adhesive contained the wording, "I never met a man I didn't like."

Franklin Epitaph

The great and good Benjamin Franklin wrote this for himself:

> "The body of Benjamin Franklin, printer, (like the cover of a book, its contents worn out stripped of its lettering and guilding) lies here, food for worms.
>
> "Yet the work itself is not lost, for it will, as he believes, appear once more in a new and more beautiful edition, corrected and amended by the author."

One of the most famous is Shakespeare's, which begins with the lines:

> "Good friend, for Jesus sake forbeare
> To dig the dust enclosed heare . . .".

Inscribed On Grave

Robert Louis Stevenson wrote the lines inscribed on his grave in the Samoan Islands, which begin:

> "Under the wide and starry sky,
> Dig the grave and let me lie,
> Glad did I live and gladly lie,
> And I laid me down with a will."

Alexander Pope, the English poet who did not choose to be buried in Westminster Abbey beside the great of the land, write his own epitaph for his tomb at Twickenham:

> "Heroes and kings your distance keep,
> "In peace let one poor poet sleep.
> Who never flattered folks like you,
> Let Horace blush, and Virgil too."

Mule Is Honored

World War I veterans may recall the inscription on a monument in France marking the grave of an Army mule:

> "In memory of Maggie, who in her time kicked two colonels, four majors, 10 captains, 24 lieutenants, 42 sergeants, 432 men of other ranks and one Mills bomb."

Equaled in eloquence only by some of the great phrases of the Bible is Seneca's epitaph for a group of Roman soldiers who were trapped and killed from ambush:

> "The three hundred Fabiae were not defeated; they were only killed."

Thomas Fuller wrote a dandy for his tomb:

> "Fuller's earth."

Dorothy Parker used three words:

> "Excuse my dust."

A wag suggested this one for a dentist:

> "When on this tomb you gaze with gravity, cheer up! I'm filling my last cavity."

Every time the commies move in to protect the rights of "people's governments" throughout the world, it brings to mind an epitaph someone suggested years ago for Hitler:

> "This is my last territorial demand."

They also tell the story of the hardened French criminal who had tatooed on his neck:

Bargains Are Galore During Cumberland's Dollar Days

Today is Dollar Day for Cumberland and the Tri-State Area.

Most of the city's merchants are participating in the semi-annual "Dollar Days" sale which opens [illegible] and continues through Saturday.

Regular store hours will be observed. Today and Friday, stores will be open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and on Saturday from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., L. V. Shinnamon, vice-chairman of the Mercantile Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce, said.

Each participating merchant will have "Dollar Days" signs displayed in show windows and store to guide buyers to the bargains being offered during the sale, Shinnamon said.

These values have taken on added significance because of the early date of the sale, it was stated. Usually, the summer sale does not come until the last of July.

"With the earlier date, stocks are mostly new," Shinnamon said. "The sale coming so early in the season puts especial emphasis on summer materials. However, year - around displays of merchandise will come under price slashing.

"Selections of merchandise are good and especially priced. In many cases, manufacturers have made special concessions to give patrons of stores here outstanding bargains," Shinnamon concluded.
